

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

VIA AIR MAIL

PREFACE

The purpose of issuing this work as a supplementary volume was to preserve the value of Volumes 1 and 2, Revised Laws of Nevada, and Nevada Digest Annotated, both of which works were published in 1912, and are owned by nearly every lawyer of this State.

It would have been an easier task to prepare a new compilation and digest separately, but this would have involved the expenditure of, in the aggregate, a large sum of money by the legal fraternity in purchasing such new works.

More than a year of patient work has been devoted to the preparation of the material herein contained, and the compilers hope that their efforts will be appreciated.

The work contains all of the laws of a general nature contained in the Statutes of Nevada for 1913, 1915, 1917, and 1919, arranged alphabetically under the topics to which they properly belong.

The exact text of every section contained in Volumes 1 and 2, Revised Laws of Nevada, which has been amended is set forth under the old section-number in this volume.

Every section and act of said Volumes 1 and 2 which have been expressly repealed are shown by reference to the book and page repealing the same. For convenience in use, all references to reported cases have been translated into Reporter paging.

The Digest covers the volumes shown on the title-page thereof, and to make them more accessible the digest of Federal Cases originating in Nevada is included therein.

The Citations of Nevada Cases cover the same period of time.

No attempt has been made to segregate these Citations of Nevada Cases, for the reason that they are few in number for each particular case, and it is believed that each attorney using them would prefer to form his own judgment as to the value of each citation.

The work, being arranged alphabetically, with the exception of Civil Practice, Crimes and Punishments, Criminal Practice, Courts and Court Officers, and State Prison and Jails, is really an index in itself, but in the index a short title of each new Act is set forth under its proper heading and thereunder the subheads of each such new Act are alphabetically arranged.

The thanks of the compilers are due for many valuable suggestions and assistance in the preparation of this work to Joe Farnsworth, State Printer, Will U. Mackey, Foreman, of the State Printing Office, Mrs. Marion G. Bowen, and many lawyers of the State.

Hoping that their efforts will be appreciated by the members of the legal fraternity, this work is respectfully submitted to them for their use.

RULES OF THE
SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

Adopted March 15, 1920. Effective July 1, 1920

RULE I

1. Attorneys and Counselors—Applicants for license to practice as attorneys and counselors will be examined in open court on the first day of each term, or by a committee as hereinafter provided.

2. Affidavit of Applicants—Applicants must, at least forty-five days before the date of examination, file with the clerk of the court an affidavit in duplicate, one copy to remain on file and the other to be transmitted to the secretary of the State Bar Association, stating:

- (a) When and where the applicant was born, the various places of his residence, and giving at least two references in each place in which he has resided since attaining the age of 21 years.
- (b) Whether or not he has been engaged in business at any time; and, if so, when, where, and the kind of business.
- (c) The names and postoffice address of all persons by whom the applicant has been employed, for a period of five years immediately preceding the making of his application.
- (d) The applicant's general and legal education, what schools he has attended, the length of time in attendance at each, and whether or not he is a graduate of any school or schools.
- (e) Whether or not applicant has ever applied to any court for admission. If so, when and where and the result thereof.
- (f) If applicant has been licensed to practice law, whether any disbarment or other proceedings of a like nature have ever been instituted against him. If so, when and where such proceedings were instituted, and the particulars.
- (g) If a naturalized citizen, when and where naturalized.
- (h) How long applicant has resided in the State of Nevada; whether he is a bona-fide resident, or whether he came into the state for the sole purpose of being admitted to practice law.

3. Examination to Embrace—The examination shall embrace the following subjects:

1. Course and duration of the applicant's studies.
2. The history of this state and of the United States.
3. The constitutional relations of the state and federal governments.
4. The jurisdiction of the various courts of this state and of the United States.
5. The various sources of our municipal law.
6. The general principles of the common law relating to property and personal rights and obligations.
7. The general grounds of equity jurisdiction and principles of equity jurisprudence.
8. Rules and principles of pleadings and evidence.
9. Practice under the civil and criminal codes of Nevada.
10. Remedies in hypothetical cases.
11. Legal ethics.

4. Examination by Committee—Upon the recommendation of the district judge of any judicial district, the supreme court may appoint a committee to examine persons applying for admission to practice as attorneys and counselors at law. Such committee shall consist of the district judge and at least two attorneys, residents of the district.

RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT

The committee so appointed shall conduct a written examination of the applicants, the questions and answers to be reduced to writing.

No intimation of the questions to be asked shall be given any applicant.

5. Report of Committee—When the examination has been completed and reduced to writing, the examiners will return it to this court, accompanied by their certificate showing whether or not the applicant is of good moral character and has attained his majority, and is a bona-fide resident of this state. Such certificate shall also contain the facts that the applicant was examined in the presence of the committee; that he had no knowledge or intimation of the nature of any of the questions to be propounded to him before the same were asked by the committee, and that the answers to each and all of the questions were taken down as given by the applicant without reference to any books or other outside aid.

6. Admission of Attorneys from Other Jurisdictions—~~No member of the bar of a sister state or foreign country shall be licensed to practice law in this state, except upon presentation of a certificate of the clerk of the court in the state or foreign country in which the applicant last practiced, certifying that the applicant is a member in good standing of the bar of that state or foreign country, and that no disbarment or other proceedings affecting his standing as an attorney are pending and undisposed of before the court; which certificate shall be supplemented by a letter from the secretary of the local bar association of the city or county in which such applicant last resided (or in case there be no local bar association, from the secretary of the state bar association), certifying to his good moral character, and by a letter of recommendation from the judge of the court of record before which he last practiced, together with such other evidence of good moral character and fitness as may be required by the court; provided, that no practitioner shall be licensed to practice in this state without examination, unless attorneys who have been licensed to practice in this state are licensed to practice without examination in the state from which the applicant holds his license; and provided, further, that in no event shall members of the bar of a sister state or foreign country which does not require an examination as to legal qualifications of an applicant as a prerequisite for admission to the bar receive a license to practice law in this state, except upon taking the regular examination as to his qualifications; and provided, further, that in no event shall a member of the bar of a sister state or foreign country where the common law of England is not the basis of its jurisprudence be licensed to practice law in this state without taking an examination as to his qualifications; and provided, further, that no member of the bar of a sister state or foreign country shall be licensed to practice law in this state, except upon taking the regular examination as to his qualifications, unless at the time of his application for license he shall be an actual, bona-fide resident of this state. This proviso, however, is not intended to prevent any court of this state from permitting a member of the bar of a sister state or foreign country to appear and act as counsel in a particular case or matter before such court.~~

~~The requirements as to credentials may be waived by the court in the case of an applicant whose worth and fitness are well known to the justices of the court.~~

7. Fee To Be Deposited Before Examination—The fee of thirty-five dollars for license must in all cases be deposited with the clerk of the court before the examination, to be returned to the applicant in case of rejection.

8. Oath—In addition to the constitutional oath or affirmation, an attorney, before being admitted to practice, shall subscribe to the following:

That he will maintain the respect due to courts of justice and judicial officers; that he will counsel and maintain only such actions, proceedings, and defenses as appear to him legal and just, except the defense of a person charged with a public offense; that he will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to him such means only as are consistent with truth, and will never seek to mislead the judge by any artifice or false statement of facts or law; that he will maintain inviolate, and at every peril to himself preserve, the secrets of his client; that he will abstain from all offensive personalities, and advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a party or witness, unless required by the justice of the cause with which he is charged; and that he will never reject, from any consideration personal to himself, the cause of the defenseless or oppressed.

RULE II

Filing Transcript—The transcript of the record on appeal shall be filed within thirty days after the appeal has been perfected, and the bill of exceptions, if there be one, has been settled. [Old Rule II as changed.]

Skaggs v. Bridgman, 39 Nev. 310; Miller v. Walser, 42 Nev. 497.

RULE III

1. Appeal May Be Dismissed—If the transcript of the record be not filed within the time prescribed by Rule II, the appeal may be dismissed on motion without notice. On such motion there shall be presented the certificate of the clerk below, under the seal of the court, certifying the amount or character of the judgment; the date of its rendition; the fact and date of the filing of the notice of appeal, together with the fact and date of service thereof on the adverse party, and the character of the evidence by which said service appears; the fact and date of the filing of the undertaking on appeal, and that the same is in due form; the fact and time of the settlement of the bill of exceptions, if there be one; and also that the appellant has received a duly certified transcript of the record; or that he has not requested the clerk to certify to a correct transcript of the record; or, if he has made such request, that he has not paid the fees therefor, if the same have been demanded. The appeal may also be dismissed, upon good cause shown, on notice to the opposite party.

2. May Be Restored—A cause dismissed without notice may be restored during the same term, upon good cause shown, on notice to the opposite party.

3. Unless Restored, Dismissal a Bar—Unless restored, the dismissal shall be final and a bar to any other appeal from the same order or judgment.

RULE IV

1. Printed Transcripts—All transcripts of record in civil cases, when printed, shall be printed on unruled white paper, ten inches long by seven inches wide, with a margin on the outer edge of not less than one inch. The printed page shall not be less than seven inches long and three and one-half inches wide. The folios, embracing ten lines each, shall be numbered from the commencement to the end, and the numbering of the folios shall be printed between lines or on the margin. Nothing smaller than minion (7-point) type leaded shall be used in printing.

2. Transcripts in Criminal Cases—Transcripts in criminal cases may be printed in like manner as prescribed for civil cases.

3. Transcripts May Be Typewritten—To Be Bound in Boards, with Flexible Backs—All transcripts of the record in any action or proceeding may be typewritten. The typewriting shall be the first impression, clearly and legibly done, with best quality of black ink, in type not smaller than small pica, upon a good quality of typewriting paper, thirteen inches long by eight inches wide, bound in boards with flexible backs, in volumes of a size suitable for convenient handling and ready reference, and arranged and indexed as required by the rules of this court. When so typewritten, such transcript, in the discretion of the party appealing, need not be printed, but, if printed, all the rules concerning the same shall still apply thereto. [This was subdivision 1 of old Rule XXV.]

4. To Be Indexed—The pleadings, proceedings, and bill of exceptions shall be chronologically arranged in the transcript, and each transcript shall be prefaced with an alphabetical index, specifying the folio of each separate paper, order, or proceeding, and of the testimony of each witness; and the transcript shall have at least one blank fly-sheet cover. [This was subdivision 3 of former Rule IV.]

5. Record Not Conforming to Rules May Be Struck Out on Motion—Any record which fails to conform to these rules may, upon motion and good cause shown, be ordered to be struck from the files.

Robinson v. Kind, 25 Nev. 274.

RULE V

Printing Transcripts—The written transcript in civil causes, together with sufficient funds to pay for the printing of the same, may be transmitted to the clerk of this court. The clerk, upon the receipt thereof shall file the same and cause the transcript to be printed, and to a printed copy shall annex his certificate that the said printed transcript is a full and correct copy of the transcript furnished to him by the party; and said certificate shall be prima facie evidence that the same is correct. The said printed copy so certified shall also be filed, and constitute the record of the cause in this court, subject to be corrected by reference to the written transcript on file.

RULE VI

1. Cost of Typewriting or Printing Transcripts—The expense of printing or typewriting transcripts, affidavits, briefs, or other papers on appeal in civil causes, and pleadings, affidavits, briefs, or other papers constituting the record in original proceedings upon which the case is heard in this court, required by these rules to be printed or typewritten, shall be allowed as costs, and taxed in bills of costs in the usual mode; provided, that no greater amount than fifteen cents per folio of one hundred words, and for one copy only, shall be taxed as costs for either printing or typewriting; all other costs to be taxed by the clerk in accordance with the fee bill.

Brandon v. West, 28 Nev. 500; Richards v. Vermilyea, 42 Nev. 294; State v. Sadler, 25 Nev. 134.

2. To Serve Cost Bill, When—Either party desiring to recover as costs his expenses for printing or typewriting in any cause in this court shall, within five days after the publication or notice of the decision of the cause, file with the clerk and serve upon the opposite party a verified cost bill, setting forth or stating the actual cost of such printing or typewriting, and no greater amount than such actual cost shall be taxed as costs.

Candler v. Ditch Co., 28 Nev. 422; Zelavin v. Mining Co., 41 Nev. 1.

3. Mode of Objecting to Costs—If either party desires to object to the costs claimed by the opposite party, he shall, within ten days after the service upon him of a copy of the cost bill, file with the clerk and serve his objections. Said objections shall be heard and settled and the costs taxed by the clerk. An appeal may be taken from the decision of the clerk, either by written notice of five days, or orally and instant, to the justices of this court, and the decision of such justices shall be final. If there be no objections to the costs claimed by the party entitled thereto, they shall be taxed as claimed in his cost bill.

In Re Hartung's Estate, 39 Nev. 219; State v. Sadler, 25 Nev. 134.

Query: Can cost bill be amended? State v. District Court, 26 Nev. 253.

4. Indorsed Upon Remittitur—In all cases where a remittitur or other final order is sent to a district court or other inferior tribunal, the costs of the party entitled thereto as taxed by the clerk shall be indorsed upon such remittitur or order, and shall be collected as other costs in such district court, or other inferior court or tribunal, and shall not be subject to retaxation in such district court or other tribunal.

RULE VII

To Correct Error in Transcript—For the purpose of correcting any error or defect in the transcript from the court below, either party may suggest the same, in writing, to this court, and, upon good cause shown, obtain an order that the proper clerk certify to the whole or part of the record as may be required, or may produce the same, duly certified, without such order. If the attorney of the adverse party be absent, or the fact of the alleged error or defect be disputed, the suggestion, except when a certified copy is produced at the time, must be accompanied by an affidavit showing the existence of the error or defect alleged.

State v. Bouton, 26 Nev. 34, 39; Christensen v. Floriston P. Co., 29 Nev. 552; Kirman v. Johnson, 30 Nev. 150; State v. Hill, 32 Nev. 187; Botsford v. Van Riper, 32 Nev. 214.

RULE VIII

Exceptions—Diminution of Record—Exceptions or objections to the transcript, bill of exceptions, the undertaking on appeal, notice of appeal or to its service or proof of service, or any technical exception or objection to the record affecting the right of appellant to be heard on the points of error assigned, which might be cured on suggestion of diminution of the record, must be taken at the first term after the transcript is filed, and must be noted in the written or the printed points of the respondent, and filed at least one day before the argument, or they will not be regarded.

Alderson v. Gilmore, 13 Nev. 85; State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 203, 209, 210; Truckee Lodge v. Wood, 14 Nev. 310; Brooks v. Nevada Nickel Syndicate, 24 Nev. 264, 271; State ex rel. Launiza v. Justice Court, 29 Nev. 192, 200; Smith v. Wells Estate Co., 29 Nev. 411, 416; Kirman v. Johnson, 30 Nev. 146, 150; State v. Hill, 32 Nev. 185, 187; Botsford v. Van Riper, 32 Nev. 214, 225; Skaggs v. Bridgman, 39 Nev. 310; Zelavin v. Tonopah Development Co., 41 Nev. 1. See Section 5358, Rev. Laws 1912.

RULE IX

Substitution in Case of Death—Upon the death or other disability of a party pending an appeal, his representative shall be substituted in the suit by suggestion in writing to the court on the part of such representative, or any party on the record. Upon the entry of such suggestion, an order of substitution shall be made and the cause shall proceed as in other cases.

Robinson v. Kind, 25 Nev. 278; Twaddle v. Winters, 29 Nev. 89.

RULE X

1. Calendar—The calendar of each term shall consist only of those cases in which the transcript shall have been filed on or before the first day of the term, unless by written consent of the parties; provided, that all cases, both civil and criminal, in which the appeal has been perfected and the bill of exceptions settled, as provided in Rule II, and the transcript has not been filed before the first day of the term, may be placed on the calendar, on motion of either party, after ten days' written notice of such motion, and upon filing the transcript.

2. Causes shall be placed on the calendar in the order in which the transcripts are filed by the clerk.

3. The calendar shall be called on the first day of each term and cases set for oral argument upon a day certain, upon request of counsel upon either side of the case, or upon stipulation, subject to the approval of the court. Requests for settings may be made by counsel in open court or by written communication addressed to the clerk. Upon stipulation of counsel, subject to the approval of the court, cases may be submitted on briefs filed without oral argument. Where no request is made by stipulation or otherwise for the setting of a case, the same may be passed or be set by the court of its own motion.

RULE XI

1. Time for Appellant to Serve Brief—Respondent—Within fifteen days after the filing of the transcript on appeal in any case, the appellant shall file and serve his points and authorities or brief; and within fifteen days after the service of appellant's points and authorities or brief, respondent shall file and serve his points and authorities or brief; and within fifteen days thereafter, appellant shall file and serve his points and authorities or brief in reply, after which the case may be argued orally.

For failure to comply with the above rule, judgment may be affirmed: Goodhue v. Shedd, 17 Nev. 140; Gardner v. Pacific Power Co., 40 Nev. 343.

But see: Smith v. Wells, 29 Nev. 415; Adams v. Rogers, 31 Nev. 161.

Errors assigned, but not briefed or orally argued, waived: Candler v. Ditch Co., 28 Nev. 164. See, also, 94 Atl. Rep. 501; 109 N. E. 365; 92 Pac. 401; 72 Pac. 607; 94 Pac. 452.

Failure of respondent to file brief, see: Durant Nat. Bank v. Cummins, 148 Pac. 1022.

It has been held that court loses jurisdiction to grant rehearing where petition is filed after remittitur issues: Fischer v. Lukens, 178 Pac. 302.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

113. Rev. Laws, 3890-3894, making it unlawful for any itinerant merchant or peddler to offer goods for sale without first obtaining a license, violates this section. Ex Parte Taylor and Rounds, 35 Nev. 507 (131 P. 133).

While, under the commerce clause of the federal constitution, a state may not tax the privilege or act of engaging in interstate commerce, it can tax the carrier's property within the state though chiefly employed in such commerce. Wells, Fargo & Co. v. State of Nevada, 39 S. C. R. 62.

160. Rev. Laws, 3890-3894, making it unlawful for any itinerant merchant or peddler to offer goods for sale without first obtaining a license, violates the fourteenth amendment and this section. Ex Parte Taylor and Rounds, 35 Nev. 507 (131 P. 133).

A statute of a state which provides that where, at the time of the accrual of a cause for divorce, the parties shall not be both bona-fide residents, no court shall grant a divorce, unless either party shall have been a bona-fide resident for not less than one year next preceding the bringing of the action, does not violate this section; there being a distinction between citizenship and residence and the rights of citizens and residents, and the constitution guaranteeing no rights to citizens as to divorce. Worthington v. District Court, 37 Nev. 214, 218, 243 (142 P. 230, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1097, L. R. A. 1916A, 696).

181. Despite the constitutional amendment depriving the federal courts of jurisdiction of a suit against a state by a private individual, the federal courts may take jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin state or county officers from illegal exactions under color of state tax statutes. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton, 235 F. 317, 321.

Rev. Laws, 3890-3894, making it unlawful for any itinerant merchant or peddler to offer for sale goods without first obtaining a license, violates this section. Ex Parte Taylor and Rounds, 35 Nev. 507 (131 P. 133).

Rev. Laws, 5652, is not unconstitutional, since the legislature has power to enact laws to promote healthful conditions of work or freedom from undue oppression; and a contract which the state, in the legitimate exercise of its police power, has the right to prohibit is not within the protection of this section, prohibiting the states from depriving any person of liberty or property without due process of law. Lawson v. Halifax-Tonopah Mining Co., 36 Nev. 600, 604, 605, 608 (135 P. 611; 138 P. 261, Aff. 239 U. S. 632).

Rev. Laws, 5838, as amended, provides for a classification of nonresidents at the time of the accrual of the cause of action for divorce, and the classification is reasonable and does not conflict with this section. Worthington v. District Court, 37 Nev. 213, 218 (142 P. 230, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1097 L. R. A. 1916A, 696).

The provisions of sections 18 to 51, inclusive, do not contemplate the deprivation of property without due process of law; they contemplate the securing to water users their rights, not the taking of the same away. For purposes of administration the enjoyment of such rights may be affected, but only after notice and hearing, and the right to adjudication by the courts is not taken away. Ormsby County v. Kearney, 37 Nev. 314, 341, 368 (142 P. 803).

Due process of law is not limited to judicial proceedings, but also comprehends determinations by administrative officers or boards where notice and a hearing are provided. Id.

The water law, Stats. 1913, 192, as amended by Stats. 1915, 378, providing that, subject to existing rights, the water of all sources of supply belongs to the public, providing for the appointment of a state engineer, to whom application may be made to appropriate any unappropriated water in a public stream, etc., and providing that the state engineer, on his own initiative, or on application of one or more users of water of any stream, may make an order for the determination of the relative rights of the water users, there being provision for notice, etc., is not violative of this section, prohibiting the taking of property without due process of law. Vineyard Land and Stock Co. v. District Court, 42 Nev. 249 (171 P. 172, 177, 180).

Cited, Parus v. District Court, 42 Nev. 236, 253 (174 P. 708, 713, 714).

Section 7 of the prohibition act, Stats. 1919, 1, held not violative of the guaranties of this section as to abridging privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, due process, and equal protection. Ex Parte Zwissig, 42 Nev. 360, 366, 368 (178 P. 20, 21, 22).

Cited, State v. Tax Commission, 38 Nev. 114 (145 P. 905).

Cited, Gay v. District Court, 41 Nev. 347 (171 P. 156).

Stats. 1915, 155, adding sec. 375½ to crimes and punishments act, providing that it shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession any hide from which the ears have been removed or the brand obliterated deprives the person of his property without due process of law against the guaranties of this section. Park v. State, 42 Nev. 386, 390, 394 (178 P. 390, 392).

Stats. 1903, 207, sec. 1, which provides that "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to make or enter into any agreement, either oral or in writing, by the terms of which any employee of such person, firm or corporation, or any person about to enter the employ of such person, firm, or corporation as a condition for continuing or obtaining such employment shall promise or agree not to become or continue a member of a labor organization, or which promise or agree to become or continue a member of a labor organization," deprives the employer of the liberty to contract as to matters which may be vital to him, and therefore is invalid under the constitutional provision that "no one shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law." Goldfield Con. Mines Co. v. Goldfield Miners' Union, 159 F. 501, 513-516.

A constructive agreement by a corporation doing business in a state to submit to a void or illegal statute prescribing a mode of serving process, which denies due process of law, cannot be founded on anything less than actual knowledge of the statute, as the presumption that every man knows the law does not hold him to a knowledge of statutes which for any reason are illegal or void. King Tonopah Mining Co. v. Lynch, 232 F. 485, 486, 491, 492.

A method of service of process, though prescribed by state statute is not sufficient, if it does not amount to due process of law.

Id.

A state may not, by prescribing what shall constitute due process of law, subtract anything from the right recognized and established as due process in the federal constitution. Id.

While a state has no power over a non-resident and absent owner, it has complete jurisdiction over his property within its borders, subject to the constitutional restriction that property cannot be taken from its owner except after due process of law, and hence may provide for constructive service by means of which judgment may be obtained and satisfied out of the property in the state belonging to the absent defendant. Id.

The fundamental requisites of "due process of law" are notice and opportunity to be heard. Id.

The use of a water-distributing plant is itself "property" and is protected against confiscation by the constitution. Goldfield Con. Water Co. v. Public Service Commission, 236 F. 979, 981.

The provision of the Nevada water law (Stats. 1913, 192, as amended by Stats. 1915, 378) for notice and hearing, with the right to file exceptions to the determination of the state engineer, even by those who fail or refuse to appear or submit evidence, are sufficient to constitute due process of law, and the act is otherwise constitutional. Bergman v. Kearney, 241 F. 885.

There is no want of due process within the fourteenth amendment because valuation by board for taxation being without notice to property owner; the mode of enforcing the tax under these sections being but a judicial proceeding wherein process issues and an opportunity is afforded for a full hearing, and payment being enforced only after there is a judgment sustaining the tax. Wells, Fargo & Co. v. State of Nevada, 39 S. C. R. 62, 63.

The provisions of sections 18 to 51 of the water law, inclusive, do not contemplate the deprivation of property without due process of law; they contemplate the securing to water users their rights, not the taking of the same away. For purposes of administration the enjoyment of such rights may be affected, but only after notice and hearing, and the right to adjudication by the courts is not taken away. Ormsby County v. Kearney, 37 Nev. 314, 341 (142 P. 803).

The privilege of accused under this section, to appear in person or with counsel, may be waived, and, once waived, a judgment will not be reversed because the court at a later date refused to grant a continuance so that counsel might be employed unless the refusal was an abuse of discretion. State v. MacKinnon, 41 Nev. 187, 192 (168 P. 330).

Water law, Stats. 1913, 192, as amended by Stats. 1915, 378, is not unconstitutional, as permitting a taking of property without due process of law, in that, should an interested party fail to file objections, to the determination of the state engineer as to water rights, with the clerk of the district court in which the engineer files a copy of his order of determination, and the court enters a decree in accordance with such order, such decree will be tantamount to a taking of property without due process. Vineyard Land and Stock Co. v. District Court, 42 Nev. 2, 23, 28, 42, 49, 57 (171 P. 173, 177, 180, 183).

Under this section, women, being "qualified electors," may serve on the grand jury. Parus v. District Court, 42 Nev. 229, 232, 252 (174 P. 707, 713).

Stats. 1915, 155, amending the crimes and punishments act, by adding thereto section 375½ providing that it shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession any hide from which the ears have been removed, or the brand obliterated, deprives a person of his property without due process of law against the guaranties of this section. Park v. State, 42 Nev. 386, 394 (178 P. 392).

Stats. 1903, 207, deprives the employer of the liberty to contract as to matters which may be vital to him, and therefore is invalid under this section. Goldfield Con. Mines Co. v. Goldfield Miners' Union, 159 F. 501, 514.

252. Stats. 1917, 385, sec. 101, providing for taking of votes of electors in the military service of the United States, is a compliance with this section, and is not void for discrimination against electors in the naval service, or conscripted men in the military service, since "military service" includes every branch of service in either the army or the navy of the United States. Maclean v. Brodigan, 41 Nev. 477, 479 (172 P. 375).

257. Proposed amendment to this article, by adding section 9 thereto, as set forth at bottom of page 72, was adopted by the people at the general election of 1912.

The provisions generally of sections 18 to 51, inclusive, of the water law of 1913 (Stats. 1913, 192), considered for purposes of administration, are not violative of this section, dividing the state government into three coordinate departments. Ormsby County v. Kearney, 37 Nev. 315, 316, 341, 357, 361, 369, 384, 385, 392 (142 P. 803).

This section, providing that none of the three departments of government shall exercise functions belonging to the others except where expressly directed, makes it plain that the district court could be delegated powers other than those expressly mentioned by article 6, section 6, of the constitution. Gay v. District Court, 41 Nev. 330, 342 (171 P. 156).

The water law, Stats. 1913, 192, as amended by Stats. 1915, 378, providing that, subject to existing rights, the water of all sources of supply belongs to the public, providing for the appointment of a state engineer to whom application may be made to appropriate any unappropriated water in a public stream, etc., and providing that the state engineer, on his own initiative, or on application of any one or more users of water of any stream, may make an order for the determination of the relative rights of the water users, there being provision for notice, is not violative of this section. Vineyard Land and Stock Co. v. District Court, 42 Nev. 2, 27, 28, 42, 62 (171 P. 173, 177, 180).

Vacancies, how filled.

270. SEC. 12. In case of the death or resignation of any member of the legislature, either senator or assemblyman, the county commissioners of the county from which such member was elected shall appoint a person of the same political party as the party which elected such senator or assemblyman to fill such vacancy; provided, that this section shall apply only in cases where no general election takes place between the time of such death or resignation and the next succeeding session of the legislature.

[Proposed and passed at the Twenty-ninth Session of the Legislature, Statutes of 1919, page 478.]

275. Rev. Laws, 3457, 3458, making it unlawful to keep a house of ill-fame within 800 yards of a schoolhouse, etc., is not unconstitutional under this section, as embracing matter not covered by the title, "An act concerning public schools and repealing certain acts relating thereto." Ex Parte Ah Pah, 34 Nev. 283-285 (119 P. 770).

Cited, State ex rel. Pacific Reclamation Co. v. Ducker, 35 Nev. 221 (127 P. 990).

Stats. 1911, 183, the public school act, section 135 of which provided for a tax for the support of the public schools, was not void for embracing a subject not included in the title, contrary to this section. State ex rel. Eggers v. Esser, 35 Nev. 429, 435 (129 P. 557).

Provisions in a general appropriation act for the support of the state government, providing for repeals or amendments, of the existing general laws of the state, would be unconstitutional and void as contrary to the provisions of this section. State ex rel. Abel v. Eggers, 36 Nev. 372, 375 (136 P. 100).

The title of an act entitled "An act relating to marriage and divorce" is sufficient within this section to justify provisions in the body of the act prescribing the length of residence required before parties may apply for divorce. Notwithstanding this section, a statute may contain several provisions, provided they relate to the subject expressed in the title or are properly connected therewith. Worthington v. Dis-

Under this section it was held that provisions for hearing and determination by the state engineer are not in violation of the state constitution, as conferring judicial power on an administrative officer since his determination has none of the finality of a judgment, but is merely a preliminary step in the proceeding which culminates in a final decree of the district court. Bergman v. Kearney, 241 F. 885, 896.

266. Under sec. 2, Stats. 1913, 169, creating a board of directors for the state for certain expositions, whose duty it shall be to employ superintendents, clerks and other persons, the position occupied by a superintendent so employed was not an "office" within this section. State ex rel. Kendall v. Cole, 38 Nev. 215, 218, 237, 240, 242, 243, 244, 245 (148 P. 551).

Under this section, Rev. Laws, 1513, was constitutional. McBride v. Griswold, 38 Nev. 56, 60, 61 (146 P. 756).

Rev. Laws, 3831, 3832, authorizing county commissioners, in case of great necessity or emergency to make a temporary loan, etc., does not, in violation of this section, relate to a subject not embraced in its title. First National Bank of San Francisco v. Nye County, 38 Nev. 123, 134 (145 P. 932, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1195).

By the direct provision of this section the legislature cannot amend an act by reference to its title only, but must reenact and publish at length the act revised or amended. State ex rel. Freudenberger v. Cole, 38 Nev. 488, 491 (151 P. 944).

Rev. Laws, 4530, provides that the commission shall have authority to employ an expert engineer at a salary of $3,600 per annum and traveling expenses. Relator was so employed, but after the enactment of Stats. 1913, 404, entitled "An act regulating the salaries of certain state officers" and providing that the annual salary of the chief engineer of the public service commission shall be $2,500, the state controller refused to draw his warrant in relator's favor at the rate of $3,600 a year, but only at the rate of $2,500. Relator sought mandamus, contending that the act of 1913, as an act amending the public service act, violated this section.

Held, that the act of 1913 was valid, it not purporting to be an amendatory act, but clearly an independent act complete in itself, which was not embraced in the constitutional requirement, and might alter the prior statute without referring to it. Id.

Stats. 1915, 453, entitled "An act regulating the nomination of candidates by political parties," etc., does not contravene the provisions of this section. Turner v. Fogg, 39 Nev. 406, 410 (159 P. 56).

Stats. 1913, 137 entitled "An act relating to compensation of injured workmen," etc., sufficiently embraces within its title the purpose expressed by section 1, subd. b, thereof, making counties and other municipal corporations subject to the act, and therefore does not offend this section. Nevada Industrial Commission v. Washoe County, 41 Nev. 437, 442, 449 (171 P. 511).

The provision of this section, that no law shall be revised or amended by reference to its title only, does not render invalid the provision of Stats. 1917, 385, that electors in the military service of the United States may vote in accordance with Stats. 1899, 108, which was repealed by Stats. 1913, 568; revival by title not being prohibited; for an "amendment" is an alteration effecting a change in the draft, or form, or substance of a law already enacted, or of a bill proposed for enactment, but, when the legislative body attempts to revise, it thereby presumes to make additions or changes or corrections to alter or reform something then in force and effect, and "revision" in a legislative sense applies only to a measure, bill, or law then having existing life and force, and cannot, in the nature of things, apply to a nullified or repealed act; and the term "revive," as applied to legislative proceedings, signifies the reconference of validity, force, and effect, at least the reconference of validity, force, and effect as the revived measure, law, or bill formerly possessed. Maclean v. Brodigan, 41 Nev. 468, 473 (172 P. 375).

Cited, State ex rel. Esser v. District Court, 42 Nev. 222 (174 P. 1024).

Stats. 1919, 75, organizing the county of Pershing out of a portion of Humboldt County, and certain of its provisions, held not unconstitutional on the ground that such provisions are not embraced by the title, the disputed provisions being incident to the complete organization of the county, and germane to the main object of the act. Pershing County v. District Court, 43 Nev. —, (181 P. 961-963).

Unless the validity of a whole statute depends on the constitutionality of one or more provisions not germane to the title, or are so blended with the scope and purpose of the act as a whole as to affect its validity or any other of its provisions, the invalidity of one or more of such provisions does not defeat the general scope and purpose of the act. Id.

Under this section it was held that Rev. Laws, 3251, was sufficient to make appropriation for claims arising under it, and that, as the legislature made no appropriation in 1917, respondent's deputy superintendent of public instruction could recover under said section for expenses for the year 1917. McCracken v. State, 41 Nev. 49, 54 (167 P. 1001).

Legislative powers restricted.

278. SEC. 20. The legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases—that is to say:

Regulating the jurisdiction and duties of justices of the peace and of constables, and fixing their compensation;

For the punishment of crimes and misdemeanors;

Regulating the practice of courts of justice;

Providing for changing the venue in civil and criminal cases;

Granting divorces;

Changing the names of persons;

Vacating roads, town plots, streets, alleys and public squares;

Summoning and empaneling grand and petit juries, and providing for their compensation;

Regulating county and township business;

Regulating the election of county and township officers;

For the assessment and collection of taxes for state, county, and township purposes;

Providing for opening and conducting elections of state, county, or township officers, and designating the places of voting;

Providing for the sale of real estate belonging to minors or other persons laboring under legal disabilities;

Giving effect to invalid deeds, wills, or other instruments;

Refunding money paid into the state treasury, or into the treasury of any county;

Releasing the indebtedness, liability, or obligation of any corporation, association, or person to the state, or to any county, town or city of this state; but nothing in this section shall be construed to deny or restrict the power of the legislature to establish and regulate the compensation and fees of county officers, to establish and regulate the rates of freight, passage, toll, and charges of railroads, toll-roads, ditch, flume and tunnel companies incorporated under the laws of this state or doing business therein.

Stats. 1907, 355, authorizing a particular county to issue bonds to build a courthouse and a jail is not unconstitutional under this section, nor under sections 21 and 25 requiring the county government system to be uniform, and all laws to be general and of uniform operation throughout the state, where general laws can be made applicable. Laws, 2155) that all property of the wife owned before marriage and acquired thereafter by gift, devise, or descent is her separate property, and that property similarly acquired by the husband should be his separate property, while section 2 (sec. 2156) declares that all other property acquired during the marriage shall be the community property. Section 6, as amended in 1897 (sec. 2160), declares that the husband has entire control over the community property, with absolute power of disposition, but that no deed of conveyance or mortgage of a homestead, regardless of whether a declaration has been filed or not, shall be valid for any purpose, unless both the husband and the wife execute and acknowledge it. Held, that, though the homestead was not registered as required by law, the husband's sole conveyance or incumbrance of it cannot pass title. *First National Bank of Ely v. Amended act, Stats. 1897, 24, provides that no deed or mortgage of a homestead, whether a declaration has been filed or not, shall be valid, unless both the husband and the wife executed and acknowledged the same. Held, that although a homestead was not registered as required by law, the husband's sole conveyance or incumbrance of it does not affect the wife's right in the homestead, which could not be alienated unless the instrument was executed and given by both. *First National Bank of Ely v. The use of the expression "goes to" the wife in Rev. Laws, 2165, different from the expression "belongs to" the husband in section 2164, does not show an intention of the legislature that the interest of the wife in the community should vest only after the husband's death, in view of this section, requiring laws to be passed defining the right of the wife to property held in common with her husband, since "held" does not convey the idea of mere expectancy, but imports ownership. In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 241, 258 (161 P. 741, L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

The power of the court given by Rev. Laws, 5841, to make such disposition of the property of the parties as shall appear just and equitable in granting a decree of divorce is limited by this section, Stats. 1864-65, 239, and Stats. 1873, 193, determining the property rights of husband and wife. Walker v. Walker, 41 Nev. 4, 8 (164 P. 653).

Under this section and the statutes above cited, fixing the property rights of husband and wife, the dissolution of the marriage does not of itself operate to change the property rights. Id.

In consideration of this section, Stats.

1864-65, 239, sec. 12 (Rev. Laws, 2166, 2188, 5841, and 5843), it was held in view of another section of the same act appearing as Rev. Laws, 5843, as declaring that when the marriage shall be dissolved by the husband being sentenced to imprisonment, and when a divorce shall be ordered for the cause of adultery committed by the husband, the wife shall be entitled to the same portion of his lands and property as if he were dead; but in other cases the court shall set apart such portion for her support and the support of their children that shall be deemed just, and as the act of 1861 was passed before the creation of community property, effect cannot be given to it, particularly in view of the construction by the California courts of the later statutes, which must be deemed to have been adopted when the statutes were adopted from that state; hence the decree of divorce in favor of the husband for desertion does not, though there was no adjudication as to property rights, deprive the wife of her rights in the community property. *Johnson v. Jurisdiction of supreme court.

319. SEC. 4. The supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also in all cases at law in which is involved the title, or the right of possession to, or the possession of, real estate or mining claims, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine, or in which the demand (exclusive of interest) or the value of the property in controversy, exceeds three hundred dollars; also in all other civil cases not included in the general subdivisions of law and equity, and also on questions of law alone in all criminal cases in which the offense charged is within the original jurisdiction of the district courts. The court shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, quo warranto, and habeas corpus and also all writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable, before himself or the supreme court, or before any district court in the state or before any judge of said courts.

In case of the disability or disqualification, for any cause, of the chief justice or either of the associate justices of the supreme court, or any two of them, the governor is authorized and empowered to designate any district judge or judges to sit in the place or places of such disqualified or disabled justice or justices, and said judge or judges so designated shall receive their actual expense of travel and otherwise while sitting in said supreme court.

Amendment to this section proposed and passed at the Twenty-eighth Session of the Legislature, March 27, 1917, Statutes of 1917, page 491. Said amendment reading as follows:

Jurisdiction and powers of supreme court.

SEC. 4. The supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also in all cases at law in which is involved the title, or the right of possession to, or the possession of, real estate or mining claims, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine, or in which the demand (exclusive of interest) or the value of the property in controversy, exceeds three hundred dollars; also in all other civil cases not included in the general subdivisions of law and equity, and also on questions of law alone in all criminal cases in which the offense charged is within the original jurisdiction of the district courts. The court shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, quo warranto, and habeas corpus and also all writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable, before himself or the supreme court, or before any district court in the state or before any judge of said courts.

In case of the disability or disqualification, for any cause, of the chief justice or either of the associate justices of the supreme court, or any two of them, the governor is authorized and empowered to designate any district judge or judges to sit in the place or places of such disqualified or disabled justice or justices, and said judge or judges so designated shall receive their actual expense of travel and otherwise while sitting in said supreme court.

This section vests the supreme court with appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity. Rev. Laws, 4832, is to the same effect. Rev. Laws, 4833, empowers the supreme court to review on appeal a judgment in a proceeding commenced in the district court when the matter in dispute is embraced in the general jurisdiction of the supreme court. Rev. Laws, 5329, provides that an appeal may be taken from a final judgment or special proceeding commenced in the court in which the judgment is rendered. Section 6162 provides for petition for the appointment of a guardian for insane persons. Held, that such proceeding is equitable and the judgment appointing the guardian for a mentally enfeebled person is final, so that an appeal lies. O'Donnell v. District Court, 40 Nev. 428, 433 (165 P. 759).

Prohibition will not issue to restrain the enforcement of an ordinance not in effect, since there must be a cause pending before the writ will issue. O'Brien v. Commissioners, 41 Nev. 90, 95, 101 (167 P. 1007).

The writ of prohibition is not a writ of right, but one of sound judicial discretion to be issued or refused according to the facts of each particular case. Id.

Rev. Laws, 5708, providing that the writ of prohibition arrests the proceedings of any court, tribunal, etc., whether exercising functions judicial or ministerial, when such proceedings are without or in excess of jurisdiction, does not enlarge the writ so as to reach proceedings not of a judicial character, and it will not issue to prohibit county commissioners and the sheriff from enforcing an ordinance requiring licenses for selling, etc., liquors in restaurants, etc. Id.

By this section the intention of the framers was undoubtedly to confer the right to issue the writ as it had been recognized at common law. Id.

The penalty which a city under its charter may prescribe for the violation of an ordinance being such that the offense under the definition of Rev. Laws, 6266, is a misdemeanor, the supreme court has no jurisdiction of an appeal from conviction thereof, its appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases being by this section limited to felony, and it being immaterial that the case was transferred from the police court to the district court because the validity of the tax imposed by the ordinance was attacked; "cases at law" in which is involved the legality of a tax, of which the supreme court is given appellate jurisdiction, not including a criminal case. City of Reno v. Dixon, 42 Nev. 67, 72 (172 P. 368).

321. Cited, Proskey v. Colonial Hotel Company, 36 Nev. 84 (133 P. 390).

While errors committed in the exercise of a judicial discretion cannot be reviewed or corrected by mandamus, if the district court erroneously decides that it has no jurisdiction and refuses to hear an appeal from a justice's court pursuant to this section, as by dismissing the appeal, mandamus is the proper remedy to compel it to assume jurisdiction and proceed. Floyd v. District Court, 36 Nev. 349, 354 (135 P. 922).

The provisions of sections 18 to 51, inclusive, of the water law, are not violative of this section, fixing the appellate and original jurisdiction of district courts, in that the determinations made by the state engineer of the relative rights of water users are not made in "cases in equity" or "cases at law" as those terms are used in said section. Ormsby County v. Kearney, 37 Nev. 314, 315, 346, 361, 369, 375, 379 (142 P. 803).

Injunction will lie to restrain the state engineer and a district water commissioner from unjustly and unreasonably depriving appropriators of water for irrigating their lands; no redress being afforded the appropriators by the water law (Stats. 1913, 192), inasmuch as the district court cannot take cognizance of the proceedings of the state engineer by way of appeal as therein prescribed, since this section of the constitution restricts the appellate jurisdiction of such court to cases appealed from justices' courts and municipal tribunals. Knox v. Kearney, 37 Nev. 399 (142 P. 526).

Under this section and Rev. Laws, 5714, 5726, a justice's court has jurisdiction in actions at law brought by the guardian of a minor where the amount involved does not exceed $300. Killgrove v. Morris, 39 Nev. 224-226 (156 P. 686).

This section gives to district courts original jurisdiction in cases involving the legality of any tax, assessment, or municipal fine, etc.; section 8 requires the legislature to determine the number of justices of the peace in each city, etc., and provides that justices' courts shall not have jurisdiction of cases conflicting with the jurisdiction of the courts of record; and section 9 requires the legislature to fix by law the jurisdiction of municipal courts. The city charter of Reno (art. 14, sec. 1) created a municipal court, by section 3, gave its jurisdiction as then provided for justices of the peace as to civil or criminal cases for the violation of any ordinance, and by section 6 provided that it should be treated as a justice's court, in case its proceedings should be questioned. Rev. Laws, 5721, relating to transfer of causes from justice's court, provides that parties cannot give evidence on questions involving the legality of any tax, municipal fine, etc. An ordinance imposed a certain license upon every attorney practicing his profession in the city, payable quarterly in accordance with the gross receipts, and thereunder petitioner was convicted in the municipal court and committed. Held, where the issue involved the legality of a tax and the constitutionality of the ordinance imposing the tax, the municipal court had no jurisdiction, and was bound to transfer the proceedings to the district court. In Re Dixon, 40 Nev. 228, 233 (161 P. 737).

Cited, O'Donnell v. District Court, 40 Nev. 432 (165 P. 759).

Whether or not this section gives the district court jurisdiction of proceedings for removal of county officers, article 7, section 4, of the constitution gives the legislature plenary power to provide procedure therefor, and therefore secs. 2851, 2852, Rev. Laws, giving such jurisdiction, are constitutional. Gay v. District Court, 41 Nev. 330, 336, 345, 346 (171 P. 156).

Water law, Stats. 1913, 192, as amended by Stats. 1915, 378, providing that, subject to existing rights, the water of all sources of supply belongs to the public, providing for the appointment of a state engineer, to whom application may be made to appropriate any unappropriated water in a public stream, etc., and providing that the state engineer, on his own initiative or on application of one or more users of water of any stream may make an order for the determination of the relative rights of the water users, there being provision for notice, etc., is not violative of this section, even though a water right is real estate, since the entire proceedings under the water law amount to nothing until a copy of the order of determination of water rights of the state engineer is filed in the office of the clerk of the district court, thus operating as a complaint, the proceedings before the state engineer being nothing more than the routine of preparing and filing the complaint in the district court which invests the latter court with jurisdiction to act. Vineyard Land and Stock Company v. District Court, 42 Nev. 2, 25, 42, 45-49, 53-58, 62, 63 (171 P. 166, 172, 177-185).

321. Cited, Bergman v. Kearney, 241 F. 890.

323. Under this section, and Rev. Laws, 5714, 5726, a justice court has jurisdiction in actions at law brought by the guardian of a minor where the amount involved does not exceed $300. Killgrove v. Morriss, 39 Nev. 224, 226 (156 P. 686).

This section, enacted while Stats. 1861, 37, was in force in the territory, providing for the foreclosing of all liens in one action, requires the legislature to fix the powers of justices of the peace, and authorizes it to confer jurisdiction upon them, concurrent with the district courts, of actions to enforce mechanics' liens where the amount does not exceed $300. Rev. Laws, 5714, is to the same effect, and Rev. Laws, 2224, allows any number of lien claimants to join in the same action and the courts consolidate separate actions; and section 2227 provides that such liens may be enforced by an action in any court of competent jurisdiction, and, as amended by Stats. 1907, 191, applies to mechanic's lien proceedings in justice's court where the sum involved does not exceed $300. Held, that the words "sum involved" mean the sum involved in the several liens embraced in a suit, and that a justice's court had no jurisdiction of an action to foreclose mechanics' liens, where the total amount of the liens exceeds $300, notwithstanding that each of the liens is for a less amount. Phillips v. Snowden Placer Company, 40 Nev. 66, 72 (160 P. 786).

329. Under this section and Rev. Laws, 4943, providing that there shall be but one form of civil action for the enforcement of protection of private rights, and Rev. Laws, 5518, declaring that a mortgage shall not be deemed a conveyance, and Rev. Laws, 5588, for unlawful detainer may show the nonexistence of the relation of landlord and tenant essential to the maintenance of the action, and may show that an instrument in form a lease was a part of another instrument, and that the two constituted a mortgage, and thereby defeat the action. *Yori v. State may contract debts, limitation, exception.

350. SEC. 3. The state may contract public debts; but such debts shall never, in the aggregate, exclusive of interest, exceed the sum of one per cent of the assessed valuation of the state, as shown by the reports of the county assessors to the state controller, except for the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenses, as hereinafter mentioned. Every such debt shall be authorized by law for some purpose or purposes, to be distinctly specified therein; and every such law shall provide for levying an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest semiannually, and the principal within twenty years from the passage of such law, and shall specially appropriate the proceeds of said taxes to the payment of said principal and interest; and such appropriation shall not be repealed, nor the taxes postponed or diminished until the principal and interest of said debts shall have been wholly paid. Every contract of indebtedness entered into or assumed by or on behalf of the state, when all its debts and liabilities amount to said sum before mentioned, shall be void and of no effect, except in cases of money borrowed to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the state in time of war, or, if hostilities be threatened, provide for the public defense.

352. To put this section into effect Stats. 1913, 106, and Stats. 1915, 316, were enacted.

Under this section and Rev. Laws, 3621, it was held, that where $100 worth or more of labor has been expended on a patented mining claim during any one year and prior to the time of assessment, the mine is exempt from taxation, except upon the proceeds thereof. Goldfield Con. Wells, Fargo & Co., 38 Nev. 505, 529 (150 P. 836).

Held, that the constitutional amendment of 1906 was self-executing, at least as to the provision for taxation of patented mines, and absolutely nullified Stats. 1905, 81, so that an assessment thereunder in 1909 was invalid. Wren v. Dixon, 40 Nev. 170, 184-186, 198 (161 P. 722, 167 P. 324, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1064).

Under this section, a patented mine cannot be assessed at less than $500 if no labor has been performed, and a patented mine upon which labor has been performed is exempt from taxation except on the proceeds thereof, and, in the absence of any saving clause, an assessment of $10 per acre under Stats. 1905, 81, pursuant to this section prior to the amendment of 1906, was invalid. Id.

Where an assessment on a patented mining claim at $10 per acre under Stats. 1905, 81, expressly following this section as amended in 1902, was void under the amendment of this section in 1906, the tax sale under the assessment was void. Id.

That a statute has for years been enforced by the courts, without its constitutionality being challenged, may be considered as a recognition of its constitutionality, and courts will seldom entertain question of the constitutionality of a statute recognized as valid in the adjudication of rights, and when the invalidity of the statute would lead to serious consequences. Worthington v. District Court, 37 Nev. 212, 220 (142 P. 230, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1097, L. R. A. 1916A, 696).

412. Held, that, while this article declares that it shall be self-executing, yet it does not impose upon the secretary of state the duty to file a referendum petition for the submission of an act of the legislature to the voters of a county at the next general election, and hence the filing of such a petition cannot be coerced by mandamus; for, though a constitutional provision declares it shall be self-executing, yet, if it does not provide for the manner of its execution, the execution must be provided for by statute. State ex rel. Dotta v. Brodigan, 37 Nev. 37-42 (138 P. 914).

While it is provided that the provisions of this article "shall be self-executing, but legislation may be enacted to facilitate its operation," the further provision that "the legislature may provide by law for the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum powers as to county and municipal legislation" makes it apparent that it was intended that further legislation should be enacted for carrying into effect that part relating to county matters, as the article itself makes no such provision. Id.

The provisions of section 3 of this article that "the second power reserved by the people is the referendum, which shall be exercised in the manner provided in sections 1 and 2" apply to state elections. Id.

SEC. 13. No bank shall employ its moneys, directly or indirectly, in trade or commerce by buying or selling goods, chattel wares, or merchandise, and shall not invest any of its funds in the stock of any bank or trust company or corporation, nor make any loans or discounts upon the security or the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith, and stock so purchased or acquired shall, within twelve months from the time of its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale; after the expiration of twelve months any such stock shall not be considered as part of the assets of any bank or trust company; provided, however, that nothing in this section nor in this act shall be deemed to prohibit banks from subscribing to, purchasing, or becoming the owners of stock in federal reserve banks as established by act of Congress of the United States, approved December 23, 1913, or any branch thereof; and all banks doing business under and by virtue of the laws of this state are hereby expressly permitted and authorized to subscribe for and purchase stock of federal reserve banks and become members of any reserve bank; provided further, that any bank may sell or become the owner of any property which may come into its possession as collateral security for any debt or obligation due it, according to the terms of any contract depositing such collateral security, and if there be no such contract, then collateral security may be sold in the manner provided by law. As amended, Stats. 1915, 32.

630. Restriction on amount to be borrowed.

SEC. 15. The total liability to any bank of any person, company, corporation, or firm for money borrowed, shall not at any time exceed twenty-five per cent of the capital stock and surplus of such bank, actually paid in, except by and with the written consent of the state bank examiner, but the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values, as collateral security, and a discount or purchase of commercial or business paper, actually owned by the persons, shall not be considered as money borrowed. As amended, Stats. 1915, 339.

631. This section having remodeled and carried over most of the provisions of the general banking act of March 24, 1909 (Stats. 1909, 257), and having omitted the provision of section 22 making it a felony to publish any false statement of the amount of the assets and liabilities of a banking corporation, and the later act being a general and comprehensive one, working over the provisions of the earlier act, the provisions making it a felony to publish such a statement, is repealed and no longer in force. Eureka Bank Cases, 35 Nev. 85, 143 (126 P. 655; 129 P. 308).

636. Banks to make reports.

SEC. 21. Every bank shall make at least four reports each year, and oftener if called upon, to the bank examiner, according to the forms which may be prescribed by him verified by the oath or affirmation of its president, vice-president, or cashier, and attested by the signatures of at least two of the directors. Each report shall exhibit in detail, and under the appropriate heads, the resources and liabilities of such bank at the close of business on any past day specified by the bank examiner, and shall be transmitted to him within ten days after the receipt of a request or requisition therefor by him, and shall be published in condensed form according to his requirements, within ten days after same is made, in a newspaper published in the county in which such bank is established, for one insertion at the expense of the bank, and such proof of publication shall be furnished within five days after the date of publication, as may be required by the bank examiner. The bank examiner shall also have power to call for special reports, which need not be published, from any bank, whenever, in his judgment, the same is necessary, in order to gain a full and complete knowledge of its condition; provided, the reports authorized and required by this section, to be called for by the bank examiner, shall relate to a date prior to the date of such call to be specified therein; and provided further, the prior date specified by the bank examiner for reports, other than special reports, shall be the day designated by the comptroller of the currency of the United States for reports of national banking associations. As amended, Stats. 1919, 394.

656. Real estate bank may purchase, hold, or convey.

SEC. 41. A bank may purchase, hold, or convey real estate for the following purposes: first, such as shall be necessary for the convenient transaction of its business, including its furniture and fixtures, but the real estate shall not exceed forty per cent of its capital and surplus; second, such as shall be conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its business; third, such as it shall purchase at sale under judgment, decree, or mortgage foreclosure under securities held by it, but shall not bid at any such sale a larger amount than is necessary to satisfy its debts and costs. Real estate shall be conveyed by an individual banker as in other cases, or under the corporate seal of the bank, and the hand of either its president, vice-president, or cashier, approved by a resolution of its directors. No real estate acquired in the cases contemplated in the second and third subsections above shall be held for a longer time than ten years. It must be sold at a private or public sale within thirty days thereafter. As amended, Stats. 1915, 340.

664. State board supersedes state banking board.

SEC. 49. The state board of finance shall be the Nevada state banking board. The state board of finance, sitting as the Nevada state banking board, shall have, in connection with the state bank examiner, supervision and control of banks and banking in this state, and no persons, firms, associations, or corporations shall be permitted to engage in the banking business in this state, save in compliance with this act. The minutes, records and all proceedings of the Nevada state banking board shall be in the name of the state board of finance. As amended, Stats. 1915, 340; 1919, 285.

665. Qualifications of examiner—Deputy—Seal.

SEC. 50. The governor shall appoint a bank examiner who shall be a person who has had practical banking experience; he shall receive a salary of four thousand dollars per year, payable in equal monthly installments out of the general fund of the state; he may be removed from office at any time by a majority vote of the whole banking board. During his term of office the examiner shall not be permitted to examine the affairs of any bank in which he has an interest nor in which he is or, within one year next preceding his appointment, was an officer or employee. Until further action by the banking board, the present bank examiner shall be continued in office with all the powers and duties thereby conferred and imposed. In every case where the examiner shall be called upon to settle up the affairs of a bank, in accordance with the provisions of this act, he may, if the circumstances in his judgment warrant such action, appoint a deputy bank examiner to aid him in carrying out the provisions of this act; the examiner shall fix the salary of such deputy, which shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars per month, payable monthly out of the general fund of the state. Such deputy shall perform such duties as the examiner shall direct, but no deputy shall be appointed except in connection with the liquidation of the business of a bank, nor shall his employment continue longer than may be required for that purpose, and he shall be subject to removal at any time at the pleasure of the examiner or of the state banking board. The bank examiner shall occupy the offices of the state banking board and shall act as secretary of the board. The seal of the state banking board shall be as heretofore prescribed, and all licenses and orders issued by the board and by its authority shall be attested by the seal of the state banking board and by the signature of the bank examiner. As amended, Stats. 1915, 190.

670. Security from assistants.

SEC. 55. The examiner shall require from the clerks and assistants, including a deputy examiner, if any, employed in the settling up of the affairs of any bank, in accordance with this act, such security for the faithful performance of their duties as he may deem proper. As amended, Stats. 1915, 191.

681. Official oath.

SEC. 66. The deputy bank examiners, if any, shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office. As amended, Stats. 1915, 191.

692. The banking act (Stats. 1911, 291) being a general and comprehensive act, working over and covering most of the features of the general banking act of March 24, 1909 (Stats. 1909, 251), and evidently intended as a substitute for it, repeals the provisions of that act by implication, except as specifically continued in force. Eureka Bank Cases, 35 Nev. 85, 145, 146 (126 P. 655; 129 P. 308).

The court is without jurisdiction to hold for trial and convict the accused under the provision of an act which has been repealed, and when held for an act which is no longer criminal they are entitled to be discharged upon habeas corpus. Id.

SECTION 1. The words "Federal Reserve Act," as herein used, shall be held to mean and to include the act of Congress of the United States approved December 23, 1913, as heretofore and hereafter amended. The words "Federal Reserve Board" shall be held to mean the federal reserve board created and described in the federal reserve act. The words "Federal Reserve Bank" shall be held to mean the federal reserve banks created and organized under authority of the federal reserve act. The words "Member Bank" shall be held to mean any national bank, state bank, or banking and trust company which has become or which becomes a member of one of the federal reserve banks created by the federal reserve act.

Bank may become member.

SEC. 2. That any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of this state shall have the power to subscribe to the capital stock and become a member of a federal reserve bank.

Bank vested with powers of member banks.

SEC. 3. Any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of this state which is, or which becomes, a member of a federal reserve bank is, by this act, vested with all powers conferred upon member banks of the federal reserve banks by the terms of the federal reserve act as fully and completely as if such powers were specifically enumerated and described herein, and all such powers shall be exercised subject to all restrictions and limitations imposed by the federal reserve act, or by regulations of the federal reserve board made pursuant thereto. The right, however, is expressly reserved to revoke or to amend the powers herein conferred.

What considered compliance.

SEC. 4. A compliance on the part of any such bank or trust company with the reserve requirements of the federal reserve act shall be held to be a full compliance with those provisions of the laws of this state which require banks or trust companies to maintain cash balances in their vaults or with other banks, and no such bank or trust company shall be required to carry or maintain reserve other than such as is required under the terms of the federal reserve act.

Subject to state banking laws.

SEC. 5. Any such bank or trust company shall continue to be subject to the supervision and examinations required by the laws of this state, except

BAILMENTS

541. Under this section, in an action by the shipper for conversion of shipment of lumber which had been sold to pay freight and demurrage, the burden was on the carrier to show that the sale was regularly conducted. Horton v. Tonopah and Goldfield R. Co., 225 F. 406, 408.

BARBER-SHOPS

An Act relating to barber-shops, defining the same, providing regulations in connection therewith, protecting the health of barbers and their patrons, and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof.

Approved March 27, 1917, 422

Barber-shop defined.

SECTION 1. Any place where a person is shaved, his hair cut, or his beard trimmed, for hire or reward, shall be construed as being a barber-shop.

Must close, when.

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful in any town or city of this state having a population of more than five hundred people, for any person, or persons, company or corporation, to keep open, or permit to be kept open, any barber-shop or public place for the purpose of carrying on or plying the barber trade or business, or to conduct such business on the first day of each week, commonly called Sunday, that is to say, between the hours of twelve (12) o'clock midnight of Saturday of any week, and twelve (12) o'clock midnight of the following day, Sunday. As amended, Stats. 1919, 15.

Must use sanitary tools.

SEC. 3. Any person who shaves another person afflicted with syphilis, eczema, blood poison, or any skin disease, who does not, before he again uses his tools, towels, or water, subject them to such disinfection as may remove any virus, scale, or filth that may be on such tools, towels, or instrument, shall be guilty of a violation of this act.

Insanitary shop prohibited.

SEC. 4. It shall be unlawful for any person who conducts a barber-shop to permit to remain therein any virus, scale or filth, or to conduct a barber-shop that is insanitary and dangerous to the health of its patrons.

Penalties for violation.

SEC. 5. Every proprietor, owner, manager, lessee, or other person in charge of any barber-shop in this state who shall fail to comply with this act, whether through the acts of himself, his agent or employees, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty-five ($25) dollars, nor more than one hundred ($100) dollars, or shall be imprisoned for not more than three (3) months, or both fine and imprisonment, and every day that any barber-shop shall be conducted in violation of any of the provisions of this act shall constitute a separate offense.

BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS

695. Under similar act (Stats. 1887, 86, as amended by Stats. 1903, 63) it was held that an appeal bond executed by a surety company and duly approved is valid, and takes the place of a bond in accordance with Comp. Laws, 3436, 3443, requiring an undertaking on appeal to be furnished by two sureties. Botsford v. Van Riper, 32 Nev. 214, 226(106 P. 440).

The above-mentioned act is a general law, and does not repeal the provisions of the civil practice act (Comp. Laws, 3436, 3443) for undertakings on appeal, but only provides an additional method of furnishing such undertakings at the option of appellant. Id.

695-701. See Konig v. N.-C.-O. Ry., 36 Nev. 196, under section 698.

697. Surety company to obtain certificate.

SEC. 4. Any surety company qualified by this act to transact business in this state may, at any time, apply to the secretary of state, and, upon the payment of a fee of five dollars therefor, obtain a certificate which shall state the name of such company, the state under which it is incorporated or exists, and that such company has fully qualified under the provisions hereof to assume risks and become surety on all bonds and undertakings mentioned in section 1 hereof, stating also the date such company qualified as aforesaid; provided, that such certificates shall expire on the first day of January of the year succeeding the date of issuance. As amended, Stats. 1915, 81.

698. Certificate to be evidence.

SEC. 5. The certificate or any duplicate certificate issued by the secretary of state in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be prima facie evidence in all the courts of this state of all matters herein stated; provided, such certificate shall not have expired. Any printed copy of a circular issued by the treasury department of the United States known as form No. 356, stating the amount of the capital and surplus of any such surety company, and not more than six months old as appears from the date of issuance thereof, shall be prima facie evidence of the amount of such capital and surplus and of the amount to which such company is entitled to be received as sole surety on any bond in this state, and shall, if accompanied with the certificate of the secretary of state herein mentioned, be a complete justification for any amount not exceeding ten per centum of such capital and surplus, whenever any such company shall be required to justify on any bond or undertaking; provided, that the party requiring such justification may produce competent evidence to show that such surety company is not worth such sum over and above all its just debts and liabilities exclusive of property exempt from execution; provided further, that bonds and undertakings on which such company may have become surety shall not be considered as debts or liabilities unless the obligation thereon shall have accrued and the obligee shall have demanded payment from such company. As amended, Stats. 1915, 81.

Under this section it was held, that an instrument excepting to the sufficiency of the surety on an undertaking on appeal, and asking that such surety appear before the judge and justify as required by Rev. Laws, 3443, although probably sufficient where personal sureties are given, was not a sufficient exception where undertaking was executed by a surety company, this section having provided an entirely different method for the justification of such companies. Konig v. N.-C.-O. Ry., 36 Nev. 182, 192-198 (135 P. 141).

699. Items of cash paid a surety company by appellant as premiums on the appeal and stay bonds are proper elements of costs to be collected by appellant upon reversal in view of this section. Richards v. Vermilyea, 42 Nev. 294, 301 (180 P. 122).

701. Surety bond illegal, when.

SEC. 8. No court or officer having authority so to do shall approve any surety bond or undertaking given by any surety company as surety thereon, unless the person offering the same, or some one in his behalf, shall exhibit the certificate of the secretary of state showing that such company has duly qualified under this act to become such surety, which certificate shall have been issued during the current calendar year. As amended, Stats. 1915, 390.

BOUNTIES

718. Bounties for certain animals.

SECTION 1. If any person shall take or kill within this state any of the following noxious animals, he shall be entitled to receive, out of the treasury of the county within which such animals shall have been taken, the following bounties, to wit: For every lynx or wildcat, two dollars, and for every mountain lion, five dollars; all of which bounties shall be subject to the provisions of this act. As amended, Stats. 1913, 18; 1917, 72.

An Act authorizing the expenditure of money by the state under certain conditions for the purpose of aiding counties in sinking artesian wells.

Approved March 13, 1915, 127

SECTION 1. When any county of the state shall hereafter have expended in any year for the purposes set forth in section one of an act entitled "An act authorizing the board of county commissioners of the various counties in the state to acquire real estate, and to sink, or cause to be sunk thereon, artesian wells, and making the expense thereof a legal charge against the county," approved February 20, 1913, a sum amounting to four thousand dollars or more, upon the filing in the office of the state controller of a certificate to that effect made by the county auditor, stating the actual amount so expended, which certificate shall also be verified by the oath of a majority of the commissioners of such county, to the effect that such expenditure has been properly made for said purposes, the said controller shall draw a warrant upon the state treasury for a sum equivalent to that certified by the county auditor, not, however, in any instance to exceed the sum of five thousand dollars; and as often as any county of the state shall, from year to year, make a similar expenditure, upon a like certificate from the county auditor, said state controller is authorized, empowered, and directed to draw a like warrant upon the state treasury.

Duties of controller and treasurer.

SEC. 2. Upon the presentation of such warrant to the state treasurer, he is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to pay out of any unappropriated money of the state and to the treasurer of the county from which any such auditor's certificate emanated the sum specified in the warrant of the state controller.

Special county fund.

SEC. 3. Such sum or sums, when received by such county, shall be by the board of commissioners set apart in a special fund, and shall be used for the purposes mentioned in the aforesaid act, and for no other.

CEMETERIES

An Act requiring the owners of public cemeteries to keep a plat of the same and to keep the same in an orderly condition, and other matters connected therewith.

Plat must be kept.

SECTION 1. Any person, association, corporation or fraternal or other society, owning any public cemetery, shall keep a plat of the same showing the avenues and paths therein, together with the lots for burial purposes.

What plat shall show.

SEC. 2. Said plat shall show the location of all bodies interred in said cemetery, together with the name of the owner of such lot and the name of each person interred.

Must be neatly kept.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of every owner of a cemetery to keep the same in an orderly condition, and authority is hereby conferred on the boards of county commissioners of each county in the state to make such rules as will carry out the intent of this section.

Penalties.

SEC. 4. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or who, after being notified by the board of county commissioners, shall fail or refuse to place the cemetery under his charge or ownership in an orderly condition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred days.

Applies to certain counties only.

SEC. 5. This act shall apply only to any county in this state wherein from 680 to 690 votes were cast for representative in Congress at the last general election.

CHILDREN

728. Under this section, a court could not commit to the state orphans' home a dependent or neglected child who was not an orphan, since an "orphans' home" is an institution or a home for the care of destitute orphans, and not a "reformatory" or institution in which young offenders are confined and instructed, with a view to their reformation. McKinnon v. Harwood, 35 Nev. 494, 499, 501 (130 P. 465).

729. See McKinnon v. Harwood, 35 Nev. 494, under section 728.

733. Probation officers—Duties—Appointment of.

SEC. 6. The district courts in this state shall have authority to appoint any number of discreet persons of good moral character to serve as probation officers during the pleasure of the court; said probation officers shall receive no compensation from the county treasury except as herein provided. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the court, if practicable, to notify the said probation officer when any child is to be brought before the court; it shall be the duty of such probation officer to make investigation of such case; to be present in the court to represent the interests of the child when the case is heard; to furnish such court such information and assistance as the court or judge may require, and to take charge of any child before and after the trial as may be directed by the court. The number of probation officers to receive compensation from the county, named and designated by the district court, shall be as follows:

The judge of the district court in and for each county, or city and county, of the state, or the judges where there are more than one judge of the said court, may appoint probation officers, in the number and under the conditions as in this act provided, whenever such appointments shall be deemed necessary to care for the dependent and delinquent children of the county; provided, such probation officers can be removed from office at any time by the said district judge, or judges. The salary of said probation officers shall be as follows:

In counties having over fifteen thousand population, there may be one probation officer receiving a salary. An assistant probation officer may be appointed, in the discretion of the court, upon the request of the probation officer. The salary of the probation officer shall be fixed by the court appointing him, in any sum not to exceed one hundred and fifty dollars per month; and the salary of the assistant probation officer, where one is appointed, shall likewise be fixed by the court appointing him in any sum not to exceed seventy-five dollars per month. The expenses of such probation officers for probation work shall not exceed seven hundred and fifty dollars per year.

In counties having less than fifteen thousand population it shall be within the discretion of the district judge, or judges, of each of said counties to determine as to the necessity of appointing a probation officer; provided, that in counties having eight thousand population and under fifteen thousand there shall be no more than one probation officer receiving a salary, and such salary shall be fixed by the court appointing him, in any sum not to exceed one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month; provided further, that in counties of five thousand and under eight thousand there shall be no more than one probation officer receiving a salary, and such salary shall be fixed by the court appointing him, in any sum not to exceed one hundred dollars per month; and provided further, that in counties of under five thousand there shall be no more than one probation officer receiving a salary, and such salary shall be fixed by the court appointing him, in any sum not to exceed seventy-five dollars per month.

All probation officers whose expenses are not herein provided shall be allowed such necessary incidental expenses as may be authorized by the judge, or judges, of the district court of said county; provided, that the said probation officers can be appointed for any portion or part of a year as the said district judge or judges may determine, and can be paid for the time and periods said probation officer serves under such appointment. The salary and expenses of the probation officer shall be paid out of the county funds in the county treasury in monthly installments, in the same manner as other claims against the county.

Any district judge, or judges, appointing such probation officer to receive a salary or other compensation from the county provided for under this act, shall transmit such appointment to the district superintendent of schools of the district of which the county in which said appointment is made is a part, the state superintendent of public instruction, and the governor of this state, who shall constitute a board to investigate the competency of such person so appointed to act as probation officer, and it shall be the duty of a majority of said board to approve or disapprove of such appointee, within thirty days after the submission thereof by the said district court, and a failure to act thereon within such time shall constitute an approval of such appointment. If a majority of such board are of the opinion that such appointee does not possess the qualifications for a probation officer, they shall notify the court of their conclusions within thirty days of such appointment to the respective members thereof, whereupon it shall be the duty of the district judge, or judges, to withdraw such appointment and appoint some one who shall receive the approval of said board.

Probation officers receiving a salary or other compensation from the county, provided for by this act, are hereby vested with all the power and authority of police or sheriffs to make arrests and perform any other duties ordinarily required by policemen and sheriffs which may be incident to their office or necessary or convenient to the performance of their duties; provided, that other probation officers may be vested with like power and authority upon a written certificate from the district judge, or judges, that they are persons of discretion and good character, and that it is the desire of the court to vest them with all the power and authority conferred by law upon probation officers receiving compensation from the county.

The appointment of probation officers and the approval thereof as to the qualifications of such officers by the board herein designated, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court. Probation officers shall take an oath such as may be required of other county officers to perform their duties, and file in the office of the clerk of the district court. As amended, Stats. 1917, 67.

734. Probation committee—Oath—Duties.

SEC. 7. The judge or judges of the district court in and for each county or city and county of the state, and in counties where there is more than one judge of the said court, shall, by an order entered in the minutes of the court, appoint five discreet citizens of good moral character and of either sex, to be known as "Probation Committee," and shall fill all vacancies occurring in such committee. The clerk of said court shall immediately notify each person appointed upon said committee, and thereupon said person shall appear before the judge of the district court to whom has been assigned all proceedings under this act, and qualify by taking an oath, which shall be entered in said juvenile court record, to faithfully perform the duties of a member of said probation committee.

The members of such probation committee shall hold office for two years, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. When any vacancy occurs in any probation committee otherwise than by expiration of the term of office of any member thereof, his successor shall be appointed to hold office for the unexpired term.

Members of the probation committee shall serve without compensation, and shall choose from their members a chairman and secretary.

The district court, or any judge thereof, may at any time require of said probation committee or probation officer to examine into the qualifications and management of any society, association or corporation, other than a state institution, receiving or applying for any child or children under this act, and to report thereon to the court.

It shall be the duty of each probation committee, prior to the first day of December in each year, to prepare a report in writing on the qualifications and management of all societies, associations and corporations, except state institutions, applying for or receiving any child under this act from the courts of their respective counties, and in such reports said committee may make such suggestions or comments as to them may seem fit, such report to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court appointing such committee for the information of the county commissioners thereof. The probation committee shall also have the control and management of the internal affairs of any detention home, heretofore or hereafter established by the board of county commissioners of their county, such control and management at all times to be subject to the approval of the district court or judge or judges thereof, and it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners to provide for the payment of such employees as may be needed in the efficient management of such detention home.

Dependent and Neglected Children. If the court shall find any child under the age of eighteen years to be dependent or neglected within the meaning of this act, the court may allow such child to remain at its home subject to the friendly visitation of a probation officer, or to report to the court or probation officer from its home or school at such times as the court may require. And if parent, parents, guardian or custodian consent thereto, or if the court shall further find that the parent, parents, guardian or custodian of such child are unfit or improper guardians or are unable or unwilling to care for, protect, train, educate, correct or discipline such child and that it is for the interest of such child and other people of this state that such child be taken from the custody of its parents, custodian or guardian, the court may make an order appointing as guardian of the person of such child some reputable citizen of good moral character, and order such guardian to place such child in some suitable family, home or other suitable place which such guardian may provide for such child, or the court may enter an order committing such child to some suitable state institution of this or any other state, organized for the care of dependent or neglected children, or to the Nevada school of industry, and no child thus committed shall be committed to said school for a longer term than until he or she shall attain the age of 21 years, but the board of government of such institution or school, by its order, may at any time after six months service discharge any child from the institution or school as a reward of good conduct and upon satisfactory evidence of reformation. The board shall have the power to establish rules and regulations under which any child placed in said institution or school may be allowed to go out upon parole outside of the buildings and enclosures, but to remain in the legal custody and under the control of the board of government and subject at any time to be taken back within the enclosures of the institution. Full power to enforce such rules and regulations and to retake and keep any child so upon parole is hereby conferred upon said board, whose written order, certified by its secretary, shall be sufficient warrant for all reasons named therein to authorize any officer to return to actual custody any conditionally released or paroled child; and it is hereby made the duty of all officers to execute such order the same as in ordinary criminal process. As amended, Stats. 1917, 70; 1919, 35.

Under Rev. Laws, 4093, providing that any district judge upon a showing that an orphan is the child of parents one or both of whom were, at the time of their decease, residents of the state, and that the condition of the orphan is such that it would be for his best interest to be admitted to such home, may commit the orphan to the home at the expense of the county, and that the directors at their discretion may receive any child from a living resident parent or guardian and require such parent or guardian to contribute to its support, but that no child shall be so received unless sent by the county commissioners of the county in which the child resides, who shall agree to pay for its maintenance, and this section, as amended, providing for the commission of dependent and neglected children to any suitable state institution organized for the care of dependent or neglected children, and Rev. Laws, 728, under which "dependent and neglected children" include those having immoral, evil, or incorrigible tendencies, the court could not commit to the state orphans' home a dependent or neglected child who is not an orphan, since an "orphans' home" is an institution or home for the care of destitute orphans, and not a "reformatory" in which young offenders are confined and instructed, with a view to their reformation. McKinnon v. Harwood, 35 Nev. 494, 501 (130 P. 465).

739. Guardianship, how perfected.

SEC. 12. Any child found to be dependent or neglected or delinquent as defined in this act and awarded by the court to a guardian institution or association, shall be held by such guardian institution or association, as the case may be, by virtue of the order entered in such case, and the clerk of the court shall issue and cause to be delivered to such guardian or association a certified copy of such order of the court, which certified copy of such order shall be proof of such guardian institution or association in behalf of such child. The guardianship under this act shall continue until the court shall by further order otherwise direct, but not after such child shall have reached the age of twenty-one (21) years, but if the parent or parents or grandparent or grandparents of such dependent or neglected child are poor and cannot properly care for, maintain and properly educate such child, but are otherwise proper guardians and a person or persons of good reputation and morals, and shall covenant and agree that such child shall attend school regularly during all school days, when such child is of school age, or until said child shall have completed the eighth grade of the public grammar school, or school of like grades of studies, or have graduated in bookkeeping and commercial course, the court may enter an order finding such facts, and fixing the amount of money necessary to enable the parent or parents or grandparent or grandparents to properly care for and educate such child, providing such amount shall not exceed the amount it would cost the county to have such child maintained and educated at any county or state home, or place provided for dependent or neglected children, in the State of Nevada, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the county board through its county agent, or otherwise, to pay to such parent or parents, or grandparent or grandparents, or blood aunt or blood uncle, the amount specified at such times as said order may designate for the care of such neglected or dependent child, until the further order of the court, and the court shall cease to sanction the payment of the specified amount whenever it shall appear that such child is not receiving the benefit it should from the payment of said specified amount of money.

Penalties for violation.

SEC. 2. Any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of the said act as amended shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum of money not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500), or not less than sixty (60) days nor more than two hundred days (200) in the county jail, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Repeal—Penalties.

SEC. 3. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act as amended are hereby repealed. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this act as amended shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum of money not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500), or not less than sixty (60) days, nor more than two hundred days (200) in the county jail, or by both such fine and imprisonment. As amended, Stats. 1913, 173.

Fourteenth—To pass or adopt all ordinances, rules and regulations, and do and perform all other acts and things necessary for the execution of the powers and jurisdiction by this act conferred; provided, that all ordinances of said town or city in force at the date of the assumption of said board of county commissioners of the powers and duties by this act conferred or imposed, and not inconsistent therewith shall remain in full force and be enforced until changed or repealed by such board; and provided further, that no ordinance passed by said board shall be in force or effect until published for one week.

Fifteenth—To audit and allow all claims properly payable out of the funds of said town or city. Any property, real or personal, necessary for the public use of said town or city, or the inhabitants thereof, may be condemned and appropriated in the following manner: The board of county commissioners shall appoint one referee and the claimant or claimants, or owner or owners of the property sought to be condemned, shall appoint one referee, and in the event the two referees so appointed shall not agree in the valuation of the property or the interest or interests claimed therein, then the two so appointed shall select a third referee, and the decision of the majority of such three, as to the valuation of the property or the interest or interests therein by them appraised, shall be reported to said board of county commissioners, and shall be by them regarded as final and binding, unless the party deeming himself aggrieved by the decision of such referees shall appeal therefrom to the district court of the proper county within thirty days after notice of such decision shall have been served upon him; and upon the tender, in gold coin, of the sum named as the value of such property interest or interests to the claimant or claimants, owner or owners thereof, or his or their agent or attorney, such property, or the interest or interests therein appraised, shall become and be the property of said town or city, and said board of county commissioners may, at any time after twenty days notice, cause the sheriff of the county to remove all persons and obstructions from such property, in case the same be real, and may take immediate possession of the condemned property, whether the same be real or personal. In case the claimant or claimants, owner or owners of property sought to be condemned, as herein provided, shall refuse or neglect, when required by the board of county commissioners, to appoint a referee to value such property, then said board of county commissioners shall constitute a board of appraisers of such property, and their valuation of the same shall be final and binding, subject to right of appeal, as hereinbefore provided; but no act of condemnation of property, or of any claim of interest therein as herein provided, shall be deemed or held as an admission on the part of said town or city, or the inhabitants thereof, of the legality of the asserted claim thereto or right therein; and in the condemnation of property, as in this act provided, the referees or county commissioners, as the case may be, shall consider whether the proposed improvement, for which said property is so condemned, will be of any benefit to the person or persons owning or claiming the said property or some interest therein, and if they find that the same will be a benefit to such person or persons they shall estimate the value of such benefit to him or them, and deduct the amount thereof from the estimated value of the property or interest therein condemned. As amended, Stats. 1919, 408.

The proviso of this section, reading that in all unincorporated cities and towns the board of county commissioners shall have power to fix and collect a tax upon certain businesses and amusements, and none other, does not apply to towns which established their form of government after the unincorporated town act (Stats. 1879, 103) had been repealed by Stats. 1887, 51, or to towns which, by reason of their having a voting population of 600 or more, ipso facto come under the general town government act, the term "unincorporated towns" not referring to all towns within the state not incorporated; as to give it such an interpretation would nullify the grant by the legislature in the body of the act of power to boards of county commissioners to levy and collect a license tax upon numerous specific businesses, but referring specifically to towns which have assumed a form of town government under the act of 1879, 103. Nye County v. Schmidt, 39 Nev. 456-465 (157 P. 1073).

895. Tax for fire department in unincorporated towns.

SECTION 1. The county commissioners of the various counties of the State of Nevada are hereby empowered to levy and collect a tax of not exceeding one and one-half per cent upon the assessed value of property within any unincorporated town for the benefit of the fire department in such town. As amended, Stats. 1913, 12.

949. May acquire public utilities, when.

SEC. 10. The provisions of this act shall apply to any unincorporated city or town within this state, which is now or may hereafter be subject to the provisions of an act of the legislature entitled "An act providing for the government of cities and towns of this state," approved February 26, 1881, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto. Wherever the convenience of the inhabitants thereof will be benefited thereby the county commissioners may join and consolidate two or more unincorporated towns into one sewerage, light or water system district. As amended, Stats. 1917, 405.

Vacating unoccupied portion of plat—Procedure.

SEC. 10A. Where a portion of any plat has for five years remained unoccupied, and the streets and alleys thereof are not necessary to the use and convenience of the residents of the occupied portions of such plats, and where such unoccupied portion is bounded on at least one side by a boundary of such plat, application in writing to vacate such unoccupied portion, setting forth such facts, may be made to the city council of the city wherein such land is situated and in all other cases to the board of county commissioners of the county wherein said land is contained, which petition shall be signed by all the owners of land in the portion of such plat proposed to be vacated. Copy of such petition shall be published in some newspaper of general circulation published in such town or city, and if none be published therein, then in some newspaper published nearest in the county, for at least once a week for four consecutive weeks, which said publication shall be deemed due and sufficient notice to all parties in interest of nature and purpose of such petition. Upon the filing of such application and proof of publication, the city council or board of county commissioners, as the case may be, shall, at its next regular meeting, proceed to hear, consider and dispose of the same as provided in section 10 of this act; provided, that any person claiming material injury by any order vacating any portion of a plat under the provisions of this section may at any time within six months after the date of such order commence an action in the district court to have such order set aside. Added, Stats. 1915, 392.

975-83. Repealed, Stats. 1917, 254.

978. This section does not authorize a city organized under a special charter, which gave the trustees power to improve the streets and to issue bonds subject to the rights of the voters to petition for a special election on the question, to make a temporary loan to pay for the paving of street intersections on its main street, since "great necessity or emergency" means something greatly out of the ordinary, which could not be met by the usual machinery of the government, immediately indispensable, and does not include what is merely essential in the sense of being convenient. Chartz v. Carson City, 39 Nev. 285, 292, 297, 298 (156 P. 925).

980. See Chartz v. Carson City, 39 Nev. 285, under section 978.

981. See Chartz v. Carson City, 39 Nev. 285, under section 978.

991. May issue bonds for street improvements.

SECTION 1. Any incorporated town or city in the State of Nevada, whether incorporated under a general or special act, may, by ordinance, cause to be issued bonds of the town or city to be called "(insert name of street) Street Improvement Bonds," payable in annual periods of one to not more than ten years from date, and to bear interest payable annually, not exceeding the rate of seven per cent per annum; and said bonds shall not be sold for less than their par value. Such bonds shall be issued for the purpose of paying the cost of laying the cement sidewalks, paving, macadamizing or otherwise improving the streets and alleys in said town or city, exclusive of the intersections of streets and spaces opposite alleys therein; provided, that the entire cost of laying the cement sidewalks, or paving or macadamizing or otherwise improving any such streets, avenues or alleys, properly chargeable to any blocks, lots or lands, or parts thereof, within the district assessed, may be paid by the owner of such lots or land within fifty days from the levy of such special taxes, and thereupon such lots or lands shall be exempt from any lien or charge therefor. As amended, Stats. 1913, 114.

993. City charter must be complied with.

SEC. 3. When the council of any such city or town shall determine to make any of the public improvements above mentioned, it may, in the ordinance declaring such determination, also declare whether or not bonds shall be issued to pay for the cost of such improvement as provided in this act; and in case it is decided to issue bonds as herein provided, the assessments to pay for the cost of such improvements shall be made as provided in the charter of said city or town or act under which the same is incorporated. If said assessments are not all paid by the property owners against whom they are levied, at the end of fifty (50) days from the time they become a lien, the said council shall, within a reasonable time thereafter, pass an ordinance directing the issuance of bonds herein provided, fixing their form, declaring the amount remaining unpaid, denominations and interest, the lots or parcels of land against which the said assessments remaining unpaid in whole or in part are a lien, and the names of the owners thereof, where known, with the amounts due thereon, and directing that the said unpaid assessments or portions thereof shall thereafter be paid in the manner and at the time to be decided by the council and set forth in the ordinance directing the issuance of the bonds. Each of the said installments shall bear interest from the end of the said fifty (50) days until due at the same rate of interest as that provided for in the bonds, payable annually, which rate shall be fixed by the ordinance. Such owners of any of the property described in said complaint or embraced in said map or maps or plat or plats. In the event that it is necessary, for the purpose of fixing and establishing said map or maps or plat or plats, to devote any pieces or parcels of property owned by any of the defendants within said city, subdivision, or addition, to public uses as streets or alleys, it shall be proper for the court or judge to appoint three appraisers, who shall appraise and assess the value of such property, and the court may condition the approval of such map or plat on the payment or proper tender by plaintiff to such party defendant of such assessed sum. This section provides for the removal of county-seat by majority of the voters at an election called on petition of three-fifths of the taxpayers who are electors. Section 21 of article 4 of the state constitution (Rev. Laws, 279) provides that in all cases enumerated in section 20, and in all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, all laws shall be general and of uniform application throughout the state. Prior to the last general election the courthouse at Dayton was destroyed by fire. Held, that the special act was justified on the ground that an emergency existed, calling for prompt action. COUNTY GOVERNMENT

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

1503. Date of meetings—Special meetings—Temporary appointments.

SEC. 3. The meetings of the board of county commissioners shall be held at the county-seats of their respective counties on the fifth day of each month and every calendar month; provided, that when such day falls upon a Sunday or legal holiday, the board shall meet upon the next succeeding judicial day. Special meetings may be held at the county-seat for the transaction of business pertaining to the county, whenever said meeting shall be authorized by the board by resolution duly adopted and entered upon its minutes at a regular meeting; provided, that when there shall be in any county, township or precinct office, no officer duly authorized to execute the duties thereof, and it is necessary that a temporary appointment be made to fill such office, as otherwise provided by law, the board of county commissioners shall be authorized and empowered, and it shall become its duty to forthwith hold a special meeting for such purpose. Said meeting may be held by unanimous consent of the said board, or, if for any cause such consent be not obtainable, it shall thereupon become the duty of the chairman or any other member of the board having knowledge of such necessity, to forthwith call such special meeting and to notify the other members thereof, and such meeting shall be held as soon as practicable, but not less than three days, except by unanimous consent, after actual notice to all members of said board, whereupon a majority thereof shall proceed to act upon such appointment as provided by law. The board shall also meet on the tenth day after each general election to canvass election returns. As amended, Stats. 1913, 22; 1915, 74; 1917, 1.

1508. In view of this section and Rev. Laws, 7028, 7029, it was held that, there being a presumption that public officers perform the duties required of them by law, the grand jury cannot hire an accountant to examine the books of county officials; it being their duty, in case there is reason to believe that the books of the county should be audited, to request either the board of county commissioners or the governor to provide for such auditing. Stone v. Bell, 35 Nev. 240, 246 (129 P. 458).

Giving negotiable notes for temporary loans made by county commissioners in case of great necessity or emergency, to be paid from the next tax levy, under authority of Rev. Laws, 3831, 3832, is not within subdivision 13 of this section, empowering county commissioners to do things "strictly necessary" to the full discharge of their powers. First National Bank of San Francisco v. Nye County, 38 Nev. 124, 138, 139 (145 P. 932; Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1195).

A county having had the benefit of money obtained by county commissioners on a temporary loan under Rev. Laws, 3831, is estopped to assert that there did not exist a case of great emergency authorizing the commissioners making the loan. Id.

1513. Repealed, Stats. 1915, 6.

1513. Held, that this section did not authorize a recount before the court, but left the parties free without a recount by the board to initiate such contests in the courts as might otherwise be prescribed by law. Brown v. Dunn, 35 Nev. 166, 171, 172, 173, 176 (127 P. 81).

This section was not repealed by Stats. 1913, 493, the general election law, under Const. art. 4, sec. 21, providing that where a general law can be made applicable, all laws shall be general and uniform in operation; since a general statute will not repeal particular provisions of a former act unless the two conflict irreconcilably. McBride v. Griswold, 38 Nev. 56-63 (146 P. 756).

Under Const. art. 4, sec. 17, providing that each law enacted shall embrace but one subject which shall be briefly expressed in the title, this section is constitutional. Id.

This section is not void as vesting judicial power in the boards of county commissioners. Id.

Under this section, the board may reconvene after adjournment as a board of canvassers to conduct a recount, even in the absence of express authority in the statutes; the imposition of a specific duty always implying power and function to perform it in a reasonable manner. Id.

Where various remedies as to election contests were afforded, at common law, under the code of civil procedure, and this section, these remedies are concurrent, not being incompatible, and the party seeking relief may use any. Id.

1523. Under this section and Rev. Laws, 1535 and 1541, providing that demands against a county must be presented in the form of bills, one having several liquidated claims may put them in one bill, and where specified demands are allowed and others rejected, the claimant may accept the amount allowed and sue for the claims disallowed in whole or in part; and a constable presenting monthly bills made up of various items for services rendered, for which the statute prescribes fees, may accept the part allowed and sue for the part disallowed, though in the case of an unliquidated demand, the allowance of a part requires claimant to accept the part as satisfaction for the claim, or sue for the entire demand. Wolf v. Humboldt County, 36 Nev. 26, 32, 33 (131 P. 964, 45 L. R. A. (N.S.) 762).

1530. Repealed in part by Stats. 1915, 65.

1535. See Wolf v. Humboldt County, 36 Nev. 26, under section 1523.

1541. See Wolf v. Humboldt County, 36 Nev. 26, under section 1523.

An Act to authorize the county commissioners of any of the counties of the State of Nevada to purchase or construct railway lines, and to issue bonds for that purpose.

Approved February 27, 1915, 62

Purchase or construct railroads.

SECTION 1. The county commissioners of any of the counties of this state are hereby authorized, upon there being filed with them a petition signed by two-thirds of the taxpayers of the county, requesting them so to do, to purchase or construct a railway line, or lines, within the limits of the county, if in their judgment it would be to the interest of the county, so to do, and to pay for the same out of the general fund of the county or from a fund to be created for that purpose by the sale of bonds as hereinafter provided.

Title vests in county.

SEC. 2. The title to any railway line or lines constructed or acquired by or under the authority of any board of county commissioners in this state, as provided in this act, shall be vested in said county, and under its control and management.

Petition, action upon.

SEC. 3. Upon the filing of the petition provided for in section 1, if the county commissioners shall adjudge it to be to the interest of the county to build or construct the railway line specified in such petition, and if in the opinion of the said county commissioners it is advisable that funds for that purpose should be acquired by the sale of bonds, the county commissioners shall, not later than eight weeks before any general or special election, determine the amount of such bonds to be issued and make and enter in their minutes a certificate of such determination, and make and enter an order submitting the question of the issuance of such bonds to the qualified electors of said county. If such order of submission shall be made and entered more than six months prior to the time for holding a general election, the board of county commissioners may order a special election for said purpose, which said special election shall be conducted in the manner provided by law for conducting elections, and the ballots at such election shall have printed thereon the words: "For the County Railway Bonds," and the words: "Against the County Railway Bonds." The votes cast for and against the issuance of said bonds at any election therefor shall be counted and returns thereof made and canvassed in the manner provided by law for counting, making returns, and canvassing the votes of a general election.

And before any sale is made of said bonds notice of such proposed sale shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county, if there be one published in the county, and if not, then by publication in the newspaper published nearest to the county-seat of said county, for at least ten (10) days before such bonds are disposed of, inviting sealed bids to be made for said bonds; and said bonds shall be sold only to the highest and best bidder therefor.

SEC. 5. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, countersigned by the county treasurer, and authenticated with the seal of the county. Coupons for interest shall be attached to each bond, so that the same may be removed without injury to the bonds, and each of said coupons shall be consecutively numbered, and signed by the chairman of said board and by the county treasurer.

For the purpose of creating a fund for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds so issued, the board of county commissioners of such county so issuing such bonds is authorized and directed to levy and collect annually thereafter a special tax upon all the property, both real and personal, subject to taxation, including the proceeds of mines, within the boundaries of such county, until such bonds and the interest thereupon have been fully paid and discharged, sufficient to pay the interest upon said bonds, and to provide a fund for the payment of the principal of the same according to their tenor and effect. Such tax shall be levied and collected in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes are assessed and collected, and the proceeds thereof shall be kept by the county treasurer in a fund known as the "County Railway Bond Fund," and paid out therefrom only in the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds; provided, that when the principal and interest of the said bonds shall have been fully paid, and all of said bonds retired, any and all moneys remaining on hand in said fund shall be transferred to the general fund of said county.

Redemption of bonds.

Whenever the county treasurer shall pay and redeem any bond issued under the provisions of this act, he shall forthwith cancel the same by writing across the face thereof the word "Paid," together with the date of such payment, and sign his name thereto, and turn the same over to the county auditor, taking his receipt therefor, which receipt shall be filed with the clerk of the board of county commissioners, and the auditor shall credit the treasurer on his books for the amount so paid.

Interest ceases, when.

SEC. 8. Should the holder of such bonds, or any of them, for any cause whatever, fail to present such bonds to the said county treasurer when they become due, all interest on such bonds shall thereafter immediately cease.

An Act declaring certain weapons and instruments when unlawfully carried, and also the carrying thereof, to be public nuisances, and providing for their confiscation and destruction.

Approved March 13, 1913, 116

Weapons declared nuisance.

SECTION 1. The unlawful carrying of a pistol, revolver or other firearm, or of an instrument or weapon of the kind usually known as blackjack, bludgeon, slung-shot, billy, sand-club, sand-bag, metal knuckles, or of a dagger, dirk, dangerous knife, or any other dangerous or deadly weapon, by any person save peace officers or persons while employed upon or traveling upon trains, stages or other public conveyances, or persons having permission from the board of county commissioners, attested by its clerk, of the county in which such weapon shall be carried, is hereby declared to be a nuisance, and such weapons are hereby declared to be nuisances; and when any one or more of the above-described instruments or weapons shall be taken from the possession of any person charged with the commission of any public offense or crime the same shall be surrendered to the sheriff of the county wherein the same shall be taken; except that in incorporated cities having a police force such instruments or weapons shall, when the possession thereof is detected by any member of such police force, be surrendered to the head of the police force or department of such incorporated city.

1736-66. Repealed, Stats. 1913, 568.

1737. The original primary election law (Stats. 1909, 273), section 2 of which declares that the act should "not apply to special elections to fill vacancies, to the nomination of party candidates for presidential electors," and that it should not be construed as affecting the right of political parties to hold conventions for the selection of delegates to national conventions, was amended by Stats. 1911, 334, to provide that the act should "not apply to special elections to fill vacancies to the nomination of party candidates for presidential electors," thus omitting the comma after the word "vacancies" as shown in the original act. Section 27 of the original act provided that vacancies occurring after the holding of any primary election should be filled by the party committee of the city, county, or state, as the case might be. The omission of the comma must be regarded as the result of a clerical error, otherwise two methods exist of selecting candidates to fill vacancies in the office of presidential electors, and hence electors chosen by convention of a political party were the only names entitled to go upon the official ballot. State ex rel. Allen v. Brodigan, 34 Nev. 486, 489, 490-492 (125 P. 699).

Under this section and sections 1835, 1836, providing that nominations made by any convention shall be certified by a certificate containing the name of each person nominated, and the designation of the party or principle which the convention represents, and providing that a certificate of nomination shall contain the name of the candidate to be nominated, with the other information required in the certificate of nominating conventions, the names of candidates nominated by petition are entitled to go on the official ballot with the designation of the party named in the certificate of nomination, and where a certificate of nomination for state offices, United States senator, representative in Congress, and presidential electors designates the candidates as nominees of the Progressive party, the secretary of state may not certify the candidates as independent, but must certify them as candidates of the Progressive party. State ex rel. Springmeyer v. Brodigan, 35 Nev. 37, 50 (126 P. 680).

1740. See State ex rel. Springmeyer v. Brodigan, 35 Nev. 35, under section 1737.

1751. Cited, Turner v. Fogg, 39 Nev. 414 (159 P. 56).

1763. Under this section it was held, that where a contestant for the nomination for justice of the peace claimed that he was deprived of the nomination by mistakes in counting the ballots in certain precincts, he was entitled to initiate a contest by affidavit before the district court under this section and Rev. Laws, 1764, regardless of his right to a recount by the board of county commissioners as is provided for by Rev. Laws, 1513. Brown v. Dunn, 35 Nev. 166, 174, 175 (127 P. 81).

1764. See Brown v. Dunn, 35 Nev. 166, under section 1763.

This section was a special law relating to primary election contests, which controls as to them, the provisions of the civil practice act requiring that there shall be but one form of action and for the requisites of a complaint therein. Id.

1765. Cited, Brown v. Dunn, 35 Nev. 173 (127 P. 81).

1767-1832. Repealed, Stats. 1913, 568.

1795. This section is not repealed by a subsequent statute embodied in Rev. Laws, 5409, providing that a public record in a public office may be admitted as evidence by the certificate of the custodian, and ballots must remain in the custody fixed by law except when their removal is authorized by some court, and ballots are not admissible in evidence in an election contest under the certificate of the clerk when they have been out of his official custody subsequent to the making of the certificate, at least in the absence of a proper foundation for their admission having been laid. State v. Baker and Josephs, 35 Nev. 2, 6, 11-15 (126 P. 345; 129 P. 452).

Under this section, ballots and election returns duly deposited are public documents within Rev. Laws, 5409, providing that a public document in the custody of a public officer may be admitted in evidence by the certificate of the custodian that it is genuine and authentic. Id.

1834. See State ex rel. Springmeyer v. Brodigan, 35 Nev. 35, under section 1737.

1835. See State ex rel. Springmeyer v. Brodigan, 35 Nev. 35, under section 1737.

1836. Similar section (Cutting, 1693) cited, Riter v. Douglass, 32 Nev. 431, 439 (109 P. 444).

See State ex rel. Miller v. Harmon, 35 Nev. 189-191, under section 1838.

1838. Under Rev. Laws, 1836, and this section, a certificate signed by the requisite number of electors is not vitiated by signers subsequently signing another certificate nominating another person for the same office, but duplicate signatures are invalid as to the subsequent certificate. State ex rel. Miller v. Harmon, 35 Nev. 189-191 (127 P. 221; Ann. Cas. 1914C, 891).

1839. An application for mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept and file certificates of nomination of presidential electors chosen at a Democratic party convention, brought before the expiration of the time provided for filing with the secretary of state certificates of nomination by convention, is premature, and must be denied. State ex rel. Allen v. Brodigan, 34 Nev. 487, 492 (125 P. 699).

It will be presumed that the secretary of state will do his duty in filing and accepting certificates of nomination when presented at the proper time. Id.

Similar section (Cutting, 1704) cited, In Re Primary Ballots, 33 Nev. 138 (126 P. 643).

1852. Under this section, the cross must be in the square after the name of the candidate, and a ballot with a cross after the name of the candidate and before the square is invalid. State v. Baker and Josepha, 35 Nev. 301, 316 (126 P. 345; 129 P. 452).

Under this section, the cross in voting for or against a constitutional amendment need not be placed in the square, and a ballot with a cross before the square and after the word "yes" or "no" in voting on a constitutional amendment is valid, as is also a ballot in which a single cross is placed in the square. Id.

1858. Under this section a ballot containing a cross after the names of the candidates for the same office cannot be counted for either. State ex rel. Springmeyer v. Baker and Josepha, 35 Nev. 301, 317 (126 P. 345; 129 P. 452).

Under this section a ballot containing a cross in the square following a blank space left for filling in the name of a candidate for an office for which no candidate has been nominated, or containing a name of a candidate written by the voter, must be rejected. Id.

1887. The provisions of Const. art. 4, sec. 17 (Rev. Laws, 275) does not render invalid the provision of Stats. 1917, 385, that electors in the military service may vote in accordance with this act, which was repealed by Stats. 1913, 568; revival by title not being prohibited; for an "amendment" is an alteration affecting a change in the draft, or form, or substance of a law already enacted, or of a bill proposed for enactment, but, when the legislative body attempts to revise, it thereby assumes to make additions or changes or corrections to alter or reform something then in force and effect, and "revision" in a legislative sense applies only to a measure, bill, or law then having existence, life, and force, and cannot, in the nature of things, apply to a nullified or repealed act; and the term "revived," as applied to legislative proceedings, signifies the reconference of validity, force, and effect, at least the reconference of validity, force, and effect as the revised measure, law, or bill formerly possessed. Maclean v. Brodigan, 41 Nev. 468, 477, 479, 480 (172 P. 375).

This act is a compliance with Const. art. 2, sec. 3 (Rev. Laws, 252), and is not void for discrimination against electors in the naval service, or conscripted men in the military service, since "military service" includes every branch of service in either the army or the navy of the United States. Id.

How candidates nominated.

SEC. 2. All candidates for elective public office shall be nominated as follows:

(1) Candidates of a political party as defined by the preceding section shall be nominated at the primary election held in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(2) All other candidates for public office shall be nominated as hereinafter in this act provided.

The foregoing notice shall name only the political parties in which there is a contest for nomination, and shall designate only the polling-place for the respective precincts; provided, that in towns or cities which have more than one polling-place the notice shall show the location and description of each.

The county clerk shall forward to each registry agent within the county three written or printed notices for each precinct or voting district, and it shall be the duty of the respective registry agents to whom such notices shall be delivered to post the same in three of the most public places in each precinct or voting district at least fifteen days prior to the date of the primary.

Said county clerk shall cause a notice in similar form and substance, eliminating his descriptions of the polling-places, to be published in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county, once a week for two successive weeks prior to said primary.

Ballots—Paper furnished.

SEC. 12. All voting at primaries shall be by ballot. A separate official ballot for each party and for nonpartisan voters shall be printed and provided for use in each precinct, but such ballots must be alike in the designation of nonpartisan candidates. It shall be the duty of the county clerk of each county to provide such official printed ballots to be used at the primary. Such official ballots shall be printed on official paper furnished by the secretary of state in the manner provided in the general election laws. The names of all candidates who have filed the prescribed declarations or acceptance of candidacy shall be printed thereon.

(a) Official primary ballots shall be not less than twelve inches wide, and enough wider to conform to the requirements of the following provisions of this section, and as long as the herein prescribed captions, headings, party designations, directions to voters, and lists of names of candidates, properly subdivided according to the several offices to be filled, may require.

(b) Across the top of the ballot shall be printed in black-faced capital type, not smaller than forty-eight point, the words: "Official Primary Ballot." Beneath this shall be printed in not smaller than eighteen-point type the name of the party, or "Nonpartisan Ballot," and beneath this the name of the county and precinct, wherein such ballot is to be used, together with the date of such primary.

(c) At least three-eighths of an inch below the name of the county and precinct, as aforesaid, and the date of the primary, shall be printed in ten-point black-face type, double-leaded, the following: "Instructions to Voters: To vote for a candidate make a cross (X) in the square at the right of the name of the person for whom you desire to vote."

(d) The "Instructions to Voters" shall be separated from the lists of candidates and the designation of the several offices for which nominations are to be made by one light and heavy line or rule.

(e) The names of the candidates shall be grouped according to the office for which they are candidates and the names in each group shall be placed with the surnames first and arranged alphabetically and each group shall be preceded by the designation of the office for which the candidates seek nomination, and the words "Vote for one" or "Vote for two" or more, according to the number to be nominated. Such designation of the offices for which nominations are to be made and of the number of candidates to be nominated shall be printed in heavy-faced type, not smaller than eight-point. The word or words designating the office shall be printed flush with the left-hand margin, and the words "Vote for one" or "Vote for two" or more, as the case may be, shall extend to the extreme right of the column and over the voting square. The designation of the office and the directions for voting shall be separated from the names of the candidates by a light line.

(f) The names of the candidates shall appear on the ballot in heavy-faced capital type not smaller than eight-point, between lines or rules three-eighths of an inch apart. To the right of the names of the candidates shall be printed a light line or rule so as to form a voting space at least three-eighths of an inch on each side.

Each group of names of candidates shall be separated from the succeeding group by one light and one heavy line or rule.

(g) All voting at the primary under the laws of this state shall be by ballot and the respective tickets of all political parties shall be printed on separate ballots, and the election officers shall not deliver any ballot to any elector other than the ballot containing the ticket of the party to which he belongs, as shown by the register; provided, that ballots showing names of nonpartisan candidates only, shall be furnished to voters who have registered for the primary without declaring any party affiliations.

(h) Where there is no party contest for any office the name of the candidate for party nomination shall be omitted from the ballot and shall be certified by the proper officer as a nominee of his party for such office.

(i) The county clerk shall determine the size and shape of the ballot in such a way as to conform to the provisions of this act, using two, three, four, or five columns as shall be most convenient. Party ballots shall have an extra heavy black vertical line between the column or columns on the left in which the names of candidates for party offices are printed and the column or columns on the right in which the names of candidates for nonpartisan offices are printed.

(j) In addition to the party ballots provided for in this section, the county clerk shall prepare and have printed a "Nonpartisan Primary Ballot," which shall be the same, except as to size thereof, as the other official primary ballots; provided, that the names of all party candidates shall be omitted therefrom.

Sample ballots.

SEC. 13. Not less than twenty-five days before the September primary each county clerk shall prepare sample ballots for such primary, which sample ballots may be smaller in dimensions, but shall be otherwise exact copies of the official ballot to be used at the primary. Such sample ballots shall be conspicuously marked with the words "Sample Ballot."

Such county clerk shall forthwith mail five copies of said sample ballot to each candidate who has filed with him a declaration or acceptance of candidacy and one copy to each candidate whose name has been certified to him by the secretary of state, to the postoffice address as given in such declaration, acceptance or certification, and shall post a copy of said sample ballot in a conspicuous place in his office, and shall mail to each registry agent one sample ballot for every four registered voters in such precinct.

On the fifteenth day before any primary the county clerk shall correct any errors or omissions in the official ballot and shall cause the same to be printed as provided in this act and shall cause the same to be furnished to the various precinct election officers in the manner provided by law for the distribution of ballots for the November election; provided, that the number of ballots furnished to each precinct shall be for each political party a number in the proportion of one hundred and ten ballots for each one hundred electors registered in such party; and the same ratio of nonpartisan ballots for electors who have registered for the primary without designating any party affiliation; and provided further, that he shall furnish to each precinct for each party and the nonpartisan voters a number of ballots greater by five than the number of voters registered in each class in the precinct. He shall also furnish to the election officers of each precinct sample ballots of each class, equal in number to one-fourth of the official ballots.

SEC. 14. The officers of primary elections shall be the same as provided by law for general elections, and such officers shall receive the same compensation for their services at primary elections as provided by law for general elections. No person shall demand, solicit, ask or invite any candidate to subscribe to the support of any club, church, or organization of any kind, to buy tickets to any entertainment or ball, or to subscribe for or pay for space in any book, program, periodical or other publication; if any candidate shall make any such payment or contribution with hope or intent to influence the result of the election, he shall be guilty of a corrupt practice; but this section shall not apply to the solicitation of any business advertisement for insertion in any periodical in which such candidate was regularly advertising prior to his candidacy, nor to ordinary business advertisements, nor to his regular payment to any organization, religious, charitable or otherwise, of which he may have been a member, or to which he may have been a contributor, for more than six months before his candidacy, nor to ordinary contributions at church services.

The officer, or board entrusted by law with the preparation of the official ballots for any election shall, as far as practical, warn candidates of the danger of omission of their names by reason of this provision, but delay in making any such statement beyond the time prescribed shall not preclude its acceptance or prevent the insertion of the name on the ballot if there is reasonable time therefor after the receipt of such statements. Any such vacancy on the ballot shall be filled by the proper committee of the political party affected in the manner authorized by law, but not by the use of the name of the candidate who failed to file such statements. Not to be deprived of rights for trivial offense.

SEC. 37. Where, upon the trial of any action or proceeding for the contest of the right of any person declared nominated or elected to office, or to annul or set aside such nomination or election, or to remove a person from his office, it appears from the evidence that the offense complained of was not committed by the candidate, or with his knowledge or consent, or was committed without his sanction or connivance, and that all reasonable means for preventing the commission of such offense at such election were taken by and on behalf of the candidate, or that the offense or offenses complained of were trivial, unimportant and limited in character, and that in all other respects his participation in the election were free from such offense or illegal acts, or that any act or omission of the candidate arose from inadvertence, or from accidental miscalculation, or from some other reasonable cause of a like nature and in any case did not arise from any want of good faith, and under the circumstances it seems to the court to be unjust that the said candidate shall forfeit his nomination or office or be deprived of any office of which he is the incumbent, then the nomination or election of such candidate shall not by reason of such offense or omission complained of be void, nor shall the candidate be removed or deprived of his office.

SEC. 38. Any person nominated or elected to any office in the state who has been guilty of a corrupt practice, or violated the provisions of this act, except as provided in the preceding section, shall forfeit such nomination or office to which he has been so nominated or elected and thereafter if he obtains possession of such office shall be deemed a usurper and upon the trial of any action or proceeding for the contesting of the rights of any person declared to be nominated to an office, or to annul or set aside such election, or to remove any person from his office, it shall be proven that such person was guilty of any corrupt practice, illegal act, or undue influence in or about such nomination or election, he shall be punished by being deprived of the nomination or office, as the case may be, and the vacancy therein shall be filled in the manner provided by law. District attorney and attorney-general to act.

SEC. 39. If any district attorney shall be notified by an officer or other person of any violation of any of the provisions of this act within his jurisdiction, it shall be his duty forthwith to notify the attorney-general and to diligently inquire into the facts of such violation, and if there be reasonable ground for instituting a prosecution, it shall be the duty of such district attorney to file a complaint or information in writing before a court of competent jurisdiction, charging the accused person with such offense; if any district attorney shall fail or refuse to faithfully perform any duty imposed upon him by this act, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit his office. The registry agent shall keep in his office the original certified copy of the said registration list as herein contained, and shall, not later than the day preceding the election, deliver to one of the inspectors of the election of each ward in said city a certified copy of said list to be used at said election, and he shall also prepare not later than the day preceding the day on which the election is to be held, in "index books," one for each ward, and which shall be known as a "check list," lists of the names of all the electors found on the official register for such wards, alphabetically arranged (the surname first), with the number such name bears in the official register placed at the left of the name of the elector, and with a blank column at the right of the column of names, formed by two parallel perpendicular lines, in which the inspectors of elections shall check the names of those voting, by some particular character, as for instance thus: "V" for voted. Said blank columns last mentioned shall have written headings made by the registry agents, showing what particular election said "check lists" apply to, as, for instance, "Voted at City Election, 1913." Supplemental registration.

SEC. 2. Before delivering the copy of the registration list as prepared by him in accordance with section 1 hereof the registry agent shall enter thereon and on the said "check list" all of the names of electors registering at the supplemental registration for such election, together with the names of all electors who shall have moved from one ward to another in said city, and by him legally transferred.

A general election shall be held in the several election precincts in this state on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and every two years thereafter, at which there shall be chosen all such officers as are by law to be elected in such year, unless otherwise provided for.

First—That no new precinct shall be established except upon petition of ten or more qualified electors, permanently residing in the district sought to be established, showing that they reside more than ten miles from any polling-place in said county, unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of said board that not less than fifty qualified electors reside in said precinct, in which event said precinct may be established without regard to the distance which said electors reside from another polling-place or precinct.

Second—That no election shall be held in any precinct in which there shall not be at least ten qualified electors, permanently residing therein at the time notice of holding election therein shall be given.

Third—All qualified electors residing in any election precinct in which there are less than ten qualified electors permanently residing at the time notice of holding elections are given, shall be entitled to register and vote in the election precinct having a polling-place nearest their residence, by the usual traveled route.

Fourth—That no election precinct shall be established or election held at any place in any precinct within one mile of another voting place in the same county, unless there shall have been polled, at the said voting place, at the next preceding general election, not less than fifty votes.

The several boards of county commissioners in the counties of this state in providing for and proclaiming election precincts shall so arrange and divide the voting places in the respective counties so that no greater number than four hundred voters shall vote in one precinct.

It shall be the duty of said boards of county commissioners at their first regular meetings in September preceding each general election (and fifteen days preceding each special election), to appoint three capable and discreet persons possessing the qualifications of electors (who shall not be of the same political party), to act as inspectors of election at each election precinct, and two clerks of election, who shall have charge of the ballots on election day and shall furnish them to the voters in the manner hereinafter provided for, and the clerk of said board shall forthwith make and deliver to said inspectors personal notice thereof in writing, or deposit the same in the postoffice registered, and postage prepaid, directed to the registry agent of the precinct for which each of said inspectors and clerks are appointed, and it shall be the duty of said registry agent, within ten days after the receipt thereof, to serve the same upon each of said inspectors and clerks of election.

A failure to notify the board of county commissioners of any unwillingness to serve as inspector or clerk as herein provided shall subject the person to penalty of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, to be sued for and recovered by said board of county commissioners for the use of the county before any justice of the peace of any county.

Opening and closing polls.

SEC. 7. At all elections to be held under this act, the polls shall be open at the hour of 8 o'clock in the forenoon, and continue open until 6 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at which time the polls shall be closed; provided, whenever at any election all the votes of the precinct as shown by the registry list shall have been cast, the inspectors shall immediately close the polls and shall forthwith begin the counting of the ballots, and continue the same without unnecessary delay until the count is completed. Upon opening the polls one of the clerks, under the direction of the inspectors, shall make proclamation of the same, and thirty minutes before closing of the polls proclamation shall be made in like manner that the polls will be closed in half an hour; provided further, if at the hour of closing there are any voters in the polling-place, or in line at the door, who are qualified to vote and have not been able to do so since appearing, the polls shall be kept open a sufficient time to enable them to vote. But no one who shall arrive at the polling-place after 6 o'clock in the afternoon shall be entitled to vote, although the polls may be open when he arrives. No adjournment or intermission shall be taken except as hereinafter provided.

It shall be the duty of the inspectors of election, at each poll at every election, to have before them a certified copy of the register of voters of the precinct or district for which they are the inspectors provided by law; and the inspector to whom any ticket may be delivered shall, upon receipt thereof, pronounce with an audible voice the name of the person offering to vote, and another one of the inspectors shall examine the certified copy of the register, and if the name of the person is found thereon his ticket shall be put in the ballot-box without being inspected. The name of the elector shall then be checked on the certified copy of the register, and the clerks of election shall enter his name and number in the poll-book. In case such person refuse to take oath so tendered he shall not be allowed to vote, and the clerks of the election shall write the word "Challenged" opposite the name of each person challenged upon the register.

SEC. 13. As soon as the polls of election shall be finally closed the inspectors shall immediately proceed to canvass the vote given at such election; and the canvass shall be public and continue without adjournment until completed.

Canvass, how conducted.

SEC. 14. The canvass shall commence by a comparison of the poll-lists from the commencement, and a correction of any mistake that may be found therein, until they shall be found to agree. The box shall then be opened and the ballots contained therein taken out and counted by the inspectors, and opened so far as to ascertain whether each ballot is single; and if two or more ballots shall be found so folded together as to present the appearance of a single ballot, they shall be laid aside until the count of the ballots is completed; and if on comparison of the count with the poll-lists and the appearance of such ballots a majority of the inspectors shall be of the opinion that the ballots thus folded together were voted by one elector they shall be rejected, and carefully sealed up in an envelope, upon which shall be written the reason for their rejection, and shall be signed by the inspectors, and placed back in the ballot-box, to be retained with the other ballots.

Stats. 1913, 493, chap. 2, sec. 1. Cited, Turner v. Fogg, 39 Nev. 413 (159 P. 56).

This law of 1913 (Stats. 1913, c. 284), subc. 3, sec. 7, requiring a candidate filing nomination papers for the primary election to make affidavit that he will not withdraw, does not prevent a candidate who has filed his papers from withdrawing prior to the election, but he cannot withdraw where he is without opposition and becomes the nominated candidate by virtue of Stats. 1913, c. 284, subc. 3, sec. 14, subd. 9, providing that the names of candidates who are without opposition shall not be printed on the primary ballot, but shall be certified as the party nominees. State ex rel. Thatcher v. Brodigan, 37 Nev. 458 (142 P. 520).

Where, in such case, one of the two opposing nominees withdrew after the time for filing nomination papers, but before the primary election, the other nominee became the candidate by operation of Stats. 1913, c. 284, subc. 3, sec. 14, subd. 9, and the secretary of state must certify his name as the candidate of his party, though he filed withdrawal papers before primary election, but after the withdrawal of the other candidate for nomination. Id.

Under this law of 1913 (Stats. 1913, c. 284), subc. 3, sec. 7, providing that a candidate at a primary election shall declare in his nomination papers that he intends to support the principles of the party of which he is a candidate, and that he voted for a majority of the candidates of such party at the last election, one who has filed nomination papers as a candidate of a designated party at the primary election cannot file another nomination paper designating himself as a candidate of another party for the same office. Id.

One who files nomination papers under the election law of 1913 (Stats. 1913, c. 284), subc. 3, sec. 9, providing that the candidate filing such papers "shall pay" to the secretary of state "a fee for such filing," is not entitled to a return of such fee on his withdrawal as a candidate prior to the primary election, though such a fee is required to be paid into the state treasury. Id.

Stats. 1913, 49, c. 61, sec. 7, subc. 3, providing that whenever a secular act is to be performed on a particular day, and that day is a nonjudicial one, the act may be performed on the next judicial day, does not permit a nominee at a primary election to be held September 1 to file his papers on August 3, though August 2 falls on Sunday; section 7 of subchapter 3 of this law providing that such papers shall be filed at least thirty days prior to the primary election. Id.

Subc. 3, sec. 9. See State ex rel. Thatcher v. Brodigan, 37 Nev. 458 (142 P. 520).

Subc. 3, sec. 9. This section imposing upon candidates for state offices a fee of $100 as a condition to filing nomination papers so that their names will go on the ballot, is valid, being a regulation, and not an additional qualification, and it being within the scope of the legislature's power to impose a substantial fee to prevent persons from placing their names on the ballot for fraudulent purposes, such as to draw strength in small localities from one candidate to benefit another. State ex rel. Riggle v. Brodigan, 37 Nev. 492, 502 (143 P. 238; L. B. A. 1915B, 197).

Subc. 3, sec. 17. Cited, Turner v. Fogg, 39 Nev. 413 (159 P. 56).

Under subc. 3, sec. 18, of this act, relating to primary elections, and subc. 2, secs. 4, 5, relating to registration, an elector who has registered, so as to be entitled to vote at a primary election, by designating his political party and having the same entered on the registry, cannot subsequently require the registry agent to change such designation. State ex rel. Thatcher v. Keith, 37 Nev. 452, 454-456 (142 P. 532; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1276).

Under the above-quoted sections, where an elector has registered, but has failed to indicate his politics or party designation, he may, prior to the time fixed for closing registration, apply to the registry agent and have an entry made on the registry of his politics or party designation so as to entitle him to vote at the primary election. Id.

As used in subc. 3, sec. 18, of this act the word "heretofore" relates to the time in which an elector may lawfully be registered for the primary election. Id.

Sec. 27. See State ex rel. Busted v. Harmon, 38 Nev. 5 (143 P. 1183).

Sec. 28, subc. 4. See McBride v. Griswold, 38 Nev. 56, 59, 60, 62 (146 P. 756).

Rev. Laws, 1513, sec. 28, subc. 4, providing for recount of votes by the board of county commissioners was not repealed by this act under Const. art. 4, sec. 21; since a general statute will not repeal particular provisions of a former act unless the two conflict irreconcilably. McBride v. Griswold, 38 Nev. 56, 59, 60 (146 P. 756).

Where various remedies as to election contests were afforded, at common law, under the code of civil procedure, this law, and under Rev. Laws, 1513, these remedies are concurrent, not being incompatible, and the party seeking relief may use any. Id.

Stats. 1915, 463, sec. 44, provides that should a vacancy occur in the nominees for any office, it may be filled before election day by the committee to which such power has been delegated, and by section 26 of this act it is provided that vacancies in nomination occurring after any party convention shall be filled by the party committee, etc. The Democratic county convention nominated a candidate for clerk and treasurer, and on his declination took no further action and left the place blank in the certificate of nomination, and adjourned without delegating any authority to its committee, but the executive board of the committee filed a certificate of nomination. Held, that the filing of such certificate was unauthorized, and that mandamus would issue to compel the county clerk to exclude from the ballots at a coming general election the name of the candidate contained in such certificate. State ex rel. Haight v. Wilson, 40 Nev. 131, 134 (161 P. 306).

Section 44. See State ex rel. Haight v. Wilson, 40 Nev. 131, under section 26, Stats. 1915, 453.

Stats. 1917, 385, sec. 101. The provision of Const. art. 4, sec. 17, that no law shall be revised or amended by reference to its title only, does not render invalid the provisions of this section that electors in the military service of the United States may vote in accordance with Stats. 1899, 108, which was repealed by Stats. 1913, 568; revival by title not being prohibited; for an "amendment" is an alteration effecting a change in the draft or form or substance of a law already enacted or of a bill proposed for enactment, but, when the legislative body attempts to revise, it thereby assumes to make additions or changes or corrections to alter or reform something then in force and effect, and "revision" in the legislative sense applies only to a measure, bill, or law then having existence, life, and force, and cannot, in the nature of things, apply to a nullified or repealed act; and the term "revive," as applied to legislative proceedings, signifies the reconference of validity, force, and effect, at least the reconference of validity, force, and effect as the revived measure, law, or bill formerly possessed. Maclean v. Brodigan, 41 Nev. 468, 473, 479, 480 (172 P. 375).

Where one act of the legislature specifically adopts the provisions of another act upon the same general subject, the effect is to incorporate the adopted act, making it effective for the designated purpose, and that the adopted act has been repealed is immaterial. Id.

This section is not void for discrimination against electors in the naval service, or conscripted men in the military service, since "military service" includes every branch of service in either the army or the navy of the United States. Id.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE

1915. Under this section, where a servant, a citizen and resident of California, executed in California a full and fair release of his master from liability for injuries received in his employment in Nevada, which was valid in California, it was a valid defense to an action by him in Nevada for such injuries, notwithstanding Rev. Laws, 5652, providing that no exceptions of any insurance, relief benefit, or indemnity by the person entitled thereto shall constitute any bar to any personal injury action, for, the cause of action being statutory, and being completely barred in California, it was completely extinguished everywhere. Leach v. Mason Valley Mines Co., 40 Nev. 143, 148, 149 (161 P. 513).

Stats. 1903, 207, sec. 1, which provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to make or enter into any agreement, either oral or in writing, by the terms of which any employee of such person, firm, or corporation, or any person about to enter the employ of such person, firm, or corporation, as a condition for continuing or obtaining such employment shall promise or agree not to become or continue a member of a labor organization, or which promise or agree to become or continue a member of a labor organization," deprives the employer of the liberty to contract as to matters which may be vital to him, and therefore is invalid under the constitutional provision that "no one shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law." Goldfield Con. Mines Co. v. Goldfield Miners' Union, 159 F. 501, 513-516.

An Act limiting the hours of labor of females employed in any manufacturing, mechanical, or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, or restaurant, or by any express or transportation company; compelling each employer in any manufacturing, mechanical, or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, or restaurant, or other establishment employing any female, to provide suitable seats for all female employees, and to permit them to use such seats when they are not engaged in the active duties of their employment; and providing a penalty for failure, neglect, or refusal of the employer to comply with the provisions of this act, and for permitting or suffering any overseer, superintendent, foreman, or any other agent of any such employer to violate the provisions of this act.

Approved February 14, 1917, 16

The hours of work may be so arranged as to permit the employment of females at any time so that they shall not work more than eight hours during the twenty-four hours of one day, or fifty-six hours during any one week; provided, however, that the provisions of this section in relation to hours of employment shall not apply to nor affect the harvesting, curing, canning, or drying of any variety of perishable fruit or vegetable, nor to nurses, nor to nurses in training in hospitals.

The district attorneys of the respective counties of this state, and the attorney-general of this state, shall enforce the provisions of this act, and said district attorneys, and said attorney-general and their deputies and agents shall have all powers and authority of sheriffs or other peace officers to make arrests for violations of the provisions of this act, and to serve all processes and notices thereunder throughout the state.

Penalty for noncompliance.

SEC. 4. Any employer who shall permit or require any female to work in any of the places mentioned in section one more than the number of hours provided for in this act during any day of twenty-four hours, or who shall fail, neglect, or refuse to so arrange the work of females in his employ so that they shall not work more than the number of hours provided for in this act during any day of twenty-four hours, or who shall fail, neglect, or refuse to provide suitable seats as provided in section two of this act, or who shall permit or suffer any overseer, superintendent, foreman, or other agent of any such employer to violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished for a first offense, by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars; for a second offense, by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars; or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. All fines imposed and collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the state permanent school fund of this state.

Approved February 27, 1915, 61

Concerning "spotters"—Employee to be confronted with accuser.

SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation, or agent, superintendent, or manager thereof, employing any special agent, detective, or person commonly known as "spotter" for the purpose of investigating, obtaining and reporting to the employer, his agent, superintendent, or manager, information concerning his employees, to discipline or discharge any employee in his service, where such act of discipline or the discharge is based upon a report by such special agent, detective, or spotter, which report involves a question of integrity, honesty, or a breach of rules of the employer, unless such employer, his agent, superintendent, or manager shall give notice and accord a hearing to the employee thus accused, when requested by the said employee, at which hearing said accused employee shall have opportunity to be confronted with the person making such report and shall have the right to furnish testimony in his defense.

Penalty for violation.

SEC. 2. Any person, corporation, firm, association, or employer violating any provision of this act shall be liable to the State of Nevada for a penalty of five hundred dollars for each offense; and such penalty shall be recovered and suit brought in the name of the State of Nevada in a court of proper jurisdiction by the attorney-general, or under his directions by the district attorney in any county having proper jurisdiction.

An Act regulating the payment of wages or compensation in private employments, providing for regular pay-days therein, making it the duty of the labor commissioner and district attorneys, in this state, to enforce its provisions, and providing penalties for violations of this act, and other matters relating thereto.

Every agreement made in violation of this section, except as hereinafter provided, shall be null and void; except any employee shall be entitled to payment of such wages or compensation for the period during which the same were earned.

The words "private employments," used in this act, shall mean all employments other than those under the direction, management, supervision, and control of this state or any county, city, or town therein, or any office or department thereof.

Salary, when payable.

SEC. 2. Whenever an employer discharges an employee, the wages and compensation earned and unpaid at the time of such discharge shall become due and payable immediately; but whenever an employee resigns or quits his employment, the wages and compensation earned and unpaid at the time of such resignation or quitting, shall be paid within twenty-four hours after a demand therefor.

Should any employer fail to pay within three (3) days after the same shall become due and payable, under the provisions of this act, any wages or compensation, without deduction, of any employee, who is discharged from or who resigns or quits his employment, then as a penalty for such nonpayment of such wages or compensation, the same shall continue from the date of the cessation of employment at the same rate until paid; provided, in no case shall such wages or compensation continue for more than thirty (30) days; and provided further, any employee who secretes or absents himself to avoid payment of such wages or compensation, or refuses to accept the same when fully tendered to him, shall not be entitled to the payment thereof for such time as he so secretes or absents himself to avoid such payment.

Notice of pay-days to be posted.

SEC. 3. Every employer shall establish and maintain regular pay-days as herein provided and shall post and maintain posted notices printed in plain type or written in plain script in at least two (2) conspicuous places where such notices can be seen by the employees, setting forth the regular pay-days as herein prescribed and place of payment, which shall be within the justice court precinct in which such services were performed.

In case an employee shall be absent at the time and place of the payment of such wages or compensation, due and payable as herein prescribed, provided he does not secrete or absent himself to avoid such payment as aforesaid, he shall be paid the same within five (5) days after making written demand therefor.

The payment of such wages or compensation shall be made in lawful money of the United States, or by a good and valuable negotiable check or draft payable on presentation thereof at some bank or established place of business without discount in lawful money of the United States, and not otherwise, and shall be payable at the place designated in the notice prescribed herein.

Hospital or savings dues may be retained.

SEC. 4. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to preclude the withholding from the wages or compensation of any employee any dues, rates or assessments becoming due to any hospital association, or to any relief, savings, or other department or association, maintained by the employer or employees for the benefit of the employees, or poll-tax, or other deductions authorized by written order of an employee; provided, at the time of payment of such wages or compensation, such employee shall be furnished by the employer an itemized list showing the respective deductions made from the total amount of such wages or compensation.

Each provision of act independent.

SEC. 5. Should any provision of this act be judicially decreed, or declared null or void, the remaining provisions thereof shall not be affected thereby, but the same shall be given full force and effect.

Penalty for violation.

SEC. 6. Any employer who fails or refuses to pay any of the wages or compensation of an employee, in whole or in part, as in this act provided, or violates any of the remaining provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty ($50) dollars nor more than three hundred ($300) dollars.

Labor commissioner to enforce.

SEC. 7. It shall be the duty of the labor commissioner to cause this act to be duly enforced and upon notice from him the district attorney of any county in which a violation of this act has occurred, shall prosecute the same according to law.

Private agreements permitted.

SEC. 8. Nothing in this bill, however, shall be construed as to mean that on any special occasion where it appears to be satisfactory and beneficial to both employer and employee, that they shall not have the right to agree either verbally or in writing, as to where and at what time, other than every fifteen days, wages shall be paid; provided, that it shall be unlawful for any employer to require any employee to enter into any such agreement as a condition to entering into or remaining in his service.

An Act relating to employment agencies, requiring a license for the conducting of such agencies and providing a penalty for the failure to secure such license; prescribing rules and regulations for the conducting of employment agencies and requiring a bond to insure a compliance with the same; making it the duty of the labor commissioner to enforce the provisions of this act; fixing penalties for the violation of this act, and other matters relating thereto.

Approved March 28, 1919, 291

Terms defined.

SECTION 1. When used in this section the following terms are defined as herein specified:

The term "person" means and includes any individual, firm, company, corporation, association, manager, contractor, subcontractor, or their agents or employees.

The term "employment agency" means and includes the business of conducting, as owner, agent, manager, contractor, subcontractor, or in any other capacity, an intelligence office, domestic and commercial employment agency, general employment bureau, shipping agency, or any other agency for the purpose of procuring or attempting to procure help or employment for persons seeking employment, or for the registration of persons seeking such employment or help, or for giving information as to where and of whom such help or employment may be secured, where a fee or other valuable consideration is exacted, or attempted to be collected for such services, whether such business is conducted in a building or on a street or elsewhere.

The term "labor commissioner" shall mean the labor commissioner of the State of Nevada.

State license.

SEC. 2. No person shall open, keep, operate or maintain an employment agency in this state without first obtaining a license therefor as provided in this act from the labor commissioner. Such license, together with a copy of this act, shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each and every employment agency. Any person who shall open, keep, operate or maintain such employment agency without first procuring said license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six (6) months, or by a fine not exceeding three hundred ($300) dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

License, how procured.

SEC. 3. An application for such license shall be made to the labor commissioner. Such application shall be in written form and shall state the name and address of the applicant; the street and number of the building or place where the business is to be conducted, and the business or occupation engaged in by the applicant for at least two years immediately preceding the date of the application. Such application shall be accompanied by the affidavits of at least two reputable residents of the city to the effect that the applicant is a person of good moral character.

What license shall show.

SEC. 4. Every license shall contain the name of the person licensed, a designation of the city, street, number of the house in which the person licensed is authorized to carry on said employment agency, and the number and date of such license. Such license shall not be valid to protect any other than the person to whom it is issued or any place designated in the license.

Disposition of fees—Bond.

SEC. 5. Every person licensed under the provisions of this act to carry on the business of an employment agency shall pay to the labor commissioner a fee of twenty-five ($25) dollars before such license is issued. He shall also deposit before such license is issued, with the clerk of the city in every city where there is a clerk, or clerk of the county, a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars with two or more sureties or a duly authorized surety company, to be approved by the labor commissioner.

The bond executed shall be payable to the people of the State of Nevada and shall be conditioned that the person applying for the license will comply with this act and shall pay all damages occasioned to any person by reason of any misstatement, misrepresentation, fraud, or deceit, or any unlawful act or omission of any licensed person, made, committed, or omitted in the business conducted under such license, or caused by any other violation of this act in carrying on the business for which such license is granted.

If at any time the sureties or any of them shall become irresponsible, the person holding such license shall, upon notice of the labor commissioner, give a new bond, subject to the provisions of this section. The failure to give a new bond within ten days after such notice shall operate as a revocation of such license and the license shall thereupon be returned to the labor commissioner, who shall destroy the same.

Claims against licensee.

SEC. 6. All claims or suits brought in any court against the licensed person may be brought in the name of the person damaged upon the bond deposited with the city or county, as the case may be, by such licensed person, and may be assigned as other claims for damages in civil suits. The amount of damages claimed by plaintiff, and not the penalty named in the bond, shall determine the jurisdiction of the court in which the action is brought. Where such licensed person has departed from the state with intent to defraud his creditors or with intent to avoid a summons in an action brought under this section, service shall be made upon the surety as prescribed in the code of civil procedure. A copy of such summons shall be mailed to the last known postoffice address of the residence of the licensed person, and the place he conducted such employment agency, as shown by the records of the labor commissioner's office. Such service thereof shall be deemed to be made when not less than the number of days shall have intervened between the dates of service and the return of the same as provided by the civil procedure for the particular court in which suit has been brought.

Licensee to keep register.

SEC. 7. It shall be the duty of every licensed person to keep a register in which shall be entered the date of application for employment; the name and address of the applicant to whom employment is promised or offered, or to whom information or assistance is given in respect to such employment; the amount of the fee received, and, whenever possible, the name and addresses of former employers or persons to whom such applicant is known. Such licensed person shall also enter in the same or in a separate register the name and address of every applicant for help, the date of such application, kind of help requested, the conditions of employment, the hours of labor required and the rate of wages to be paid. No such licensed persons shall make any false entry in such registers.

Copy of register, when.

SEC. 8. All registers, books, records and other papers kept by the licensed person pursuant to this act shall be open at all reasonable hours to the inspection of the labor commissioner, and every licensed person shall furnish to the labor commissioner on request a true copy of such register, books, records and papers, or any portion thereof, and shall make such reports as the labor commissioner may prescribe.

Duties of licensee to applicants.

SEC. 9. It shall be the duty of every licensed person to give to every applicant for employment from whom a fee shall be received a receipt in which shall be stated the name and address of such employment agency, the name and address of the party to whom the applicant is sent for employment, the name of the applicant, the date, the amount of the fee, the kind of work or service to be performed, the general conditions of employment, including, among other things, the hours of service, the rate of wages or compensation, whether or not board or lodging is to be furnished, the cost of transportation and whether or not it is to be paid by the employer, the time of such service if definite, and if indefinite to be so stated, and the name of the person authorizing the hiring of such applicant. There shall be printed on the face of the receipt in prominent type the following: "This Agency Is Licensed by the Labor Commissioner of Nevada." All receipts shall be made and numbered in original and duplicate. The original shall be given to the applicant paying the fee and the duplicate shall be kept on file at the employment agency.

Regarding fees from applicants.

SEC. 10. No such licensed person shall accept a fee from any applicant for employment, or send out any applicant for employment without having obtained, either orally or in writing, a bona-fide order therefor. In case the applicant paying a fee fails to obtain employment, such licensed agency shall repay the amount of said fee to such applicant upon demand being made therefor; provided, that in cases where the applicant paying such fee is sent beyond the limits of the city in which the employment agency is located, such licensed agency shall repay in addition to the said fee any actual expenses incurred in going to and returning from any place where such applicant has been sent; provided, however, where the applicant is employed and the employment lasts less than seven days by reason of the discharge of the applicant, the employment agency shall return to said applicant the fee paid by such applicant to the employment agency.

Licensee not to promulgate false information.

SEC. 11. No licensed person conducting an employment agency shall publish or cause to be published any false or fraudulent or misleading information, representation, notice, or advertisement; all advertisements of such employment agency by means of cards, circulars, signs, or in newspapers and other publications, and all letterheads, receipts, and blanks shall be printed and contain the licensed name and address of such employment agency, and no licensed person shall give any false information, or make any false promise or false representation concerning an engagement or employment to any applicant who shall register or apply for employment or help.

Regarding applications from children.

SEC. 12. No licensed person shall accept any application for employment made by or in behalf of any child, or shall place or assist in placing any such child in any employment whatever in violation of the child-labor law. No licensed person shall send an applicant to any place where a strike, lockout or other labor trouble exists without notifying the applicant of such conditions, and shall in addition thereto enter a statement of such facts upon the receipt given to such applicant. No licensed person shall divide fees with an employer, or an agent of an employer, or with any superintendent, manager, foreman, or other employee of any person, firm, or corporation to which help is furnished.

Labor commissioner to furnish blank books.

SEC. 13. The labor commissioner shall furnish to each licensed employment agency blank books upon which their records shall be kept as provided in this act, together with forms of receipts and necessary blanks upon which reports shall be made to the labor commissioner.

Labor commissioner to account for moneys.

SEC. 14. The labor commissioner shall, at the end of each month, make an itemized account of all moneys received by him from license fees under the provisions of this act, and pay the same to the state treasurer, to be held in a separate fund known as the employment agency fund and to be used for expenses incurred in printing blanks, books, and receipts to be furnished to such employment agencies by said labor commissioner.

Labor commissioner to enforce act.

SEC. 15. It shall be the duty of the labor commissioner to enforce this act, and when informed of any violations thereof it shall be his duty to report the fact to the district attorney of the county in which such violation occurred and said district attorney shall prosecute the same in accordance with the law.

Penalties.

SEC. 16. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six (6) months, or by a fine not exceeding three hundred ($300) dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

FEDERAL TOWN SITES

1986. Under similar statute (Cutting, 346), prohibition is a proper remedy to prevent the sale of the lots where the failure to legally convey to the proper owners is due to the imposition of excessive charges by the town-site trustee as a condition precedent thereto. State ex rel. Schloss v. Stevens, 34 Nev. 146, 147, 152, 153 (116 P. 605).

Where a town-site trustee, on the refusal of a lot claimant to pay excessive charges imposed, proceeds to sell the lot, there is no other adequate remedy affecting the right to the remedy by writ of prohibition; individual suits to settle the rights of the claimant not being an adequate remedy. Upon the filing of the said application, the said board of county commissioners shall, at its next regular meeting, cause notice of said application to be given; such notice shall contain the name of the firm, association, corporation, person, or persons making the application; the nature in general terms of the franchise, right, or privilege applied for; the day when the hearing upon such application shall be had, which shall not be less than ten (10) days after the period of publication or notice herein provided for has been completed, or at the next regular meeting of the board of county commissioners, after the completion of said publication, or notice, as the case may be; notice that all persons who have any objection to the granting of said franchise, right, or privilege to file their objection, in writing, with the clerk of said board before the date of said hearing, or to appear at said meeting, and present their objections at said time. Proof of such notice shall be made by the clerk of the board before the hearing in said matter shall proceed, and such proof shall become a part of the record in such proceedings; provided, however, that before such notice shall be given, the applicant must deposit with such clerk the cost of such publication, and notice, the amount thereof to be fixed by said board of county commissioners. As amended, Stats. 1915, 78.

To whom granted.

SECTION 1. In all cities in which, at the general election in the year A. D. 1914, there were polled for candidates for United States senator more than twenty-five hundred votes, and in which any person, firm, association, or corporation, or the heirs, assigns, or successors in interest of either of them, shall have heretofore invested not less than twenty thousand dollars, in real property, including improvements and equipment thereon, for the purpose of maintaining, conducting, and carrying on, and in which said city are now being maintained, conducted, and carried on, one or more or either of the following kind of business, to wit: Abattoirs; packing-houses; packing-house agencies; plants for the curing and smoking of meats and meat products, and for manufacturing into commercial form all by-products of said abattoirs and packing-houses; also carrying on stockyards and buildings, renderies, tallow chandleries, tanneries, wool pulleries, bone, soap, and fertilizing factories, and processing of offal, and for carrying on any other factories or business incident or appurtenant to all or either of the foregoing kinds of business, a franchise shall be and is hereby granted to each of said persons, firms, associations, or corporations, and to the heirs, successors, or assigns of either of them, to continue maintaining, conducting, and carrying on all or either of the businesses aforesaid for the period of fifty years from and after the date of enactment hereof, upon the lands and premises upon which said business or businesses were established or are being maintained, conducted, and carried on at the date hereof, and upon any premises adjacent to or in the immediate vicinity thereof, the title to which shall have been lawfully acquired and which may or shall hereafter be or become useful or advantageous in the maintaining, conducting, or carrying on of all or either of the businesses in this act enumerated; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to limit any municipality in its control and regulation or power to levy licenses or taxes upon the business or businesses herein described.

An Act providing for the granting of franchises by boards of county commissioners to persons, associations or corporations engaged in the business of supplying electric light, heat or power, within two or more counties of this state, who are desirous of extending such business into any other county or counties, and providing for increasing the term of any franchise heretofore granted to persons, associations or corporations engaged in the business of supplying electric light, heat or power within two or more counties, and prescribing the conditions for obtaining a franchise in any other county or counties, and for obtaining an extension of the term of any franchise heretofore granted and under which such persons, associations or corporations are now operating.

County commissioners may grant franchises.

SECTION 1. The boards of county commissioners of the different counties of this state are hereby authorized and empowered to grant, within their respective counties, to any person, association or corporation engaged in the business of supplying electric light, heat or power in two or more counties of this state, and who desires to extend such business into any other county or counties, the franchise, right and privilege to construct, install, operate and maintain electric-light, heat and power lines, and all necessary or proper appliances used in connection therewith, or appurtenant thereto, in or over the streets, alleys, avenues, and other places in any unincorporated town or city, and along the public roads and highways of their respective counties when the applicant therefor shall comply with the terms and provisions of this act.

Extension of business.

SEC. 2. Any person, association or corporation engaged in the business of supplying electric light, heat or power within two or more counties of this state, and who desires to extend such business into any other county or counties, may obtain a franchise to construct, install, operate and maintain electric-light, heat and power lines, and all necessary or proper appliances used in connection therewith, or appurtenant thereto, in or over the streets, alleys, avenues, and other places, in any unincorporated town or city, and along the public roads and highways, in any other county or counties, by filing with the board of county commissioners of the county or counties respectively within which such franchise is to be exercised an application, in writing, setting forth: First, the name of the applicant, the counties in which the applicant is operating, and the time for which such franchise is desired, not exceeding fifty years. Second, the places where such franchise, right or privilege is to be exercised in said county, and if such franchise is to be exercised, in whole or in part, within any unincorporated town or city in said county the applicant shall also file with such application a petition, in writing, signed by a majority of the resident taxpayers of said unincorporated town or city.

Duties of commissioners.

SEC. 3. Upon receipt of said application for such franchise, the board of county commissioners of said county shall set the same for hearing at its next regular meeting thereafter, and shall cause such notice to be given of the filing of said application and of the time set for the hearing thereof as it may deem reasonable, and at said hearing objections to the granting of said franchise may be heard and considered.

Hearing of application.

SEC. 4. If upon the hearing of said application it appears to the satisfaction of the said board of county commissioners that the applicant is engaged in the business of furnishing electric light, heat or power within two or more counties of this state, and if such franchise is to be exercised, in whole or in part, within any unincorporated town or city in said county, that a majority of the resident taxpayers of said town or city have signed said petition and desire said franchise allowed, the board of county commissioners shall thereupon grant such franchise for a term not exceeding fifty years thereafter.

Construction to be begun promptly.

SEC. 5. The county commissioners shall, at the time of granting any franchise provided in section 4, require the applicant to enter an undertaking to the county, in a sum to be determined by the board of county commissioners, with a surety or sureties approved by said board, conditioned that such applicant shall commence active construction of said electric-light, heat or power lines for which such franchise is granted within six months from the date of granting the same and prosecute the construction thereof to completion with due diligence; and failing to comply with the conditions of such undertaking the applicant shall forfeit all rights to said franchise.

Percentage of profits to school fund.

SEC. 6. The grantee of any franchise secured under the provisions of this act shall, within thirty days after such franchise is granted, file with the county recorder of such county an agreement, properly executed by the grantee, to pay annually, on the first Monday of July of each year, to the county treasurer of said county, for the benefit of the school fund of said county, two per cent of the net profits made by such grantee in the operation of such electric-light, heat and power lines within said county, and no right or privilege shall be exercised under said franchise until said agreement is filed.

Poles and wires, regulated.

SEC. 7. All poles from which wires are suspended for electric-power, light or heating purposes within the boundaries of unincorporated towns or cities and over public highways shall be subject to such rules and regulations in constructing and maintaining the same as may be prescribed by the public service commission of the State of Nevada, and the persons or corporations operating such electric-light, heat or power lines shall provide a competent electrician, at the expense of said persons or corporations to cut, repair and replace wires in all cases where such cutting, repairing or replacing is made necessary by the removal of buildings or other property through the public streets or highways.

Franchises may be extended.

SEC. 8. Any person, association or corporation engaged in the business of supplying electric light, heat or power within two or more counties of this state, and operating under franchises heretofore granted, may have the term of each of said franchises under which it is operating increased to not exceeding fifty years, including the unexpired portion of the term of such former franchise or franchises, by filing with the board of county commissioners of the counties respectively wherein such former franchise was granted, an application, in writing, setting forth: First, the name of the applicant, the county or counties within which said applicant is operating, the time when such former franchise was granted, the unexpired portion of the term thereof, and the time for which such franchise is to be extended, which, together with the unexpired term of said former franchise, shall not exceed fifty years.

Hearings on applications for extensions.

SEC. 9. Upon the receipt of an application for the extension of the term of any franchise mentioned in section 8, the board of county commissioners of said county shall set said application for hearing at its next regular meeting thereafter, and cause such notice thereof to be given as it may deem reasonable, and at said hearing objections to extending the term of said franchise may be heard and considered.

Limit of extension.

SEC. 10. If upon the hearing of said application it appears to the satisfaction of the board of county commissioners that the applicant is engaged in the business of furnishing electric light, heat or power within two or more counties, including the county in which the application provided in section 8 is pending, the said board shall thereupon extend the term of the franchise under which the applicant is operating for not exceeding fifty years, including the unexpired portion of the term of such former franchise; provided, however, that the said applicant shall, within thirty days after such franchise extending the term of said former franchise is granted, file with the county recorder of such county an agreement, properly executed by the grantee, to pay annually, on the first Monday of July of each year, to the county treasurer of said county, for the benefit of the school fund of said county, two per cent of the net profits made by such grantee in the operation of its electric-light, heat and power lines within said county, and no extension of the term of said original franchise shall be effective in said county until such agreement shall be filed.

Fee for franchise.

SEC. 11. Upon the granting of a franchise, as provided in section 4, or the extension of the term of a franchise heretofore granted as provided in section 10, the county clerk shall issue to the grantee a formal franchise for the term so granted or extended by said county commissioners, and for which a charge of five dollars shall be made by said county clerk.

HOMESTEADS

2142. Stats. 1861, 186, regulating the settlement of estates, provided in section 123 for the setting aside of the homestead to the widow and minor children, and section 126 provided that, if there was no law in force exempting property from execution, certain property should be set aside, including the homestead, as defined in that section. This section provided that if property declared a homestead be separate property, both must join in the declaration, and if it remain separate property until the death of one spouse, homestead rights therein shall cease, and it shall belong to the party or his heirs to whom it belonged when filed upon; and Rev. Laws, 2145, provided that no exemption to the surviving spouse should be allowed, where the homestead declaration had been filed upon the separate property of either spouse. Rev. Laws, 5957, authorizes the court, upon the return of the inventory, to set apart for use of decedent's family the homestead as designated by the general homestead law "now in force," whether designated as required by said law or not; and further provides that if the property declared upon be separate property, both spouses must join in the declaration, and if it remain separate property until the death of one of them, the homestead right shall cease, and it shall belong to the party to whom it belonged when filed upon. Section 126 of the act of 1861 was omitted from the act of 1897 and section 123, corresponding to section 101 of the latter act, was modified. Held, under section 101, construed with the other statutes, that a widow cannot have set apart to her, as a homestead, land which was her husband's separate property at his death, and had not been declared on as a homestead; there being other heirs. In Re Cook's Estate, 34 Nev. 233-238 (117 P. 27).

Under similar sections (Cutting, 186; Stats. 1865, 225; Stats. 1879, 140) it was held that, though the homestead was not registered as required by law, the husband's sole conveyance or encumbrance of it cannot pass title. First National Bank v. Meyers, 39 Nev. 235, 242-250 (150 P. 308).

Cited, Clay v. Scheeline B. & T. Co., 40 Nev. 14 (159 P. 1081).

Under this section and others it was held that, although a homestead was not registered as required by law, the husband's sole conveyance or encumbrance of it did not affect the wife's right in the homestead, which could not be alienated unless the instrument was executed and given by both. First National Bank v. Meyers, 40 Nev. 284, 288, 290, 293-297 (150 P. 368; 161 P. 929).

2145. See In Re Cook's Estate, 34 Nev. 217, under section 2142.

An Act relating to hotels, defining the same, providing regulations in connection therewith, providing for the sanitation of the rooms of such hotels, providing for the sanitary method and manner of conducting such hotels, providing for the enforcement of this act, and providing a penalty for the violation thereof.

Sufficient ventilation.

SEC. 5. Every room in any hotel, used for sleeping purposes, shall have devices, such as a window or transom, so constructed as to allow for the proper and a sufficient amount of ventilation in each such room.

Sheets of certain size.

SEC. 6. Every bed, for the accommodation of any person or persons or guests, kept or used in any hotel in this state, must be provided with a sufficient supply of clean bedding and must be provided with sheets at least ninety-eight (98) inches long and of sufficient width to completely cover the mattress and spring, and pillow slips as often as assigned to a different person.

by any other person; but, in any event, such room shall not be let to any person for at least forty-eight (48) hours after such fumigation or disinfection.

Towels must be provided.

SEC. 8. Every hotel within this state, having a public washstand or washbowl, where different persons gather to wash themselves, must keep a sufficient supply of clean individual towels for the use of such persons within easy access of or to such persons and in plain sight and view. Nothing in this section shall be construed as excluding the use of crepe or paper towels, or the automatic roller towel.

Disinfection of sewers.

SEC. 9. Every hotel in this state shall have proper facilities for sewage disposal and shall be kept free from effluvia arising from any sewer, drain, privy, cesspool, or other source within the control of the proprietor, owner, manager, agent, or other person in charge. Any water-closet, privy, or cesspool in connection with any hotel shall be disinfected as often as may be necessary to keep them at all times in a sanitary condition.

Penalty.

SEC. 10. Every proprietor, owner, manager, lessee, or other person in charge of any hotel in this state who shall fail to comply with this act, whether through the acts of himself, his agent or employees, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars or more than one hundred dollars, or shall be imprisoned for not more than three months, and every day that any hotel shall be kept in violation of any of the provisions of this act such keeping shall constitute a separate offense.

Who to enforce act.

SEC. 11. The commissioner of food and drugs is hereby charged with the enforcement of this act. He shall appoint such agent or agents as he deems necessary to carry out the provisions of this act and shall make uniform rules and regulations pertaining thereto. He shall keep a record of hotels inspected, and said record or any part thereof may, in the discretion of the commissioner, be included in the annual report to the governor, which said commissioner is already authorized to make by law.

Inspection permitted.

SEC. 12. The commissioner of food and drugs, or his duly authorized agent or agents, shall have access at any time to any hotel in this state for the purpose of making inspections and carrying out the provisions of this act.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

2155. Under this section it is held that, though a homestead was not registered as required by law, the husband's sole conveyance or incumbrance of it cannot pass title. First National Bank of Ely v. Meyers, 39 Nev. 235, 243, 247 (150 P. 308).

Cited, In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 245 (161 P. 741; L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

See In Re Cook's Estate, 34 Nev. 217, under section 2142.

Since the adoption of our constitution and the enactment of a law more clearly defining and differentiating the property rights of husband and wife, it is evident that it is incumbent upon the court, in making disposition of the property of the parties in granting a divorce, to consider the fact that now all property of husbands and wives is held in common or belongs solely to one or the other. Walker v. Walker, 41 Nev. 8 (164 P. 653).

2155-2189. A conveyance of property to a wife, consummated before the adoption of the constitution or the enactment of the community estate law (Stats. 1864-5, 239) which changed the common law so as to provide that estates acquired by a husband or wife shall be community property, is governed by the rule of the common law and not affected by the statute. Winters v. Winters, 34 Nev. 323, 330 (123 P. 17, 1135).

Cited, In Re Cook's Estate, 34 Nev. 237 (117 P. 27).

2156. See First National Bank of Ely v. Meyers, 39 Nev. 235, 237, 243, under section 2155.

Under this section and Rev. Laws, 2165, the right of a wife in the community property during her husband's life is not a mere expectancy but is a property interest, though subject to the husband's control, and at the husband's death it is merely freed from his control, and does not pass under the inheritance laws, and therefore is not subject to taxation under Stats. 1913, 411, imposing a tax on all property passing by will or statutes of inheritance. In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 241, 245, 254 (161 P. 741; L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

2160. Husband controls community property.

SEC. 6. The husband shall have the entire management and control of the community property, with the like absolute power of disposition thereof, except as hereinafter provided, as of his own separate estate; provided, that no deed of conveyance or mortgage of a homestead as now defined by law, regardless of whether a declaration thereof has been filed or not, shall be valid for any purpose whatever unless both the husband and wife execute and acknowledge the same as now provided by law for the conveyance of real estate; provided further, that the wife shall have the entire management and control of the earnings and accumulations of herself and her minor children living with her, with the like absolute power of disposition thereof, when said earnings and accumulations are used for the care and maintenance of the family. As amended, Stats. 1917, 121.

See First National Bank of Ely v. Meyers, 39 Nev. 235, under section 2155.

2164. The use of the expression "goes to" the wife in Rev. Laws, 2165, different from the expression "belongs to" the husband in this section, does not show an intention of the legislature that the interest of the wife in the community should vest only after the husband's death, in view of Const. art 4, sec. 31, requiring laws to be passed defining the rights of the wife to property held in common with her husband, since "held" does not convey the idea of mere expectancy but imports ownership. In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 241, 246, 254, 257 (161 P. 741; L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

Stats. 1915, 149, does not affect or repeal this section or Rev. Laws, 2165, relating to descent of community property, and where spouse dies intestate all the community property goes to the surviving spouse. In Re Kattenhorn's Estate, 41 Nev. 375, 381, 382 (171 P. 164).

2165. Similar section (Cutting, 520) cited, In Re Cook's Estate, 34 Nev. 239 (117 P. 27). See Estate of Williams, 40 Nev. 241, under section 2164.

2166. Under this section it is held that, a wife securing in a foreign state a decree divorcing her from her husband, who was a resident of the State of Nevada, in which state the community property of the parties was situated, could not thereafter maintain an independent action in the Nevada courts to secure a division of the community property pursuant to the statute; the statute having reference only to the court granting the divorce. Keenan v. Keenan, 40 Nev. 351, 353, 356 (164 P. 351).

This section determines the right of the parties to the community property on dissolution of the marriage, though the earlier statute, Rev. Laws, 5841, empowering the court to dispose of the property on granting a divorce, has not been amended or repealed in terms. Walker v. Walker, 41 Nev. 4, 9, 11 (164 P. 653).

In consideration of this section, Stats. 1864-65, 239, sec. 12 (Rev. Laws, 2166, 2188, 5841, and 5843), it was held, in view of another section of the same act appearing as Rev. Laws, 5843, and declaring that when the marriage shall be dissolved by the husband being sentenced to imprisonment, and when a divorce shall be ordered for the cause of adultery committed by the husband, the wife shall be entitled to the same portion of his lands and property as if he were dead; but in other cases the court shall set apart such portion for her support and the support of their children that shall be deemed just, and, as the act of 1861 was passed before the creation of community property, effect cannot be given to it particularly in view of the construction by the California courts of the later statutes, which must be deemed to have been adopted when the statutes were adopted from that state; hence decree of divorce in favor of the husband for desertion does not, though there was no adjudication as to property rights, deprive the wife of her rights in the community property. Johnson v. Garner, 233 F. 756, 757, 762-764.

2180. Cited, Johnson v. Garner, 233 F. 757, 763.

2188. In consideration of this section, Stats. 1864-65, 239, sec. 12 (Rev. Laws, 2166, 2188, 5841, and 5843) it was held, in view of another section of the same act appearing as Rev. Laws, 5843, and declaring that when the marriage shall be dissolved by the husband being sentenced to imprisonment, and when a divorce shall be ordered for the cause of adultery committed by the husband, the wife shall be entitled to the same portion of his lands and property as if he were dead; but in other cases the court shall set apart such portion for her support and the support of their children that shall be deemed just, and, as the act of 1861 was passed before the creation of community property, effect cannot be given to it particularly in view of the construction by the California courts of the later statutes, which must be deemed to have been adopted when the statutes were adopted from that state; hence decree of divorce in favor of the husband for desertion does not, though there was no adjudication as to property rights, deprive the wife of her rights in the community property. Johnson v. Garner, 233 F. 757, 763.

And in case such insane person has no means applicable to his or her own support, but has kindred in the degree of husband or wife, or (if a minor) father or mother living within this state of sufficient means and ability to support such insane person, the judge before whom the examination is had shall order that all expenses and charges be paid by the nearest of such kindred, or may assess the same among such kindred as he may deem just and equitable, causing such charges as the state may be obliged to pay to the directors of the Nevada hospital for mental diseases, to be paid quarterly in advance to the treasurer, together with all costs and expenses necessarily incurred in transmitting said person to said Nevada hospital for mental diseases. And from the date of such order of the district judge, such expenses and charges shall be a lien against the property of such kindred and may be enforced as other liens against real or personal property.

Guardians of patients.

SEC. 10. The district judge shall require of the guardian of any insane person appointed by him, in addition to the bond now required by law to be given by guardians, to enter into bond with good and sufficient sureties, payable to the State of Nevada, conditioned for the prompt payment in advance to the state treasurer of all charges and expenses set forth in this act, so long as said insane person shall be cared for and supported by this state, or so long as said means or property shall be sufficient therefor, which bond shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state at the same time that other papers in relation to insane person are filed; and all sums of money so received by the state treasurer, as well as those sums received from kindred, as provided in section 9 of this act, shall be paid over to the state treasurer to the credit and become a part of the insane fund created by section 12 of this act, under a sworn statement, at least once in every three months, and for all moneys thus paid the state treasurer shall take duplicate receipts, one of which shall be filed with the state controller. When the means of any insane person shall become exhausted, or the kindred mentioned in this act shall become unable longer to provide for the support of such insane person, upon a proper showing to the judge of the district court where such person was committed, he shall certify such fact to the state treasurer, who shall immediately transfer the same to the indigent list, and from the date of such certificate said guardian or kindred, as the case may be, shall be released from any further liability on account of such bond or insane person.

SEC. 4. The provisions of this act shall not be construed to prevent any one from manufacturing, for his own domestic consumption, wine or cider; or to prevent the manufacture from fruit grown exclusively within this state of vinegar and nonintoxicating cider for use or sale; or to prevent the manufacture and sale at wholesale to druggists only of pure grain alcohol for medicinal, pharmaceutical, scientific and mechanical purposes, or wine for sacramental purposes by religious bodies; or to prevent the sale and keeping and storing for sale by druggists of pure grain alcohol for mechanical, pharmaceutical, medicinal and scientific purposes, or of wine for sacramental purposes, by religious bodies, or any United States pharmacopœia or national formulary preparation in conformity with the Nevada pharmacy law, or any preparation which is exempted by the provisions of the national pure food law, and the sale of which does not require the payment of a United States liquor dealer's tax. But no druggist shall sell any such grain alcohol except for medicinal, scientific, pharmaceutical and mechanical purposes, or wine for sacramental purposes, except as hereinafter provided, and the same shall not be sold by such druggist for medicinal purposes, except upon a written prescription of a physician of good standing in his profession and not of intemperate habits, or addicted to the use of any narcotic drug, prescribing the amount of alcohol, the disease or malady for which it is prescribed, and how it is to be used, the name of the person for whom prescribed, the number of previous prescriptions given by such physician to such person within the year next preceding the date of such prescription, and stating that the same is absolutely necessary for medicine, and not to be used as a beverage, and that such physician, at the time such prescription was given, made a personal examination of such person, and that such person is known to such physician to be of temperate habits and not addicted to the use of any narcotic drug, and only one sale shall be made upon such prescription, and such prescription shall be at all times kept on file by such druggist and open to the inspection of all state, county and municipal officers. It shall be the duty of such druggist to register in a book kept for that purpose all prescriptions from physicians mentioned in this section, stating the name of the party for whom prescribed, the date of the prescription, the name of the physician by whom the prescription is issued, the quantity of such alcohol and the use for which prescribed, and such record shall at all times be open to the same inspection as such prescriptions.

It shall be lawful for a druggist to sell grain alcohol for pharmaceutical, scientific and mechanical purposes, or wine for sacramental purposes by religious bodies, only to any person, not a minor, and who is not of intemperate habits, or addicted to the use of narcotic drugs, who shall, at the time and place of such sale, make an affidavit in writing signed by himself before such druggist or a registered pharmacist at the time and place in the employ of such druggist, stating the quantity and the time and place and fully for what purpose and by whom such alcohol or wine is to be used; that affiant is not of intemperate habits or addicted to the use of any narcotic drug; and that such alcohol or wine is not to be used as a beverage, or for any purpose other than that stated in such affidavit. Such affidavit shall be filed and preserved by such druggist and be subject to inspection at all times by any state, county or municipal officer, and a record thereof made by such druggist in the record book mentioned in this section, showing the date of the affidavit, by whom made, the quantity of such alcohol, or wine, and when, where, for what purpose and by whom to be used. In any prosecution against a druggist, owner of a drug store, registered pharmacist, clerk or employee, for selling or giving liquor contrary to law, if a sale or gift be proven, it shall be presumed that the same was unlawful in the absence of satisfactory proof to the contrary and the presentation of such prescription or affidavit by the defendant at the time of the trial for such sale or gift, shall be sufficient to rebut the presumption arising from the proof of such sale or gift. Provided, the jury shall believe, from all the evidence in the case, that such sale or gift was made in good faith under the belief that such prescription or affidavit and statements therein were true; and, provided further, that such druggist, owner of a drug store, registered pharmacist, clerk or employee shall have complied with all other provisions of this act relating to the sale or gift.

An information, indictment, or criminal complaint against any druggist, registered pharmacist, clerk or employee for an offense committed under the provisions of this section, shall be sufficient, which shall charge in substance and effect, that the defendant, within one year last past, in said county of....., did unlawfully sell, give, offer, expose, keep, and store for sale and gift, liquors, against the peace and dignity of the State of Nevada.

Payment of U. S. revenue tax prima facie evidence.

SEC. 13. The payment of the special tax required of liquor dealers by the United States by any person or persons, other than druggists, within the state, shall be prima facie evidence that such person, or persons, are engaged in keeping and selling, offering and exposing for sale, liquors contrary to the laws of this state, and a certificate from the collector of internal revenue, his agents, clerks or deputies, showing the payment of such tax, and the name or names of persons to whom issued, and the names of the person or persons, if any, associated with the person to whom such tax receipt is issued, shall be sufficient evidence of the payment of such tax, and of the association of such persons for the selling and keeping, offering and exposing for sale, liquors, contrary to the laws of this state, and a certificate from the collector of internal revenue, his agents, clerks or deputies, showing the payment of such tax, and the name or names of persons to whom issued, and the names of the person or persons, if any, associated with the person to whom such tax receipt is issued, shall be sufficient evidence of the payment of such tax, and of the association of such persons for the selling and keeping, offering and exposing for sale of liquors contrary to the provisions of this act in all trials or legal inquiries.

Certain places declared public nuisances.

SEC. 14. All houses, buildings, clubrooms and places of every description, including drug stores, where intoxicating liquors are manufactured, stored, sold or vended, given away, or furnished contrary to law (including those in which clubs, orders or associations sell, barter, give away, distribute or dispense intoxicating liquors to their members, by any means or device whatever, as provided in section six of this act) shall be held, taken and deemed common and public nuisances. And any person who shall maintain, or shall aid or abet, or knowingly be associated with others in maintaining such common and public nuisance, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, and by imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than twelve months for each offense, and judgment shall be given that such house, building or other place, or any room therein, be abated or closed up as a place for the sale or keeping of such liquors contrary to law, as the court may determine.

State commissioner of prohibition.

SEC. 15. The superintendent of the Nevada state police shall be ex officio state commissioner of prohibition. Wherever the word "commissioner" is used in this act, it shall mean and be taken to mean the state commissioner of prohibition.

Duties of commissioner.

SEC. 16. It shall be the duty of the commissioner, his deputies and agents, to superintend the enforcement of all provisions of this act, and of laws of this state affecting the manufacture, sale, keeping, exposing or offering for sale, or giving or soliciting or receiving orders for liquors, or laws connected in any way with the liquor traffic, to diligently inform themselves of all violations of such laws and either make report thereof to the prosecuting attorney of the proper county who shall forthwith prosecute the same as provided by law, or said commissioner, his agents or deputies, shall make complaint of any violations of any such laws before the proper court or committing justice, and conduct the prosecution thereof in any court in the state having jurisdiction of such matters; and for the purpose of enforcing such laws, the said commissioner, his agents and deputies, shall have all the powers now vested in the sheriffs, their deputies, and constables and police officers in the state. Provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed to take from or to relieve any of the said officers from any duty imposed upon him by any statute of the state.

Officers may maintain suits.

SEC. 17. The commissioner, his agents and deputies, and the attorney-general, prosecuting attorney, or any citizen of the county where such a nuisance as is defined in section fourteen of this act exists, or is kept or maintained, may maintain a suit in equity in the name of the state to abate and perpetually enjoin the same, and courts of equity shall have jurisdiction thereof. The injunction shall be granted at the commencement of the action and no bond shall be required.

It shall not be necessary for the court to find that the premises involved were being unlawfully used as aforesaid at the time of the hearing, but on finding that the material allegations of the bill are true, the court shall order that no liquors shall be sold, bartered, given away, distributed, dispensed or stored in such house, building, clubroom or other place, nor in any part thereof, for a period of not to exceed one year in the discretion of the court from and after such finding, in case of a drug store; in other cases the order for abatement shall be perpetual.

Any person violating the terms of any injunction granted in proceedings hereunder shall be punished for contempt summarily by the court without the impaneling of any jury to try the same, by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, and by imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than six months, in the discretion of the court or judge thereof in vacation. In case decree is rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought under the provisions of this section, the court entering the same shall also enter decree for a reasonable attorney's fee in such action in favor of the plaintiff against the defendants therein, which attorney's fee shall be taxed and collected as other costs therein, and when collected paid to the attorney, or attorneys, of the plaintiff therein.

Additional penalties.

SEC. 18. In addition to the penalties prescribed for violation of any of the provisions of sections two to sixteen, inclusive, of this act, the court may in its discretion, when such conviction is had, require the defendant to execute bond with good security to be approved by the court or clerk thereof, in the penalty of one thousand dollars, conditioned not to violate any of the provisions of any of said sections for the term of two years, and in default of such bond may commit the defendant to jail for said term of two years, unless such bond be sooner given.

Common carriers must keep record—Record legal evidence.

SEC. 19. All express companies, railroad companies and transportation companies within this state are hereby required to keep books in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of every person to whom liquors are shipped; the amount and kind received; the date when delivered, and by whom, and to whom delivered; after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name in person to such record, which book shall be open to the inspection of any state, county or municipal officer of this state, at any time during business hours of the company; except that in the absence or sickness of a duly licensed druggist, having authority to sell pure grain alcohol and wine for the purposes prescribed by law, a registered pharmacist in the employ of such druggist, duly designated by such druggist, in writing personally signed by him, to the agent of the transportation company, may sign such druggist's name to the record of shipments of alcohol for medicinal, pharmaceutical, scientific and mechanical purposes or wine for sacramental purposes by religious bodies, such registered pharmacist being required to write immediately beneath such druggist's name his own name and his connection with such druggist. Such books shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated, and be admissible as evidence in any court in this state having jurisdiction, or in any manner empowered with the enforcement of the provisions of this act. Any employee or agent of any express, railroad company or transportation company knowingly failing or refusing to comply with the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars, and may be imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than twelve months. Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall permit, or be construed as permitting or authorizing, any common carrier or transportation company to bring or carry into this state, or carry from one place to another within the state, intoxicating liquors for another, even when intended for personal use, other than pure grain alcohol and wine, and such preparations for druggists as may be sold by them for special purposes in the manner set forth in sections four and twenty-four.

Citizens may employ attorneys.

SEC. 20. Any citizen or organization within this state may employ an attorney to assist the prosecuting attorney to perform his duties under this act, and such attorney shall be recognized by the prosecuting attorney and the court as associate counsel in the proceedings; and no prosecution shall be dismissed over the objection of such associate counsel until the reasons of such prosecuting attorney for such dismissal, together with the objections thereof of such associate counsel, shall have been filed in writing, argued by counsel and fully considered by the court.

Rewards offered, how.

SEC. 21. The prosecuting attorney of any county, with the approval of the governor, or of the court of the county vested with authority to try criminal offenses, or of the judge thereof in vacation, may, within his discretion, offer rewards for the apprehension of persons charged with crime, or may expend money for the detection of crime. Any money expended under this section shall, when approved by the prosecuting attorney, be paid out of the county fund in the same manner as other county expenses are paid.

Right of appeal.

SEC. 22. In all cases arising under this statute the state shall have the right to appeal.

Deemed exercise of police power.

SEC. 23. This entire act shall be deemed an exercise of the police powers of the state for the protection of public health, peace, and morals, and all of its provisions shall be liberally construed for the attainment of that purpose.

Repeal.

SEC. 24. All acts and parts of acts, so far as in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

Corporation or agent personally liable.

SEC. 25. If any corporation or association shall violate any of the provisions of this act, any officer, agent, or employee thereof acting for it in any such unlawful act, or authorizing the same to be done, shall be personally guilty thereof the same as though such officer, agent, or employee himself had committed the offense, and shall be subject to all of the fines, penalties, and imprisonments therefor.

Penalties for public officers.

SEC. 26. If any state, county, district or municipal officer, or any municipal police, shall fail, refuse or neglect to discharge any duty imposed upon him by law, prohibiting the manufacture, sale, keeping and storing for sale of intoxicating liquors, he shall be removed from office in the manner provided in this section. Such removal shall be made by the district court of the county wherein such officer resides. The charges against any such officer shall be reduced to writing, and entered of record by the court, and a summons shall thereupon be issued by the clerk of such court, containing a copy of the charges, and requiring the officer named therein to appear and answer the same as in other civil actions, which summons may be served in the same manner as a summons in civil action, and the service must be made at least five days before the return day thereof. And the court itself shall, without a jury, hear the charges, and upon satisfactory proof thereof, remove any such officer from the discharge of the duties of his office, and place the records, papers and property of his office in the possession of some other officer or person for safekeeping until the vacancy is filled. Any vacancy created under this section shall be filled in the manner required by law as to county and district officers, and in the manner prescribed by the ordinances of the municipality. Any citizen of the county, district or municipality, as the case may be, or the commissioner of prohibition, may prefer and prosecute to final judgment charges for removal against any of the officers, including municipal police, mentioned in this section. The word "officer," as used herein, shall include and embrace municipal police. Either party shall have the right of appeal to the supreme court of the state from the judgment of the district court.

Change of venue, when.

SEC. 27. Whenever it shall appear to any district court before which is pending any charge for an offense under this act, that the state cannot have a fair and impartial trial by jury in the county where such action is pending, the court shall enter an order to that effect, and shall order that such cause be transferred to some other district court in this state to be selected by the judge ordering such transfer; and the trial of such cause shall proceed before the court to which it is so transferred the same as is now provided in cases of change of venue.

Concurrent jurisdiction.

SEC. 28. Justices of the peace shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the district court for the trial of first offenses arising under this act; provided, that the district attorney or the commissioner, or any of his deputies, shall have the right before trial to elect whether the case shall be tried and judgment entered, or whether the justice shall hold a preliminary hearing to determine whether the accused shall be held to the district court; provided, further, that if the defendant shall plead guilty, the justice shall enter judgment on the charge. Justices of the peace shall not impose a fine greater than five hundred dollars nor imprisonment in the county jail longer than six months. The justice shall certify to the district attorney a transcript from his docket of the judgment in the case and a copy of all bonds given by the defendant. Whenever the district attorney shall appear for the state in any prosecution before a justice's court for an offense under this act, there shall be allowed and taxed as a part of the costs taxable against the defendant, an attorney's fee of ten dollars. The state shall have the same right as the defendant to an appeal from the judgment of the justice. Any transcript of a judgment, so certified by a justice of the peace, shall be admissible evidence upon the trial of the accused for a second offense under this act.

Witness, when immune.

SEC. 29. Any person called on behalf of the state to testify concerning any violations of this act, who shall give freely and truthfully any testimony tending in any way to incriminate himself, shall be immune from prosecution under this act.

Unlawful to receive from common carrier—Exception.

SEC. 30. It shall be unlawful for any person in this state to receive, directly or indirectly, intoxicating liquors from a common, or other carrier. It shall also be unlawful for any person in this state to possess intoxicating liquors, received directly or indirectly from a common, or other carrier in this state. This section shall apply to such liquors intended for personal use, as well as otherwise, and to interstate, as well as intrastate, shipments or carriage. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and in addition thereto may be imprisoned in the county jail not more than twelve months; provided, however, that druggists may receive and possess pure grain alcohol, wine and such preparations as may be sold by druggists for the special purpose and in the manner as set forth in section four.

Section 1. The sentence "and all malt or brewed drinks, whether intoxicating or not, shall be deemed malt liquors within the meaning of this act," in this section, cannot be adjudged out of the act, or restricted or enlarged in its plain signification, unless, after exhausting every legitimate method of construction, it is found irreconcilable with the scope and purpose of the act, or void for constitutional reasons. State ex rel. Thatcher v. Reno Brewing Co., 42 Nev. 397, 398, 402-410 (178 P. 902, 905).

Section 1. "Sierra Beverage" containing malt and one-tenth per cent alcohol, is, whether intoxicating or not, within this section providing that "all malt or brewed drinks, whether intoxicating or not, shall be deemed malt liquors within the meaning of this act." Id.

Section 1. The phrase "any other intoxicating drink, mixture or preparation of like nature," which follows the specific enumeration of certain named liquors in this section, instead of limiting the class of liquor enumerated, described another merely by their intoxicating quality. Id.

Section 1. The phrase "any other intoxicating drink, mixture or preparation of like nature," which follows the specific enumeration of certain named liquors in this section, is not controlled or qualified by the last clause of said section with reference to beverages containing one-half per cent alcohol being spirituous liquors. Id.

This section, providing that "all malt or brewed drinks, whether intoxicating or not, shall be deemed malt liquors within the meaning of this act," does not contravene the state or federal constitution. Id.

Section 6. See State ex rel. Thatcher v. Reno Brewing Co., 42 Nev. 397, 398, 402-410 (178 P. 902), under section 14 of this act.

Section 7. This section was intended to prevent a person from having intoxicating liquor upon the street for personal or any other use other than contemplated by the act itself. Ex Parte Zwissig, 42 Nev. 360, 362-366, 368 (178 P. 20-22).

Section 7. Under Rev. Laws, 4851, this section and section 28 of this act in a prosecution for violation of this act a justice cannot assess greater punishment than a fine of $500 and six months' imprisonment in the county jail; the district court alone being authorized to impose the excess fine and imprisonment mentioned in this section. Id.

One charged with violation of this act could not complain of its unconstitutionality as providing the justice of the peace might assess a fine in excess of the limitation fixed by the general statute prescribing his jurisdiction, where the punishment fixed was actually within the limitation of the general statute. Id.

Section 7. This section held not violative of the guaranties of U. S. Const. Amend. 14, sec. 1, as to abridging privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, due process and equal protection. Id.

Section 14. The term "intoxicating liquors," as used in this section, is, when said section is construed together with sections 6 and 17, to be taken as used interchangeably with the word "liquors" in section 1, and the district court had jurisdiction to enjoin defendant from manufacturing and selling "Sierra Beverage," although said beverage is not intoxicating. Id.

Section 17. See State ex rel. Thatcher v. Reno Brewing Co., 42 Nev. 397, 398, 402-410 (178 P. 902), under section 14 of this act.

Section 28. See Ex Parte Zwissig, 42 Nev. 360, 362-366, 368 (178 P. 20-22), under section 7 of this act.

Section 28. Where petitioner was arrested for violating the initiative prohibition act, and the district attorney elected to have the justice hold a preliminary hearing to bind over, on an original application for writ of habeas corpus to the supreme court, such court will not pass upon the objection that the proceedings were void as conferring upon the district court jurisdiction of a misdemeanor until a court without jurisdiction proceeds to exercise it, since until such time the question is moot. Ex Parte Ming, 42 Nev. 480 (181 P. 319, 320).

An Act prohibiting the sale, furnishing, giving away, or having in possession of any intoxicating drinks; defining the same; making the superintendent of the Nevada state police ex officio commissioner of prohibition and defining his duties; prescribing penalties for the violation of this act and providing for the enforcement of the same.

Approved April 1, 1919, 460

Unlawful to have in possession.

SECTION 1. From and after the passage and approval of this act it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell, furnish, give away or have in possession any intoxicating drink or drinks, except as otherwise permitted by this act. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as for a misdemeanor; provided, that any person who shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this act a second time within the space of one year shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars and by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than twelve months. The punishment last mentioned respecting second offenses shall not be less than a fine of five hundred dollars and imprisonment in the county jail for six months.

"Intoxicating drink" defined.

SEC. 2. The words "intoxicating drink" are intended to mean and shall be deemed to mean all malt, vinous or spirituous liquors, all wine, porter, ale, beer, all malted or brewed drinks, all liquids, mixtures and preparations which will produce intoxication and all beverages containing so much as one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume; provided, that none of the foregoing is intended, nor shall any be deemed, to be included as an intoxicating drink unless it shall contain so much as one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume and be capable of use as a beverage.

Druggist may sell—Restrictions.

SEC. 3. It shall be lawful for druggists to sell pure grain alcohol or any United States pharmacopœia or national formulary preparation in a manner conforming to laws now existing respecting such sale, and any specific liquids or solids when so sold shall be deemed to be intoxicating drinks whose sale is permitted; provided, that any substance the sale or possession of which requires a United States liquor dealer's tax or stamp is intended to be an intoxicating drink, whose sale is not permitted.

Toilet and culinary preparations excepted.

SEC. 4. It shall be lawful for druggists to sell perfumes, toilet waters and other toilet preparations, or extracts, condiments or other culinary preparations of like nature, and all of the foregoing enumerated substances may likewise lawfully be sold by grocers having a permanent place of business within the town or city in which the same shall be sold.

Druggists—Record.

SEC. 5. It shall be lawful for druggists to sell brandy or wine, such as is commonly used for beverage purposes, or medicines containing the same only according to the prescription of a duly licensed physician or surgeon residing in the county, which prescription shall state the name and address of the person for whom prescribed and the particular necessity for the same, and which shall further direct that the same shall be compounded or dispensed one time only and which prescription shall be numbered in the usual way, and shall bear also a serial number denoting the number of times substantially the same prescription has been issued to or for the same person. Said prescription shall in addition be dated, subscribed by the physician and sworn to be as true and correct in every particular before some person competent to administer an oath. No such prescription shall be prescribed or knowingly and wilfully be compounded or dispensed by any druggist for a greater quantity than one quart liquid measure, nor shall any physician prescribe for the same person more than once the same or similar liquors within any period of three months, unless with respect to time such physician shall further make oath that the condition of the person prescribed for is such that the liquors prescribed are absolutely necessary at the time. Wines for sacramental purposes may be obtained from druggists and druggists may sell the same to duly and regularly ordained or practicing ministers of the gospel residing within the county of sale upon their written and signed statement that such wines are to be used for sacramental purposes. Physicians shall keep copies of originals and druggists shall keep copies of prescriptions for intoxicating drinks given or compounded pursuant to this act from their date for one year, and exhibit the same on demand to any peace officer. Druggists shall keep a record of all intoxicating drink or drinks bought and received or otherwise received from and after July 1, 1919, and they shall make a statement of the amount of such drink on hand on July 1, 1919, and annually thereafter. Such statement and record shall be kept from time to time as supplies are received and shall be open to the inspection of all peace officers at reasonable times of the day. Any violation of the provisions of this section shall be deemed a violation of this act. Any person may be punished also for any false oath or affidavit, according to existing laws.

What officers to act.

SEC. 6. The superintendent of the Nevada state police shall see that this act is obeyed and observed throughout the state, and shall be ex officio commissioner of prohibition. The peace officers of cities, towns and counties and the district attorneys of each county shall see that this act is obeyed and observed within the limits of their authority. City, town, county and state peace officers and district attorneys shall have the power to seize any intoxicating drink or drinks defined in this act when they are not excepted by permission from the operation hereof, which they may find in the possession of any one under circumstances giving reasonable ground for belief that this act has been or is being violated; provided, that they shall not break or enter into any place used as a place of abode or residence of any person and in other cases they shall first make oath before the nearest magistrate as to the facts within their knowledge and procure a warrant and authority for the search of the premises to be particularly described. Such warrant shall be issued without delay upon the oath of the superintendent of the Nevada state police or the district attorney of the county that he or either of them has reasonable ground to believe that this act is being violated and setting forth such facts as may be known to such officer.

Peace officers custodians.

SEC. 7. All intoxicating drink seized according to law shall be kept safely by the sheriff or constable in the town or county of the seizure and shall await the event of any prosecution commenced in connection with them, and the court or judge having jurisdiction shall order the destruction of the same by the sheriff or constable or their return to the place of seizure accordingly as it shall appear that the seizure was or was not warranted.

Nurses may administer prescriptions.

SEC. 8. Any possession of intoxicating drinks lawfully sold to the possessor shall be a lawful and permitted possession, but the same shall not be given away or furnished to another on any pretext whatsoever, except in the case of persons acting as nurses who are hereby permitted to furnish, give away or administer the same to the sick according to a physician's prescription.

Arrests, how made—District attorneys prosecute.

SEC. 9. Arrests may be made on warrants or otherwise as in other criminal cases and by officers and members of the Nevada state police according to the powers of the Nevada state police. All offenses shall be bailable upon reasonable bail, but not less than the amount of the minimum fine which might be imposed for the offense charged shall be fixed as bail in any case.

District attorneys shall prosecute all charges diligently and on the request in writing filed with the papers of the case and signed by the commissioner of prohibition, shall receive the assistance of any attorney at law of Nevada who may offer assistance without charge or expense, and the court or judge having jurisdiction shall order the name of such attorney entered as an attorney of record on behalf of the state in such prosecution or proceeding. No prosecution or proceeding shall be dismissed if such attorney shall object, before an opportunity shall be afforded such attorney to be heard by the court or to file a statement in the papers of the case concerning the same.

Act, how cited.

SEC. 10. This act shall be cited as the Nevada prohibition act and in prosecutions under it a concise statement that the accused did violate the Nevada prohibition act, a first or second offense (as the case may be), by selling, furnishing, giving away or having in possession (as the case may be) intoxicating drink or drinks, and naming or describing the person or persons to whom the same were sold, furnished or given away (as the case may be), shall sufficiently describe the offense. The time and venue and other usual recitals shall also be given. A second offense shall be noted by appropriate words. It shall not be necessary to negative in the charge, information or indictment any matters of defense.

Repeal—Exception.

SEC. 11. All acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed; provided, that it is not intended hereby to repeal or amend the initiative prohibition enactment which was submitted to the people, as question No. 1, at the last general election, and the same is not repealed or amended by this act.

LIENS

2213. Under this section it was held that one who furnished labor in developing a mine at the instance of the lessee was entitled to a lien on the property for his services, whether the lessee was a contractor working on the property in the interest of the owner, or whether, under the lease, the lessee and owner were both to share in the benefit of the lessee's work. Lamb v. Lucky Boy M. Co., 37 Nev. 11 (138 P. 902).

This section provides for a lien whether the work is done or material furnished at the instance of the owner or his agent. Rev. Laws, 2221, provides that every building or other improvement constructed with the knowledge of the owner shall be held to have been constructed at his instance, and his interest shall be subject to lien, unless within three days after he shall have obtained knowledge of the construction he shall give notice that he will not be responsible, by posting notice in writing on the land or building. Alterations were made on a building, and the contractors for the work with the owner ordered lumber. After work had been commenced, the owners posted a notice of nonliability. Held, that such notice could not affect the lien under this section, since Rev. Laws, 2221, merely imposes an active duty upon the owner to repudiate liability for improvements made or materials furnished without his consent, and not to the case where the order is given by his agent. Verdi Lumber Company v. Bartlett, 40 Nev. 317, 320, 322-326 (161 P. 933).

2215. See Riverside Fixture Company v. Quigley, 35 Nev. 17, under section 2217.

2221. See Riverside Fixture Company v. Quigley, 35 Nev. 17, under section 2217.

The testimony of one claiming a mechanic's lien for work performed upon a building that he worked on the building, that at the time he looked for a notice signed by the owner that he would not be responsible for the repairs, and that there was no such notice at any time while he was doing the work, is not negative testimony such as may be disregarded in the face of positive testimony that the notice was posted. Gaston v. Avensino, 39 Nev. 128, 131 (154 P. 85).

Where the testimony of the plaintiff on the trial of an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien was positive that a notice disclaiming liability for the work done was not posted, and the defendant's testimony was equally positive that it was posted, there was such a conflict in the testimony that the determination of the lower court would not be disturbed. Id.

2217. Procedure to obtain lien—Immaterial error not to defeat.

SEC. 5. Every person claiming the benefit of this chapter shall, not earlier than ten days after the completion of his contract, or the delivery of material by him, or the performance of his labor, as the case may be, and not later than fifty days after such completion of his contract or the delivery of material or performance of labor by him, file for record with the county recorder of the county where the property or some part thereof is situated, a claim containing a statement of his demand after deducting all just credits and offsets, with the name of the owner or reputed owner if known, also the name of the person by whom he was employed or to whom he furnished the material, with a statement of the terms, time given, and conditions of his contract, and also a description of the property to be charged with the lien sufficient for identification, which claim must be verified by the oath of himself or some other person. Upon the trial of any action or suit to foreclose such lien no variance between the lien and the proof shall defeat the lien or be deemed material unless the same shall result from fraud or be made intentionally, or shall have misled the adverse party to his prejudice, but in all cases of immaterial variance the claim of lien may be amended, by amendment duly recorded, to conform to the proof. No error or mistake in the name of the owner or reputed owner contained in any claim of lien shall be held to defeat the lien, unless a correction of the lien in this particular shall prejudice the rights of an innocent bona-fide purchaser or encumbrancer for value. But upon the trial, if it shall appear that an error or mistake has been made in the name of the owner or reputed owner, or that the wrong person has been named as owner or reputed owner, in any such claim of lien, the court shall order an amended claim of lien to be recorded with the recorder where the original claim was recorded, and shall issue to the person who is so made to appear to be the original or reputed owner, a notice directing such person or persons to be and appear, within the same time as is provided by law for the appearance in other actions after the service of summons, and said notice shall be served in all respects as a summons is required to be served, before said court and to show cause why he should not be substituted in said claim of lien and in said suit in lieu of the person so made defendant and alleged to be owner or reputed owner by mistake, and to further show why he should not be bound by the judgment or decree of the court. And such proceedings shall be had therein as though the party so cited to appear had been an original party defendant in the action or suit, and originally named in the claim of lien as owner or reputed owner, and the rights of all parties shall thereupon be fully adjudicated. As amended, Stats. 1917, 43.

2217. This section provides that a lien claim shall recite the name of the owner or reputed owner, if known. Rev. Laws, 2215, provides that, if a person owns less than a fee simple estate, only his interest shall be subject to lien. Rev. Laws, 2221, provides that the interest of an owner of property, or one having an interest, may be subjected to a lien, where a building or improvement was constructed with his knowledge. A lien claim recited "that the above-mentioned L. is the owner and reputed owner of said premises." The heirs of the former owner are minors, other than L. who assumes, not only to have an interest in the property, but to exercise control over the same. Held, the designation of such heir is sufficient to charge his interest for the entire lien. Riverside Fixture Company v. Quigley, 35 Nev. 17, 28 (126 P. 545).

The statute giving right of lien to both contractors and laborers, a lien claim against mining property is not void for joinder of a claim of lien under contract of employment by the day with one under contract of employment for a specified amount of work, at an agreed price per foot; the work being continuous and of the same character under both contracts. Ferro v. Bargo Mining Company, 37 Nev. 139, 144 (140 P. 527).

2221. Owner must post and file notices.

SEC. 9. Every building or other improvement mentioned in section 1 of this act, constructed upon any lands with the knowledge of the owner or the person having or claiming any interest therein, shall be held to have been constructed at the instance of such owner or person having or claiming any interest therein, and the interest owned or claimed shall be subject to any lien filed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, unless such owner or person having or claiming an interest therein shall, within three days after he shall have obtained knowledge of the construction, alteration or repair, or the intended construction, alteration or repair, give notice that he will not be responsible for the same, by posting a notice in writing to that effect in some conspicuous place upon said land, or upon the building or other improvement situate thereon, and also shall, within five days after such posting, file a duplicate original of such posted notice with the recorder of the county where said land or building is situated, together with an affidavit attached thereto showing such posting of the original notice. Such filing shall be prima facie evidence of said posting. As amended, Stats. 1917, 435.

Under this section, a notice posted at the collar of a mine shaft, which the owner, when he entered into an agreement with the contractor, knew would necessarily be destroyed in preparing the shaft for mining operations, and which was so destroyed prior to the contractor's employment of the claimant; was not binding upon claimant, as a notice must be so posted as, under ordinary conditions, it will remain a reasonable length of time, though a written notice in lead pencil would be as good as any other notice. Phillips v. Snowden Placer Co., 40 Nev. 67, 81 (160 P. 786).

See Verdi Lumber Company v. Bartlett, 40 Nev. 317, under section 2213.

2223. By this section labor liens are preferred claims, and entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the property in advance of other classes of lien claimants. Daly v. Lahontan Mines Company, 39 Nev. 14, 15, 23, 28 (151 P. 514; 158 P. 285).

This section provides that whenever liens are asserted against any property, the court in the judgment must declare their rank, placing liens for labor first. Rev. Laws, 2227, provides that, at the time of filing a complaint and issuing the summons in a lien action, the plaintiff shall notify all persons claiming liens on the premises to exhibit proof of their liens to the court. A mechanic's lienor for labor failed to exhibit his lien in a prior lien suit. Held, that so far as the plaintiffs in such suit and those who did exhibit their liens were concerned, he had waived his right under the statute to priority as a labor lienor. Id.

2224. Under this section, a lien suit instituted by a labor lien claimant, in which others join, should have been consolidated with other and prior suits against the same defendant. Daly v. Lahontan Mines Co., 39 Nev. 15, 28 (151 P. 514; 158 P. 285).

See Daly v. Lahontan Mines Company, 39 Nev. 14, under section 2223.

This section allows any number of lien claimants to join in the same action and the court to consolidate separate actions; Rev. Laws, 2227, provides that such liens may be enforced in an action in any court of competent jurisdiction and applies to mechanics' liens proceedings in justice's court where the sum involved does not exceed $300. Held, that the words "sum involved" mean the sum involved in the several liens embraced in the suit, and that a justice's court had no jurisdiction of an action to foreclose mechanics' liens, where the total amount of the liens exceeds $300, notwithstanding each of the liens is for a less amount. Phillips v. Snowden Placer Company, 40 Nev. 66, 76 (160 P. 786).

In view of this section, a judgment may be rendered against one personally liable if the complaint contains all necessary facts constituting both kinds of relief, and all the necessary allegations of an action in assumpsit. State v. Moran, 42 Nev. 356 (176 P. 413).

2227. Under this section, where no proofs were offered of liens involved in another and subsequent lien suit, no request made for consolidation of suits, and no appeal taken from the order refusing a continuance to the other lien claimants for the presentation of proofs, there was a waiver in favor of the liens involved in the original suit. Daly v. Lahontan Mines Company, 39 Nev. 16, 28, 29 (151 P. 514; 158 P. 285).

See Daly v. Lahontan Mines Company, 39 Nev. 14, under section 2223.

Under this section, where lien claimants sued to enforce their lien, and gave proper notice to other claimants to exhibit their liens, and other claimants, who had an opportunity to exhibit their liens and had elected to institute a separate suit, appeared by attorney and stated that the other suit was pending for the foreclosure of their liens, and that at the proper time they would appear and join in the foreclosure, the court very properly refused the claimants a continuance. Daly v. Lahontan Mines Company, 39 Nev. 15-18, 23, 27-29 (151 P. 514; 158 P. 285).

See Phillips v. Snowden Placer Company, 40 Nev. 66, under section 2224.

That at the time of making any contract for the erection, construction, alteration or repair of any public building or structure, the contract price of which shall exceed the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars, the party letting the contract shall exact from the contractor, and the contractor shall give to such party a good and sufficient bond, in an amount equal to at least twenty-five (25) per cent of the contract price, with at least two sureties, who shall qualify, in the aggregate, in an amount double the penal sum of said bond, and shall qualify in the form provided for the qualification of sureties upon court bonds, which bond shall be conditioned that the contractor shall well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, all just debts contracted by him for labor performed upon and materials furnished for the work provided to be done by said contract.

Bond to be filed.

SEC. 2. Said bond shall be filed and kept on file by the lawful custodian of said contract, and a copy of said bond, certified to be such by said lawful custodian, shall be prima facie proof of the contents and due execution of said bond.

Surety company bond accepted.

SEC. 3. A bond given by any surety company, duly qualified to do business in the State of Nevada, shall be accepted as the equivalent of the bond required to be given by section 1 hereof.

Duplicate furnished, when.

SEC. 4. The custodian of said bond, shall, upon demand, furnish a duly certified copy of said bond to any applicant therefor, upon receiving a fee of fifty cents therefor.

Liability on failure to exact bond.

SEC. 5. If the party letting such contract shall fail to exact and take the bond herein provided for, or shall knowingly accept insufficient sureties thereon, such party, and the individual officers and agents thereof, by whom such contract was authorized, shall be jointly and severally liable to all who have performed labor upon and to all who have furnished materials for the work provided to be done by such contract, to an amount not exceeding twenty-five (25) per cent of the contract price, but wherever the party itself shall pay, upon default of the contractor, any liability hereby created, it shall have a right of action, jointly and severally, against the individual officers and agents thereof, by which said contract was authorized, and against their bondsmen, if any, for any amount or amounts so paid.

Bond, action upon.

SEC. 6. Any bond given hereunder shall be to the party letting said contract, and, upon default of the contractor, all who have performed labor upon, or furnished materials for, the work provided to be done by said contract, and their heirs, personal representatives, successors and assigns, shall have a right of action upon said bond, for the amount of their just debts for such labor and materials, and the court may allow a reasonable attorney's fee to the prevailing party in such action or actions.

Bond less than amount unpaid, procedure.

SEC. 7. When the unpaid demands for labor and materials are more than the amount of the bond, the court may, in rendering judgment, pro rate the amount of the bond among the several claimants. To this end the district court may consolidate all actions brought upon any such bond, and, when it is made to appear to such court, by affidavit, or otherwise, that the total liability, including costs and attorney's fees, on any such bond, will probably exceed the amount of said bond, the court may order that any action or actions pending in any justice's court, upon such bond, shall be certified to it, and thereupon, each such justice shall certify to such district court, all the pleadings and files in any such action upon such bond, and such certified actions shall be consolidated with the actions brought in the district court, and tried therewith, and any judgment, in any such certified action, shall carry costs and attorney's fees, irrespective of the amount in controversy.

Bond not invalid for defects.

SEC. 8. No bond given hereunder shall be invalid by reason of any defect of form, or of qualification of sureties, or for a failure of the sureties to qualify, and no such bond need be signed by the contractor.

Subcontractor not denied legal remedies.

SEC. 9. For all purposes of this act, and for the maintaining of any action or right thereunder, all who have performed labor for or furnished materials to any subcontractor shall be deemed to have performed such labor, and to have furnished such material at the instance and request of the original contractor. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to deny to a subcontractor the rights and remedies created by this act; and, for the purposes of this act and all the rights and remedies created hereby, a subcontractor shall be deemed to have performed labor or furnished material, and to be included within those entitled to all rights and remedies hereunder. Where, however, actions are brought by a subcontractor, and also by all or any of his immediate laborers or material men, any judgment allowed the subcontractor shall be the amount he would otherwise be entitled to, less, however, the total of the demands sued upon by such immediate laborers and material men, of such subcontractor, and allowed.

SEC. 10. All actions brought upon any bond given hereunder shall be commenced within ninety days (90) after the completion and acceptance of the public building or structure upon which said bond was given, and no action so brought shall be tried, or any judgment rendered therein until the expiration of the said ninety (90) days. Any judgment obtained in any action brought under any provision of this act, shall be enforced in the same manner as judgments in other civil actions.

Words construed.

SEC. 11. The words "public buildings or structure," as herein used, are hereby declared to mean and to include every work or improvement, which, if done at the instance of an individual owner, would be subject to a mechanics' lien under the laws of the State of Nevada.

"Party" construed.

SEC. 3. That exclusive jurisdiction to naturalize aliens as citizens of the United States is hereby conferred upon the following specified courts:

United States circuit and district courts now existing, or which may hereafter be established by Congress in any State, United States district courts for the Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Hawaii, and Alaska,

That the naturalization jurisdiction of all courts herein specified—State, Territorial, and Federal—shall extend only to aliens resident within the respective judicial districts of such courts.

The courts herein specified shall, upon the requisition of the clerks of such courts, be furnished from time to time by the Bureau of Naturalization with such blank forms as may be required in the naturalization of aliens, and all certificates of naturalization shall be consecutively numbered and printed on safety paper furnished by said bureau.

2517. Procedure.

SEC. 4. That an alien may be admitted to become a citizen of the United States in the following manner and not otherwise:

First. He shall declare on oath before the clerk of any court authorized by this act to naturalize aliens, or his authorized deputy, in the district in which such alien resides, two years at least prior to his admission, and after he has reached the age of eighteen years, that it is bona fide his intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty, and particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which the alien may be at the time a citizen or subject. And such declaration shall set forth the name, age, occupation, personal description, place of birth, last foreign residence and allegiance, the date of arrival, the name of the vessel, if any, in which he came to the United States and the present place of residence in the United States of said alien: Provided, however, That no alien who, in conformity with the law in force at the date of his declaration, has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States shall be required to renew such declaration.

Second. Not less than two years nor more than seven years after he has made such declaration of intention he shall make and file, in duplicate, a petition in writing, signed by the applicant in his own handwriting and duly verified, in which petition such applicant shall state his full name, his place of residence (by street and number, if possible), his occupation, and, if possible, the date and place of his birth; the place from which he emigrated, and the date and place of his arrival in the United States, and, if he entered through a port, the name of the vessel on which he arrived; the time when and the place and name of the court where he declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States; if he is married he shall state the name of his wife and, if possible, the country of her nativity and her place of residence at the time of filing his petition; and if he has children, the name, date, and place of birth and place of residence of each child living at the time of the filing of his petition: Provided, That if he has filed his declaration before the passage of this act he shall not be required to sign the petition in his own handwriting.

The petition shall set forth that he is not a disbeliever in or opposed to organized government, or a member of or affiliated with any organization or body of persons teaching disbelief in or opposed to organized government, a polygamist or believer in the practice of polygamy, and that it is his intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce absolutely and forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state or sovereignty, and particularly by name to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which he at the time of filing of his petition may be a citizen or subject, and that it is his intention to reside permanently within the United States, and whether or not he has been denied admission as a citizen of the United States, and, if denied, the ground or grounds of such denial, the court or courts in which such decision was rendered, and that the cause for such denial has since been cured or removed, and every fact material to his naturalization and required to be proved upon the final hearing of his application.

The petition shall also be verified by the affidavits of at least two credible witnesses, who are citizens of the United States, and who shall state in their affidavits that they have personally known the applicant to be a resident of the United States for a period of at least five years continuously, and of the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, in which the application is made for a period of at least one year immediately preceding the date of the filing of his petition, and that they each have personal knowledge that the petitioner is a person of good moral character, and that he is in every way qualified, in their opinion, to be admitted as a citizen of the United States.

At the time of filing his petition there shall be filed with the clerk of the court a certificate from the Department of Labor, if the petitioner arrives in the United States after the passage of this act, stating the date, place, and manner of his arrival in the United States, and the declaration of intention of such petitioner, which certificate and declaration shall be attached to and made a part of said petition.

Third. He shall, before he is admitted to citizenship, declare on oath in open court that he will support the Constitution of the United States, and that he absolutely and entirely renounces and adjures all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty, and particularly by name to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject; that he will support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and bear true faith and allegiance to the same.

Fourth. It shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court admitting any alien to citizenship that immediately preceding the date of his application he has resided continuously within the United States five years at least, and within the State or Territory where such court is at the time held one year at least, and that during that time he has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same. In addition to the oath of the applicant, the testimony of at least two witnesses, citizens of the United States, as to the facts of residence, moral character, and attachment to the principles of the Constitution shall be required, and the name, place of residence, and occupation of each witness shall be set forth in the record.

Fifth. In case the alien applying to be admitted to citizenship has borne any hereditary title, or has been of any of the orders of nobility in the kingdom or state from which he came, he shall, in addition to the above requisite, make an express renunciation of his title or order of nobility in the court to which his application is made, and his renunciation shall be recorded in the court.

Sixth. When any alien who has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States dies before he is actually naturalized the widow and minor children of such alien may, by complying with the other provision of this act, be naturalized without making any declaration of intention.

Seventh. Any native-born Filipino of the age of twenty-one years and upward who has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States and who has enlisted or may hereafter enlist in the United States Navy or Marine Corps or the Naval Auxiliary Service, and who, after service of not less than three years, may be honorably discharged therefrom, or who may receive an ordinary discharge with recommendation for reenlistment; or any alien, or any Porto Rican not a citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years and upward, who has enlisted or entered or may hereafter enlist in or enter the armies of the United States, either the Regular or the Volunteer Forces, or the National Army, the National Guard or Naval Militia of any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or the State militia in Federal service, or in the United States Navy or Marine Corps, or in the United States Coast Guard, or who has served for three years on board of any vessel of the United States Government, or for three years on board of merchant or fishing vessels of the United States of more than twenty tons burden, and while still in the service on a reenlistment or reappointment, or within six months after an honorable discharge or separation therefrom, or while on furlough to the Army Reserve or Regular Army Reserve after honorable service, may, on presentation of the required declaration of intention, petition for naturalization without proof of the required five years' residence within the United States if upon examination by the representative of the Bureau of Naturalization, in accordance with the requirements of this subdivision it is shown that such residence can not be established; any alien serving in the military or naval service of the United States during the time this country is engaged in the present war may file his petition for naturalization without making the preliminary declaration of intention and without proof of the required five years' residence within the United States; any alien declarant who has served in the United States Army or Navy, or the Philippine Constabulary, and has been honorably discharged therefrom, and has been accepted for service in either the military or naval service of the United States on the condition that he becomes a citizen of the United States, may file his petition for naturalization upon proof of continuous residence within the United States for the three years immediately preceding his petition, by two witnesses, citizens of the United States, and in these cases only residence in the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal Zone by aliens may be considered residence within the United States, and the place of such military service shall be construed as the place of residence required to be established for purposes of naturalization; and any alien, or any person owing permanent allegiance to the United States embraced within this subdivision, may file his petition for naturalization in the most convenient court without proof of residence within its jurisdiction, notwithstanding the limitation upon the jurisdiction of the courts specified in section three of the act of June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six, provided he appears with his two witnesses before the appropriate representative of the Bureau of Naturalization and passes the preliminary examination hereby required before filing his petition for naturalization in the office of the clerk of the court, and in each case the record of this examination shall be offered in evidence by the representative of the Government from the Bureau of Naturalization and made a part of the record at the original and any subsequent hearings; and, except as otherwise herein provided, the honorable discharge certificate of such alien, or person owing permanent allegiance to the United States, or the certificate of service showing good conduct, signed by a duly authorized officer, or by the masters of said vessels, shall be deemed prima facie evidence to satisfy all of the requirements of residence within the United States and within the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, and good moral character required by law, when supported by the affidavits of two witnesses, citizens of the United States, identifying the applicant as the person named in the certificate or honorable discharge, and in those cases only where the alien is actually in the military or naval service of the United States, the certificate of arrival shall not be filed with the petition for naturalization in the manner prescribed; and any petition for naturalization filed under the provisions of this subdivision may be heard immediately, notwithstanding the law prohibits the hearing of a petition for naturalization during thirty days preceding any election in the jurisdiction of the court. Any alien who, at the time of the passage of this act, is in the military service of the United States, who may not be within the jurisdiction of any court authorized to naturalize aliens, may file his petition for naturalization without appearing in person in the office of the clerk of the court and shall not be required to take the prescribed oath of allegiance in open court. The petition shall be verified by the affidavits of at least two credible witnesses who are citizens of the United States, and who shall prove in their affidavits the portion of the residence that they have personally known the applicant to have resided within the United States. The time of military service may be established by the affidavits of at least two other citizens of the United States, which together with the oath of allegiance, may be taken in accordance with the terms of section seventeen hundred and fifty of the Revised Statutes of the United States after notice from and under regulations of the Bureau of Naturalization. Such affidavits and oath of allegiance shall be admitted in evidence in any original or appellate naturalization proceeding without proof of the genuineness of the seal or signature or of the official character of the officer before whom the affidavits and oath of allegiance were taken, and shall be filed by the representative of the Government from the Bureau of Naturalization at the hearing as provided by section eleven of the act of June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six. Members of the Naturalization Bureau and Service may be designated by the Secretary of Labor to administer oaths relating to the administration of the naturalization law; and the requirement of section ten of notice to take depositions to the United States attorneys is repealed, and the duty they perform under section fifteen of the act of June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six (Thirty-fourth Statutes at Large, part one, page five hundred and ninety-six), may also be performed by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization: Provided, That it shall not be lawful to make a declaration of intention before the clerk of any court on election day or during the period of thirty days preceding the day of holding any election in the jurisdiction of the court: Provided, further, That service by aliens upon vessels other than of American registry, whether continuous or broken, shall not be considered as residence for naturalization purposes within the jurisdiction of the United States, and such aliens can not secure residence for naturalization purposes during service upon vessels of foreign registry.

During the time when the United States is at war no clerk of a United States court shall charge or collect a naturalization fee from an alien in the military service of the United States for filing his petition or issuing the certificate of naturalization upon admission to citizenship, and no clerk of any State court shall charge or collect any fee for this service unless the laws of the State require such charge to be made, in which case nothing more than the portion of the fee required to be paid to the State shall be charged or collected. A full accounting for all of these transactions shall be made to the Bureau of Naturalization in the manner provided by section thirteen of the act of June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six.

Eighth. That every seaman, being an alien, shall, after his declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States, and after he shall have served three years upon such merchant or fishing vessels of the United States, be deemed a citizen of the United States for the purpose of serving on board any such merchant or fishing vessel of the United States, anything to the contrary in any act of Congress notwithstanding; but such seaman shall, for all purposes of protection as an American citizen, be deemed such after the filing of his declaration of intention to become such citizen: Provided, That nothing contained in this act shall be taken or construed to repeal or modify any portion of the act approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and fifteen (Thirty-eighth Statutes at Large, part one, page eleven hundred and sixty-four, chapter one hundred and fifty-three), being an act to promote the welfare of American seamen.

Ninth. That for the purpose of carrying on the work of the Bureau of Naturalization of sending the names of the candidates for citizenship to the public schools and otherwise promoting instruction and training in citizenship responsibilities of applicants for naturalization, as provided in this subdivision, authority is hereby given for the reimbursement of the printing and binding appropriation of the Department of Labor upon the records of the Treasury Department from the naturalization fees deposited in the Treasury through the Bureau of Naturalization for the cost of publishing the citizenship text-book prepared and to be distributed by the Bureau of Naturalization to those candidates for citizenship only who are in attendance upon the public schools, such reimbursement to be made upon statements by the Commissioner of Naturalization of books actually delivered to such student candidates for citizenship, and a monthly naturalization bulletin, and in this duty to secure the aid of and cooperate with the official State and national organizations, including those concerned with vocational education and including personal services in the District of Columbia, and to aid the local Army exemption boards and cooperate with the War Department in locating declarants subject to the Army draft and expenses incidental thereto.

Tenth. That any person not an alien enemy, who resided uninterruptedly within the United States during the period of five years next preceding July first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and was on that date otherwise qualified to become a citizen of the United States, except that he had not made the declaration of intention required by law, and who during or prior to that time, because of misinformation regarding his citizenship status, erroneously exercised the rights and performed the duties of a citizen of the United States in good faith, may file the petition for naturalization prescribed by law without making the preliminary declaration of intention required of other aliens, and upon satisfactory proof to the court that he has so acted may be admitted as a citizen of the United States upon complying in all respects with the other requirements of the naturalization law.

Eleventh.. No alien who is a native, citizen, subject, or denizen of any country, State, or sovereignty with which the United States is at war shall be admitted to become a citizen of the United States unless he made his declaration of intention not less than two nor more than seven years prior to the existence of the state of war, or was at that time entitled to become a citizen of the United States, without making a declaration of intention, or unless his petition for naturalization shall then be pending and is otherwise entitled to admission, notwithstanding he shall be an alien enemy at the time and in the manner prescribed by the laws passed upon that subject: Provided, That no alien embraced within this subdivision shall have his petition for naturalization called for a hearing, or heard, except after ninety days' notice given by the clerk of the court to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization to be present, and the petition shall be given no final hearing except in open court and after such notice to the representative of the Government from the Bureau of Naturalization, whose objection shall cause the petition to be continued from time to time for so long as the Government may require: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall be taken or construed to interfere with or prevent the apprehension and removal, agreeably to law, of any alien enemy at any time previous to the actual naturalization of such alien; and section twenty-one hundred and seventy-one of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby repealed: Provided further, That the President of the United States may, in his discretion, upon investigation and report by the Department of Justice fully establishing the loyalty of any alien enemy not included in the foregoing exemption, except such alien enemy from the classification of alien enemy, and thereupon he shall have the privilege of applying for naturalization; and for the purposes of carrying into effect the provisions of this section, including personal services in the District of Columbia, the sum of $400,000 is hereby appropriated, to be available until June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, including travel expenses for members of the Bureau of Naturalization and its field service only, and the provisions of section thirty-six hundred and seventy-nine of the Revised Statutes shall not be applicable in any way to this appropriation.

Twelfth. That any person who, while a citizen of the United States and during the existing war in Europe, entered the military or naval service of any country at war with a country with which the United States is now at war, who shall be deemed to have lost his citizenship by reason of any oath or obligation taken by him for the purpose of entering such service, may resume his citizenship by taking the oath of allegiance to the United States prescribed by the naturalization law and regulations, and such oath may be taken before any court of the United States or of any State authorized by law to naturalize aliens or before any consul of the United States, and certified copies thereof shall be sent by such court or consul to the Department of State and the Bureau of Naturalization, and the act (Public fifty-five, Sixty-fifth Congress, approved October fifth, nineteen hundred and seventeen), is hereby repealed.

Thirteenth. That any person who is serving in the military or naval forces of the United States at the termination of the existing war, and any person who before the termination of the existing war may have been honorably discharged from the military or naval services of the United States on account of disability incurred in line of duty, shall, if he applies to the proper court for admission as a citizen of the United States, be relieved from the necessity of proving that immediately preceding the date of his application he has resided continuously within the United States the time required by law of other aliens, or within the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia for the year immediately preceding the date of his petition for naturalization, but his petition for naturalization shall be supported by the affidavits of two credible witnesses, citizens of the United States, identifying the petitioner as the person named in the certificate of honorable discharge, which said certificate may be accepted as evidence of good moral character required by law, and he shall comply with the other requirements of the naturalization law.

2523. Proof by depositions, when permitted.

SEC. 10. That in case the petitioner has not resided in the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia for a period of five years continuously and immediately preceding the filing of his petition he may establish by two witnesses, both in his petition and at the hearing, the time of his residence within the State, provided that it has been for more than one year, and the remaining portion of his five years' residence within the United States required by law to be established may be proved by the depositions of two or more witnesses who are citizens of the United States, upon notice to the Bureau of Naturalization.

2525. Duties of clerks of courts.

SEC. 12. That it is hereby made the duty of the clerk of each and every court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization matters under the provisions of this act to keep and file a duplicate of each declaration of intention made before him and to send to the Bureau of Naturalization at Washington, within thirty days after the issuance of a certificate of citizenship, a duplicate of such certificate, and to make and keep on file in his office a stub for each certificate so issued by him, whereon shall be entered a memorandum of all the essential facts set forth in such certificate. It shall also be the duty of the clerk of each of said courts to report to the said bureau, within thirty days after the final hearing and decision of the court, the name of each and every alien who shall be denied naturalization, and to furnish to said bureau duplicates of all petitions within thirty days after the filing of the same, and certified copies of such other proceedings and orders instituted in or issued out of said court affecting or relating to the naturalization of aliens as may be required from time to time by the said bureau.

In case any such clerk or officer acting under his direction shall refuse or neglect to comply with any of the foregoing provisions he shall forfeit and pay to the United States the sum of twenty-five dollars in each and every case in which such violation or omission occurs, and the amount of such forfeiture may be recovered by the United States in an action of debt against such clerk.

Clerks of courts having and exercising jurisdiction in naturalization matters shall be responsible for all blank certificates of citizenship received by them from time to time from the Bureau of Naturalization, and shall account for the same to the said bureau whenever required so to do by such bureau. No certificate of citizenship received by any such clerk which may be defaced or injured in such manner as to prevent its use as herein provided shall in any case be destroyed, but such certificate shall be returned to the said bureau; and in case any such clerk shall fail to return or properly account for any certificate furnished by the said bureau, as herein provided, he shall be liable to the United States in the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt, for each and every certificate not properly accounted for or returned.

2526. Fees, disposal of.

SEC. 13. That the clerk of each and every court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization cases shall charge, collect, and account for the following fees in each proceeding:

For receiving and filing a declaration of intention and issuing a duplicate thereof, one dollar.

For making, filing, and docketing the petition of an alien for admission as a citizen of the United States and for the final hearing thereon, two dollars; and for entering the final order and the issuance of the certificate of citizenship thereunder, if granted, two dollars.

The clerk of any court collecting such fees is hereby authorized to retain one-half of the fees collected by him in such naturalization proceeding; the remaining one-half of the naturalization fees in each case collected by such clerks, respectively, shall be accounted for in their quarterly accounts, which they are hereby required to render the Bureau of Naturalization, and paid over to such bureau within thirty days from the close of each quarter in each and every fiscal year, and the moneys so received shall be paid over to the disbursing clerk of the Department of Labor, who shall thereupon deposit them in the Treasury of the United States, rendering an account therefor quarterly to the Auditor for the State and Other Departments, and the said disbursing clerk shall be held responsible under his bond for said fees so received.

In addition to the fees herein required, the petitioner shall, upon the filing of his petition to become a citizen of the United States, deposit with and pay to the clerk of the court a sum of money sufficient to cover the expenses of subpoenaing and paying the legal fees of any witnesses for whom he may request a subpoena, and upon the final discharge of such witnesses they shall receive, if they demand the same from the clerk, the customary and usual witness fees from the moneys which the petitioner shall have paid to such clerk for such purpose, and the residue, if any, shall be returned by the clerk to the petitioner: Provided, That the clerks of courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings shall be permitted to retain one-half of the fees in any fiscal year up to the sum of three thousand dollars, and that all fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings in excess of such amount shall be accounted for and paid over to said bureau as in case of other fees to which the United States may be entitled under the provisions of this act. The clerks of the various courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings shall pay all additional clerical force that may be required in performing the duties imposed by this act upon the clerks of courts from fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings.

And in case the clerk of any court exercising naturalization jurisdiction collects fees in excess of the sum of six thousand dollars in any fiscal year the Secretary of Labor may allow salaries, for naturalization purposes only, to pay for clerical assistance, to be selected and employed by that clerk, additional to the clerical force, for which clerks of courts are required by this section to pay from fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings, if in the opinion of said Secretary the naturalization business of such clerk warrants further additional assistance: Provided, That in no event shall the whole amount allowed the clerk of a court and his assistants exceed the one-half of the gross receipts of the office of said clerk from naturalization fees during such fiscal year: Provided further, That when, at the close of any fiscal year, the business of such clerk of court indicates in the opinion of the Secretary of Labor that the naturalization fees for the succeeding fiscal year will exceed six thousand dollars the Secretary of Labor may authorize the continuance of the allowance of salaries for the additional clerical assistance herein provided for and employed on the last day of the fiscal year, until such time as the remittances indicate in the opinion of said Secretary that the fees for the then current fiscal year will not be sufficient to allow the additional clerical assistance authorized by this act.

That payment for the additional clerical assistance herein authorized shall be in the manner and under such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

2528. Proceedings to set aside naturalization.

SEC. 15. That it shall be the duty of the United States district attorneys for the respective districts, upon affidavit showing good cause therefor, to institute proceedings in any court having jurisdiction to naturalize aliens in the judicial district in which the naturalized citizen may reside at the time of bringing the suit, for the purpose of setting aside and canceling the certificate of citizenship on the ground of fraud or on the ground that such certificate of citizenship was illegally procured. In any such proceedings the party holding the certificate of citizenship alleged to have been fraudulently or illegally procured shall have sixty days personal notice in which to make answer to the petition of the United States; and if the holder of such certificate be absent from the United States or from the district in which he last had his residence, such notice shall be given by publication in the manner provided for the service of summons by publication or upon absentees by the laws of the State or the place where such suit is brought.

If any alien who shall have secured a certificate of citizenship under the provisions of this act shall, within five years after the issuance of such certificate, return to the country of his nativity, or go to any other foreign country, and take permanent residence therein, it shall be considered prima facie evidence of a lack of intention on the part of such alien to become a permanent citizen of the United States at the time of filing his application for citizenship, and, in the absence of countervailing evidence, it shall be sufficient in the proper proceeding to authorize the cancellation of his certificate of citizenship as fraudulent, and the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States in foreign countries shall from time to time, through the Department of State, furnish the Department of Justice with the names of those within their respective jurisdictions who have such certificates of citizenship and who have taken permanent residence in the country of their nativity, or in any other foreign country, and such statements, duly certified, shall be admissible in evidence in all courts in proceedings to cancel certificates of citizenship.

Whenever any certificate of citizenship shall be set aside or canceled, as herein provided, the court in which such judgment or decree is rendered shall make an order canceling such certificate of citizenship and shall send a certified copy of such order to the Bureau of Naturalization; and in case such certificate was not originally issued by the court making such order it shall direct the clerk of the court to transmit a copy of such order and judgment to the court out of which such certificate of citizenship shall have been originally issued. And it shall thereupon be the duty of the clerk of the court receiving such certified copy of the order and judgment of the court to enter the same of record and to cancel such original certificate of citizenship upon the records and to notify the Bureau of Naturalization of such cancellation.

The provisions of this section shall apply not only to certificates of citizenship issued under the provisions of this act, but to all certificates of citizenship which may have been issued heretofore by any court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings under prior laws.

OFFICERS GENERALLY

2770. Electors, when and where to convene.

SEC. 6. The electors so chosen shall convene at the seat of government on the second Monday in January next after their election at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, or on such other date as the Congress of the United States may by law hereafter provide, and in case of the death or absence of any elector so chosen or in case the number of electors shall from any cause be deficient the electors then present shall forthwith elect from the qualified electors of the state as many persons as shall supply the deficiency. As amended, Stats. 1917, 391.

2771. Duties when convened.

SEC. 7. The electors, when convened on said second Monday in January, shall vote by ballot for one person for president and one person for vice-president of the United States, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of this state. They shall name in their ballots the persons voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the persons voted for as vice-president; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president, and of all persons voted for as vice-president, and of the number of votes given for each, which list they shall sign and certify and transmit, sealed up, to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; and they shall, in all respects, proceed conformably to the constitution of the United States, and the laws of the United States in this behalf. As amended, Stats. 1917, 392.

SECTION 1. All prosecuting attorneys, county recorders, clerks of the several district courts, county clerks, sheriffs, assessors, collectors of taxes and constables are hereby authorized to appoint deputies, who shall have power to transact all official business appertaining to said officers, to the same extent as their principals; provided, that no person shall be appointed a deputy sheriff or a deputy constable unless such person shall have been a resident of the State of Nevada for at least six months prior to the date of such appointment. As amended, Stats. 1913, 108.

2851-2854. Whether or not Const. art. 6, sec. 6, gives the district court jurisdiction for the removal of county officers, article 7, section 4 of the constitution gives the legislature plenary power to provide procedure therefor, and therefore these sections giving such jurisdiction are constitutional. Gay v. District Court, 41 Nev. 330, 336 (171 P. 156).

These sections do not violate the constitutional provision that one charged with crime is entitled to a jury trial, because the legislature has plenary power in such cases. Id.

A proceeding for removal of a county officer need not be brought in the name of the state under these sections, giving procedure for removal of officers. Id.

Where the requirement under these sections, that officer removed shall pay complainant $500, is waived, the constitutionality of such requirement cannot be considered. Id.

The title to these sections relates to only the one subject of removal of officers, although it provides several independent methods for removing them. Id.

Complaint on behalf of state for benefit of the county, stating that the complainant is a citizen, resident and taxpayer of the county, and is foreman of the grand jury, and at the request of the grand jury petitions for removal of county commissioner, was a proper petition under these sections, and not under Rev. Laws, 6894, et seq., providing for removal after jury trial, since the allegations on the grand jury's request were surplusage; the complaint being sufficient without them. Ex Parte Jones and Gregory, 41 Nev. 523, 526-532 (173 P. 885).

boundaries of the county, to redeem said bonds and the payment of the accumulated interest on all the bonds issued under this act. Such tax shall be levied and collected in the same manner, and at the same time as other taxes are assessed and collected, and the proceeds thereof shall be kept by the county treasurer in a special fund to be known as the county road and bridge redemption fund. All poll taxes collected shall enter into and become a part of the county road and bridge redemption fund, or if such fund be not created, then such poll tax shall enter into and become a part of the county general road fund.

SEC. 5. Upon the application of any citizen of the United States, or any person who has legally declared his intentions to become such, over the age of twenty-one years, including females, to purchase lands not previously selected by the state, such applicant shall deposit with the state land register the amount necessary to purchase said lands, together with an affidavit, in due form, by the applicant, or some other competent person, made before an officer having an official seal and legally authorized to administer oaths, that the lands described in the application are nonmineral in character, and such affidavit shall not refer to any lands not included in such application. The land register shall endorse upon each application the exact time of its receipt in his office, and shall certify to the state controller that such person is entitled to apply for the lands, describing the same as in the application, and said certificate shall state the grant of lands under which said application is made and the amount necessary to purchase the same. The controller shall thereupon issue his order directing the state treasurer to receive such amount, placing the same in the proper fund. The register shall at the same time certify to the treasurer said payment, which certificate shall be accompanied by the application and the amount necessary to purchase, and upon receipt of the order from the controller, the treasurer shall issue his receipt in duplicate, describing the lands applied for, and he shall, at the same time, enter in his abstract of applications the name of the person so applying, description of land, number and date of receipt, and amount paid thereon. Upon return of the application with the treasurer's receipt to the land office, the register shall file the same, and take prompt measures at the United States land office of the district in which such lands are situated to select for the state the lands described in such application. The state land register shall, at the same time, notify the applicant of such cancelation, and that the amount deposited thereon is subject to withdrawal, as provided by law, and no subsequent application for lands embraced in such canceled application shall be certified by the state land register until due official notice shall have been received from the intending applicant that the lands in question are subject to selection. Whenever purchase can be completed, in whole or in part, upon lands applied for, as in this section provided, the land register shall certify the same to the controller and treasurer each, and shall at once proceed to complete such sale. Should the controller, upon receipt of such certificate, find that any payment had been wrongfully apportioned, he shall issue his order directing the treasurer to transfer such amount to its proper fund. If, by reason of the nonapproval of the lands to the state, or other cause, the contemplated sale cannot be completed, in whole or in part, then, upon the demand of the applicant, or his or her legal agent or assignee, the land register shall certify to the controller and treasurer each that such applicant is entitled to the amount paid by him or her, and the controller shall draw his warrant upon the proper fund for the amount due such applicant, and the same shall be paid by the treasurer. As amended, Stats. 1917, 416.

Board must make annual report.

SEC. 10. The board shall make and publish an annual report with a full statement of its operations and the results of its investigations and experience resulting from operations under this act, together with recommendations for legislation, and shall furnish a copy of its report to the secretary of the interior.

General authority and powers granted—May appropriate public waters—May cause same to be withdrawn from appropriation—Right of eminent domain may be exercised—Procedure for determining value of unperfected permits.

SEC. 11. The board is hereby authorized to adopt a seal and to perform such further acts, not specifically mentioned herein, as may be necessary or proper to accomplish the purposes of this act and said board is empowered to adopt and enforce such rules and regulations governing the performance of its duties and the administration of the provisions of this act as may be necessary or proper and such rules and regulations where not inconsistent with the provisions of law shall have the force and effect of law.

For the purpose of effectuating the objects of this act the said board shall have the power to appropriate, in its name and in the manner provided by law for the appropriation of water by others, any of the unappropriated waters of this state. Said board is further empowered in the interest of public welfare to withdraw from appropriation by others, including appropriation for power purposes, and to reserve for appropriation by itself in behalf of the State of Nevada, the unappropriated waters of any surface or underground stream, lake, spring or other source of water supply. Such withdrawal and reservation shall be made in the following manner: When the board has considered and has in contemplation any reclamation project which in the judgment of the board will require the use of the unappropriated waters of any such source of water supply, the board may cause to be entered on its minutes an order reciting such facts and directing its proper officers to take the necessary action to withdraw from appropriation by others and reserve for appropriation by the board, the unappropriated waters of said source of water supply. Thereupon the proper officers of said board shall file in the office of the state engineer the proclamation of the said board signed by its proper officers and bearing an impression of its seal, reciting the said order of the board and proclaiming such withdrawal and reservation of the unappropriated waters of said source of water supply. After the filing of such proclamation in the office of the state engineer, and while such proclamation remains effectual, all applications for the use of water from such source of supply not previously approved by the state engineer, except such as may be made by the board for the purposes of such reclamation project, or made by others with the written consent of the board, shall be deemed detrimental to the public welfare and the public interests and shall be rejected by the state engineer. No such proclamation shall remain effectual for a longer period than three years from the date of filing, nor shall it be renewed for one year after the expiration thereof; provided, that the board, as soon after filing such proclamation as its other plans and its facilities and finances will admit, shall investigate the project for which said proclamation was filed, and if it determines to abandon the same shall immediately cause to be executed by its proper officers and over its seal and to be filed with the state engineer a withdrawal of such proclamation and thereupon the withdrawal and reservation of the right to appropriate such waters shall cease to be effectual.

The use of water for reclamation and settlement projects under this act, whether for power, irrigation or other purposes, is hereby declared to be a more necessary public use than the use of water for any other project or purpose, and whenever any water the right to the use of which is now vested in any person or for which any person now holds a permit from the state engineer, may be needed for the purposes of this act, the said reclamation and settlement board may acquire the right to the use of such water by purchase or the exercise of the right of eminent domain in accordance with the provisions of law concerning the exercise of such right. If it shall appear in any action brought by said board to condemn the rights of any person under an unperfected permit issued by the state engineer, that the water covered by said permit has not been actually applied to a beneficial use, or a reasonable sum expended in contemplation of such purpose, then on the question of the value of the rights under said permit the burden shall be on the permittee to prove, if he so claims, that he intends to apply said water to a beneficial use, that said permit is not held merely for the purpose of sale or speculation, that the permittee has the financial ability and means to construct the proposed works or has made an actual contract to sell his rights under such permit to a vendee who has the financial ability and the bona-fide intent to complete said contract and construct said works. In all cases the possibility of making or procuring an advantageous sale of the rights of such permittee is hereby declared to be too remote to be considered as an element in determining the value of such rights.

The said board after acquiring the right to use any water in connection with any project may, in the course of the development or administration thereof or after its completion, assign and transfer such right or any part thereof to any applicant complying with the rules of the board or otherwise satisfying it that the water will be put to a beneficial use.

Disbursements from the reclamation and settlement fund, how made—Administration and investigational expenditures limited.

SEC. 12. Disbursements from the reclamation and settlement fund shall be on certificates of its chairman or acting chairman and secretary, approved by the state board of examiners, when the state controller shall draw his warrant and the state treasurer pay the same; provided, that all such claims shall have first been duly authorized and approved by the board at a regular or special session; and provided further, that not exceeding ten per cent (10%) of the amount appropriated in any one year shall be available for administration expenses, inclusive of investigational work in determining the practicability of projects; and provided further, such amounts so expended to be charged up to the respective projects as expense of development. No funds shall be disbursed except in cooperation with the United States as herein provided.

Providing for a state loan and for the payment of the interest and principal thereof.

SEC. 13. For the purpose of providing the funds appropriated in section three of this act the sum of one million dollars is hereby authorized to be borrowed, or so much thereof as may be necessary, of which sum not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand dollars shall be borrowed the first year, not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars total shall be borrowed during the first two years, not exceeding seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars total shall be borrowed during the first three years and not exceeding one million dollars total shall be borrowed during the first four years from and after the date of passage of this act, less any moneys in the general fund transferred to the state reclamation and settlement fund as provided in section three. Said loan shall bear interest at the rate of not to exceed five per cent per annum payable semiannually on the first days of January and July of each year and the principal shall be payable at any time within twenty years from the date of passage of this act, and for the regular and prompt payment of said interest and principal the faith and credit of the state is hereby pledged. The provisions of this act in respect to the issuance of bonds shall be executed under the direction of a commission consisting of the governor, state controller and state treasurer. On certification by the reclamation and settlement board that the whole or any part of the appropriation provided for in section three of this act is required, accompanied by a statement of the estimated amount and purposes of the proposed expenditures, and if the same be within the provisions of this act, said commission shall provide immediately for a state loan in the amount so required, less any part thereof which may be transferred from the general fund, and shall deposit the proceeds of such loan into the reclamation and settlement fund.

Providing for the issuance of bonds and levying a tax for bond interest and redemption—Creating the reclamation loan interest and redemption fund—Authorizing transfer of excess moneys therefrom to the general fund.

SEC. 14. Said commission shall cause to be prepared the bonds used in pursuance of this act, and each bond shall state in substance that the State of Nevada will pay to the holder thereof the amount of the bond within twenty years from the date of the passage of this act with interest at the rate of not to exceed five per cent per annum. Said bonds shall be of the denominations as the commission may prescribe, shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, shall be numbered in sequence, each bond bearing a different number, and when retired shall be retired in such sequence. Said bonds shall be signed by the governor, endorsed by the state treasurer, countersigned by the state controller and authenticated by the great seal of the state. Beginning January 1, 1924, one-fortieth ($\frac{1}{40}$) of the total amount of said bonds issued shall be retired and each year thereafter the amount of bonds retired shall be increased by five thousand dollars over the amount of bonds retired the year previous, for sixteen years, or until the total issue of bonds shall have been retired. There shall be levied and collected for the fiscal year commencing January 1, 1919, an ad valorem tax of one-half of one cent, for the fiscal year 1920 an ad valorem tax of one cent, for the fiscal year 1921 an ad valorem tax of one and one-half cents, for the fiscal year 1922 an ad valorem tax of two cents and for the fiscal year 1923, and annually thereafter, an ad valorem tax of three and one-half cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in the state, including the net proceeds of mines, and all moneys derived from said taxes shall be covered into the reclamation loan interest and redemption fund in the state treasury, hereby created for such purpose, and are hereby specifically appropriated for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of the bonds authorized by this act; provided, that any accumulation of moneys in such fund in excess of the full amount required to satisfy the interest and redemption of said bonds as the same currently become due and payable, on order of the commission may be transferred by the state controller to the general fund. It shall be the duty of the state controller to draw his warrant for the payment of the interest on said bonds and for their redemption at maturity as herein provided, and the state treasurer shall pay the same, and when so retired said bonds shall be canceled and made void by said commission.

SEC. 2. School boards are authorized under the same conditions as named in section one of this act to pay a part or all of the transportation expenses of any teacher or teachers attending any state teachers' institute; provided, that such attending covers the entire session of such institute.

Construction of act.

SEC. 3. The provisions of this act are to be construed as supplementing any other legal provisions now in force in reference to teachers' institutes and as not in conflict with them.

3247. Deputy superintendents, how appointed—Qualifications.

SEC. 9. The state board of education shall, on or before the first Monday in May, 1911, and each fourth year thereafter, appoint one deputy superintendent of public instruction for each supervision district as herein provided for, and such appointee shall, at the time of his appointment and during his term of office, be a bona-fide resident of the district for which he is appointed. Such appointee shall take office on the first Monday in September and shall serve for a period of four years or until his successor shall have been appointed and shall have qualified. In case a vacancy shall occur in the office of deputy superintendent of public instruction, the state board of education shall, in like manner, make an appointment for the unexpired term. The deputy superintendents of public instruction shall devote their entire time to school supervision and shall not engage in any other work while holding this office. As amended, Stats. 1915, 510.

3251. Salaries and expenses of deputy superintendents.

SEC. 13. The compensation of each deputy superintendent of public instruction is hereby fixed at two thousand four hundred dollars per annum, and shall be paid out of the general fund of the state as the salaries of other state officers are paid. All claims for the traveling expenses, including the cost of transportation and cost of living, of each deputy superintendent of public instruction while absent from their places of residence, in the performance of their duties as district deputy superintendents of education, together with necessary office expenses, shall be paid from the general fund of the state, whenever such claims shall be allowed by the state board of examiners; provided, that not more than nine hundred dollars shall be paid from the general fund of the state in settlement of claims for such traveling expenses of any deputy superintendent of public instruction during any one year, and not more than five hundred dollars shall be paid from the general fund of the state in settlement of claims for such office expenses of any deputy superintendent of public instruction for any one year. As amended, Stats. 1919, 159.

3251. Sections 66-70 of the general appropriation act of 1913, making provisions "for actual traveling expenses" for each of the five deputy superintendents of public instruction for the years 1913 and 1914, should be read in connection with this section. The fact that the word "actual" was used in the general appropriation act of 1913, in contradistinction to the provisions of previous general appropriation acts, will not be deemed sufficient to manifest an intent upon the part of the legislature to limit the purpose of such appropriation while the amount appropriated is the same as made in previous appropriation bills, and as recommended to the legislature by the state controller as required by law. State ex rel. Abel v. Eggers, 36 Nev. 373, 375 (136 P. 100).

Under this section and Stats. 1915, 234, sec. 28, it was held that a deputy superintendent of public instruction could not recover under this section for traveling expenses incurred during the year 1916; such act being superseded by the appropriation of the act of 1915. McCracken v. State, 41 Nev. 49, 54, 56-67 (167 P. 1001).

It was also held that this section was sufficient to make appropriation for claims arising under it, and that, as the legislature made no appropriation in 1917, a deputy superintendent of public instruction could recover under this section for expenses for the year 1917. Id.

Board, how constituted.

SEC. 6. The state board of education shall constitute the public-school teachers' retirement salary fund board. The president and secretary of the state board of education shall be the president and secretary, respectively, of said public-school teachers' retirement salary fund board.

He shall report the amount required to make such payments to the public-school teachers' retirement salary fund board, and thereupon said board shall notify the state controller and by resolution, duly adopted, shall direct him to make transfer of the needed amount from the public-school teachers' permanent fund to the public-school teachers' retirement salary fund. Upon retirement, voluntary or involuntary, such teacher shall be entitled to receive during the period of such disability, an annual retirement salary, payable in installments quarterly, which shall be the same fraction of the maximum retirement salary of six hundred dollars as said teacher's time of service is of thirty years; provided, that application for such retirement salary shall be made within two years of the last month of service or within two years after the approval of this act. As amended, Stats. 1919, 153.

Binding upon new teachers.

SEC. 16. This act shall be binding upon all teachers elected or appointed to teach in the public schools of this state after the approval of this act, who, not being in the service of the public schools at the time of the approval of said act, were not competent to sign or deliver the notification specified in section fifteen.

Retirement salary shall cease, when.

SEC. 17. If any teacher retired under the provisions of this act shall be reemployed in the public schools of this state, such teacher's retirement salary shall cease; and if any teacher having qualified under section thirteen hereof returns to service in the public schools of the state and thereafter qualifies under section twelve hereof, there shall be deducted from the retirement salary payable to such teacher under the provisions of section twelve hereof the amount of retirement salary theretofore actually received by such teacher under the provisions of section thirteen hereof, such amount to be so deducted in equal quarterly installments until the whole amount so received under said section thirteen shall have been deducted; provided, however, that the amount of such deduction to be made quarterly shall not exceed thirty-five dollars.

Only one salary may be drawn.

SEC. 18. No one shall be permitted to draw from the state, directly or indirectly, more than one retirement salary. Nothing in this act shall be so construed, however, as to prevent local communities or bodies of teachers from supplementing the retirement salary received from the state.

3303. Meetings of trustees—Salary of clerk.

SEC. 65. It shall be the duty of the board of trustees, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, to meet on the first Monday in May following their election, or as soon as practicable thereafter, after taking the oath of office, at such place as may be most convenient in the district, and to organize by electing one of their number president of the board and another as clerk. It shall be the duty of the president to preside at the meetings of the board. It shall be the duty of the clerk to record the proceedings of the board in a book to be provided for the purpose, and all such proceedings when so recorded shall be signed by such clerk. Said book shall at all times be subject to the inspection of the deputy superintendent of public instruction and of any taxpayer in the district. In districts having a school-census population of three hundred or more and not exceeding one thousand, the clerk of the board of trustees may receive such salary as said board may allow; provided, that such salary shall not exceed twenty-five dollars per month; provided, that in districts having a school-census population of one thousand or more, the clerk of the board of trustees shall receive a salary not to exceed fifty dollars per month. As amended, Stats. 1917, 183.

3309. Under this section, it was held that, where plaintiff, a school trustee, had no pecuniary interest or understanding with defendant at the time defendant's bid for the construction of a schoolhouse was accepted by the board, the fact that plaintiff was a trustee did not deprive him of the right to lawfully contract thereafter to furnish defendant materials to be used in the performance of his contract, nor afford defendant a defense to an action for the price. Worrell v. Jurden, 36 Nev. 85, 89 (132 P. 1158).

Where defendant, after obtaining a contract to build a schoolhouse, obtained labor and materials from plaintiff, who was one of the trustees, defendant could not successfully claim that the contract was valid as between himself and the school district, and invalid as between himself and the trustee. Id.

Trustees must advertise, when, how.

SECTION 1. Whenever the trustees of any school district shall decide to erect any new school building that is to cost more than five hundred dollars or to repair or add to any old school building, which repair or addition is to cost more than five hundred dollars, or to purchase school furniture that is to cost more than five hundred dollars, they shall advertise for bids for the contract to erect the said new building, or to make the repairs or addition. The boards of county commissioners may create new districts from a portion or portions of one or more established districts upon the presentation of a similar petition signed by not less than three-fifths of the heads of families and taxpayers of the districts from which the proposed new district is to be taken. They may make changes in the boundaries of districts upon petition of three-fifths of the heads of families and taxpayers of the district or districts to be affected by the change, or they may make changes in said boundaries so as to place one or more families having school children, residing in a school district much nearer the schoolhouse of an adjoining district than that of their own, in the district most convenient for them to attend; provided, that this may be done only on written petition of the family or families desiring such change and that said petition shall be accompanied by the recommendation of the deputy or district superintendent; and provided further, that before decisive action in the premises by the board of county commissioners, due notice shall be given to the two school districts to be affected by the proposed change, that parents and others who may be opposed thereto can appear before the board of county commissioners at the next regular meeting thereof, or at a later designated date, to show cause why the aforesaid petition should not be granted.

When a new school district is organized, school shall be commenced therein within one hundred twenty days from the date of action of the board of county commissioners creating such district, and if school shall not be commenced within such time within said district then such action shall become void and no such district shall exist.

No district organized under this act shall exceed in size sixteen miles square. As amended, Stats. 1917, 389.

3323. What boards govern—More than one school, when.

SEC. 84. The school thus established shall be under the immediate control of the board of school trustees in whose district the school is held and shall be maintained according to the terms of agreement made between the two boards concerned in the union school; provided, that school may be maintained at more than one point in the union district thus formed, if found necessary or advisable; and provided further, that the classes and grades in the two districts shall be arranged with reference to the convenience of the children and the efficient and economical management of the school. In case of a disagreement of the two boards as to the 3324. Pro rata vouchers.

SEC. 85. Vouchers shall be made out on the separate district funds for the pro rata of monthly expenses, as agreed upon by the two boards in forming the union school, and these vouchers shall be signed by the president and the clerk of the school board in the district on whose funds the vouchers are drawn. As amended, Stats. 1919, 147.

3325. Districts, how dissolved.

SEC. 86. The union school or district, herein provided for, may be dissolved in June of any year by mutual consent or action of the boards of school trustees in the districts interested, or by the unanimous action of the school board of either district; provided, that no indebtedness incurred in maintaining the union school exists; and provided further, that in case of dissolution by action of only one of the two districts as herein prescribed, at least thirty days notice of intention to dissolve shall have been given to the other board. As amended, Stats. 1919, 147.

3336. District abolished, when.

SEC. 97. Upon notice from the deputy superintendent of public instruction that a district has fewer than three resident children in actual school attendance, the board of county commissioners shall abolish such district; provided, however, that where there are at least two resident children in actual attendance, and there is sufficient funds to the credit of the district or in its treasury to meet the actual expense attendant on the continuation of the school, the district shall be continued and the school maintained so long as such funds so exist. As amended, Stats. 1917, 391.

An Act to provide for the consolidation of two one-teacher rural school districts adjoining each other, but situated one in each of two adjoining counties.

Approved March 14, 1917, 173

SECTION 1. The boards of county commissioners of any two adjoining counties in which there are two one-teacher rural school districts adjoining each other, but situated one in each of said adjoining counties, in which the total number of school-census children does not exceed forty, may by separate action unite the two and form a consolidated school district, on the recommendation of the state superintendent of public instruction, and without formal petition of the residents of said districts; provided, that the state superintendent before making such recommendation shall have been thereto requested by the parents representing a majority of the school-census children in the two districts, and shall have satisfied himself that the educational needs of the two districts would thereby be more efficiently promoted.

Approved February 26, 1915, 27

What districts may consolidate.

SECTION 1. Any two or more adjacent school districts may unite for the purpose of establishing a single consolidated district.

Method of consolidation—Notice—Procedure.

SEC. 2. The process of uniting two or more school districts into a consolidated district shall be as follows: Upon receipt of a petition signed by a majority of the voters who are entitled to a vote at school elections, from each of the districts to be affected by the consolidation, the county commissioners of the county in which such districts are located shall cause a notice to be published for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper having general circulation throughout the county, which notice shall state fully the names of the districts proposing to consolidate, the boundaries of the proposed consolidated district, and shall set forth a day and hour at the next regular meeting of the board of county commissioners when the said board will canvass the signatures on each petition and hear statements that any of the residents of any of the districts to be affected by the consolidation may wish to make either for or against the proposition of consolidation. At the time set forth in the notice the county commissioners shall proceed to canvass the signatures on each petition, and if a majority of said board are satisfied that the petitions presented represent the will of a majority of the voters of each of the districts affected, they shall unite such districts into a single consolidated district, shall designate the said district as Consolidated School District No....., and shall designate a place at which the school trustees of the several districts united shall meet to hold an election. The number of census children thus found shall constitute the basis upon which such consolidated district shall receive its share of sixty per cent of the county school fund, and thirty per cent of the state school fund at all apportionments of state and county school moneys until the next regular school census is taken. Thereafter at each apportionment such consolidated district shall receive its share of sixty per cent of the county school fund, and thirty per cent of the state school fund upon the basis of the actual number of census children in such district as shown by the last preceding school census.

He shall determine the number of teachers that shall constitute the basis for apportioning state and county school moneys to any consolidated district by adding together the teachers thus found in the several districts that united to form the consolidation district; provided, that if at any future time the number of children in the consolidated district shall become such as to allow a larger number of teachers for apportionment purposes, according to the law governing such matters in other school districts of the state, the superintendent of public instruction shall apportion state and county school moneys to such consolidated district upon the actual number of teachers as determined by the general law of apportionment of state and county school moneys.

(b) Whenever any county has levied 40 cents on the $100 of the assessed valuation of the county for the combined elementary- and high-school purposes in a county having no county high school, if such levy does not bring in an amount of money equal to that required by law of such county for county school purposes, exclusive of school bonds and interest thereon, the superintendent of public instruction must apportion to such county from the state school reserve fund a sum of money such that taken with the amount raised by the levy of 40 cents on the $100 assessed valuation by the county shall be sufficient to make the sum required by law of such county for county school purposes, exclusive of school bonds and interest thereon.

4. (a) In addition to the apportionments already provided for in this act the superintendent of public instruction shall apportion from the state school reserve fund to any county which shall have levied a county high-school tax, when this county high-school tax rate taken with the rate required of the county for elementary schools (any relief rate having been deducted) makes a rate in excess of 40 cents on the $100 assessed valuation of such county, a special high-school relief apportionment, equal in amount to that raised by the county by such tax in excess of 40 cents on the $100 assessed valuation in the county, as specified above, for the county high-school fund. But in no case shall he apportion from the state school reserve fund at any semiannual apportionment an amount in excess of $12.50 per pupil as determined by the average monthly enrollment in such county high school for the preceding school year.

(b) The superintendent of public instruction shall apportion to any district in the state, which after receiving the regular state and county apportionment provided for above shall lack the necessary funds to maintain its school property, a special district relief apportionment from the state school reserve fund whenever such district shall have levied (and there shall have been collected the first half of) a special district tax of not less than 15 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation of said district.

If the county in which such district is located has levied a total tax for county school purposes, exclusive of school bonds and interest thereon, amounting to 40 cents on the $100 assessed valuation of such county, the state shall provide from said state school relief fund a sum of money equal to not more than $5 per census pupil for such relief apportionment to the district; provided, that no district shall receive less than $50 relief apportionment under the provisions of this act. In case the county levy for school purposes in the county in which said district is located is less than 40 cents on the $100 assessed valuation for county school purposes, exclusive of school bonds and the interest thereon, the county shall provide from its county general fund such special relief apportionment to be made by the superintendent of public instruction.

(c) Subdivision 4(b) shall not apply to any district having more than 290 census children.

5. The provisions of this section for the semiannual apportionments in the calendar years 1918 and 1919 shall be carried out in the following manner:

(a) The amount apportioned for each teacher in this section under subdivision 2(a) shall be $137.50 instead of $150.

(b) The amount apportioned to each child in this section under subdivision 2(b) shall be $2 instead of $2.50. As amended, Stats. 1917, 234; 1919, 154.

3391. Apportionment of county school funds.

SEC. 152. 1. The superintendent of public instruction shall immediately after he has apportioned the state distributive school fund, as provided in this act, proceed to apportion the combined state distributive school fund and the county school fund belonging to each county among its several school districts as follows:

(a) To each district in the several counties $375 for each teacher to which the district is entitled as provided in section 151, paragraph 1.

(b) He must further apportion on a per capita basis to each district $5.50 for every child between the ages of six and eighteen years, in the school district as shown by the last preceding school census.

(c) He shall apportion the balance remaining in the combined state distributive school fund and county school fund, on a per capita basis in proportion to the number of school-census children in the county, as shown by the last preceding school census.

(d) He shall apportion the amounts of money due any joint school district formed of parts of two or more counties, in such manner that the counties concerned and the state shall each contribute the regular amounts per census child, and the money due such district on census teacher shall be apportioned to each county in proportion to the number of school-census children residing in that part of said joint school district.

(e) The moneys appropriated to each school district under the provisions of this act together with any moneys raised by special district tax for school maintenance shall be known as the district school fund of such district, and may be used to purchase sites, build, or rent schoolhouses, to purchase libraries, to pay teachers or contingent expenses, or for transportation of pupils to and from school, as the school board of such school district may deem proper; and the county treasurers and the county auditors of the several counties of the state shall keep account of said moneys as a single fund for each school district within their respective counties.

2. It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county not later than the April meeting, 1917, so as to provide funds under this act for the school year 1917-1918, and annually thereafter at the time of levying their county taxes, to levy a county school tax sufficient to provide the moneys required for the apportionments to be made under this act. And the provisions of this act shall become effective for the first semiannual apportionment in the year 1918, at the time provided in sections 1 and 2 of this act.

3. Any money remaining in the state school reserve fund, and in any county school reserve fund on the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December of any year shall revert to the state distributive school fund and to the county school fund, respectively. As amended, Stats. 1915, 386; 1917, 236; 1919, 156.

3392. Duties of superintendent in distribution of funds.

SEC. 152½. On or before the 10th day of July of each school year the county auditor in each county shall report to the superintendent of public instruction the amount of moneys in the district school fund of each school district in his county.

The superintendent of public instruction shall, upon receipt of such report, deduct from the total amount of money to the credit of each of the school districts, all amounts over and above two hundred fifty dollars for each teacher assigned to said district on the basis of one teacher for every thirty census children or fraction thereof as shown by the last preceding school census. The amounts deducted as provided in this section shall be placed to the credit of the unapportioned county school fund of the county.

The superintendent of public instruction shall, at the time of making the deductions in accordance with this act, notify each county auditor and county treasurer of his actions, and the county auditor and county treasurer shall make such entries in their accounts as will show that such deductions have been made; provided, that this section shall not apply so as to remove from the funds of any school district any moneys derived from any source other than by apportionments from the state fund or the county fund.

If the trustees of any school district shall certify to the superintendent of public instruction that a new building, or repairs on an old school building, are necessary to the district, and that the trustees have been authorized by vote of the district, if a vote is required, to build such new school building, or to make such needed repairs, or that the balance in the funds of the district is necessary for the maintenance of school in the district, and that the trustees have estimated that the cost of such new school building, needed repairs, or school maintenance is to be dollars, the superintendent of public instruction shall make whatever investigation he may deem best, and if he shall become satisfied that such new building or repairs are necessary in the district, or that the balance of the funds in the district is necessary for the maintenance of school in the district, and that the amount estimated to be spent for such new building, repairs, or maintenance of school is a reasonable amount to be set aside for the purpose mentioned, he shall not make the deductions as provided in this section, but he shall make such deductions as will leave the funds in the district an amount equal to the estimated amount to be spent for such new building, repairs, or maintenance of school, together with two hundred and fifty dollars for each teacher assigned to that district upon the basis of one teacher for every thirty census children or fraction thereof as shown by the last preceding school census. As amended, 1919, 157.

An Act to provide for bonding counties for building and equipping county high schools and dormitories or for either one of these purposes, and other matters properly connected therewith.

Approved February 16, 1917, 17

Question of bonds submitted to voters, when—Special election, when.

SECTION 1. Whenever the county board of education in any county having a county high school shall certify to the board of county commissioners of such county that a new county high-school building or dormitory, or both of these, are needed, or that it is necessary to enlarge one or more of the buildings in use, or to acquire a new building site or additional land for necessary school purposes, or to purchase or acquire other necessary high-school equipment, and that the cost of the same is such that a bond issue for the purpose is advisable, and shall furnish the board of county commissioners with a definite statement of the amount of money needed therefor, said board of county commissioners is hereby authorized and directed to submit the question of bonding the county for the amount and purposes named to the voters of the county at the next general election; or said board may, in its discretion, order a special election if so requested by the county board of education.

Notice of election.

SEC. 2. The board of county commissioners may make an order for the bond election provided for in this act at any regular meeting or at a special meeting held not less than eight weeks before any general or special election, which election shall be noticed, held and conducted, and returns thereof made as and in the manner now provided by law for holding elections in the several counties of the state.

The election notice must contain:

First—The time and places of holding such election.

Second—The hours during the day in which the polls will be opened, which hours shall be the same as at general elections.

Third—The amount of the bonds, the rate of interest, not exceeding six per centum, and the number of years, not exceeding twenty, the bonds are to run.

Fourth—In what town or city the proposed new buildings or enlargements are to be erected or where a new building site or additional land is to be acquired, or where the proposed equipment is to be placed and used.

Fifth—The purpose or purposes for which the money realized from the sale of the bonds is to be used.

Sixth—Such other facts as may be necessary to fully inform the voters of the nature and purposes of the proposed bond issue.

There shall be placed upon one line of the printed ballots for such election the words "For the bonds," and immediately below upon another line on the ballot, the words "Against the bonds."

The method of indicating choice thereof shall be the usual method prescribed in this state.

Bond issue decided by election.

SEC. 3. If upon the official determination of the result of such election it shall appear that a majority of all the votes cast are "For the bonds," the board of county commissioners, as soon as practicable thereafter, shall issue the negotiable coupon bonds of the county in such form and denomination as the county board of education may direct, but not in conflict with the election notice thereof, said bonds to run for a period not to exceed twenty (20) years from the date of issue and to bear interest at a rate not exceeding six (6) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, both principal and interest payable at such place as the board of county commissioners may direct. Before any of the bonds provided for in this act are sold, notice of the proposed sale must be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county for at least three weeks, inviting sealed bids to be made for said bonds, and the bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidder, but in no event shall be sold for less than their par value.

Particulars regarding bonds.

SEC. 4. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be signed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, attested by its clerk, sealed with the seal of the county, and countersigned by the county treasurer; and each of the interest coupons attached to said bond shall be signed by the original or engraved facsimile signature of said chairman, clerk and treasurer.

Bonds to be registered.

SEC. 5. Before any county shall sell any bonds under the provisions of this act, all such bonds shall be delivered to the treasurer of the county to be duly registered by him in a book kept for that purpose in his office, which shall show the amount, the place and time of payment, and the rate of interest; and all such bonds shall bear the certificate of the county treasurer to the effect that they are issued and registered under the provisions of this act. After such registry the bonds shall be advertised for sale and sold by the county board of education for the purpose of raising funds for the objects designated in this act. All moneys derived from the sale of such bonds shall be paid to the county treasurer, and the said treasurer is hereby required to receive and safely keep the same in a fund hereby created and known as the "County High-School Building Fund," and to pay out said moneys in the manner now provided by law for payments from the "County High-School Fund" and for the purposes provided for in this act. The county board of education is hereby authorized and directed to use the money derived from the sale of said bonds, or such portion thereof as they may deem necessary, for the construction or enlargement of the high-school building or dormitory, or both, as the case may be, and for the purchase of property for a building site, agricultural gardens and other necessary school purposes; and any balance remaining in such fund after the accomplishment of the said purpose or purposes for which said bonds are issued shall be converted into and become a part of the "County High-School Fund." Said county board of education shall determine as to the character and location, within the town or city as advertised, of said building or improvements and the materials and plans to be used therefor; or of the building site, additional land or high-school equipment; said board shall advertise for bids for the construction thereof and let the construction thereof by contract to the lowest responsible bidder, said board to have authority to reject any and all bids and to readvertise until a satisfactory bid is obtained. Should the holder of any bond or bonds issued under this act, for any cause whatever, fail to present the same to the county treasurer for payment when due, all interest thereon shall thereupon immediately cease.

Special county tax.

SEC. 6. Whenever a county shall issue and sell any bonds under the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners to annually levy and assess a special tax on all the taxable property of such county, including the net proceeds of mines, in an amount sufficient to pay the interest accruing thereon promptly when and as same becomes due, according to the tenor and effect of said bonds, and the county treasurer shall collect the same as other taxes are collected, in cash only, keeping the same separate from other funds received by him, and shall cause said interest to always be promptly paid at the place of payment specified in the bonds; if there be any surplus after paying said interest, the treasurer shall without delay pass the same to the credit of the county high-school fund, and such money so passed to the credit of said fund, shall be subject to the disposal of the county board of education; and annually thereafter, provided the board of county commissioners so determine, until the full payment of such bonds has been made, the board of county commissioners shall levy and assess a special tax, and shall cause such special tax to be collected on all the taxable property of the county, including the net proceeds of mines, sufficient to raise annually a proportion of the principal of said bonds equal to a sum produced by taking the whole amount of said bonds outstanding and dividing it by the number of years said bonds then have to run, which amount shall be levied and assessed as aforesaid, and shall be collected by the county treasurer in the same manner as the tax for the payment of the interest coupons, and when collected shall be known as the "County High-School Bond Sinking Fund" and shall be used only for the payment of said bonds which said county treasurer shall cause to be paid at the place of payment specified in such bonds. The sinking fund thus created may be applied to the purchase and cancelation of the outstanding bonds provided for in this act before the same become due. At the maturity of such bonds the county treasurer shall call in and pay them with the interest accrued thereon, and shall duly cancel each bond and certify his action to the board of county commissioners and county board of education. In the event the funds to pay interest are not collected in time to permit the payment of the interest on said bonds when the same shall become due, the county treasurer shall pay the amount due out of the general county fund and then reimburse said fund for the amount so borrowed from it when said interest funds are collected.

Maximum bonding limits.

SEC. 7. The maximum bonding limit of counties for county high-school purposes under the provisions of this act shall be as follows:

1. For counties having a total assessed valuation of two million five hundred thousand ($2,500,000) dollars or less, two and one-half per cent of such valuation.

2. For counties having an assessed valuation of over two million five hundred thousand ($2,500,000) and less than five million ($5,000,000) dollars of assessed valuation, two per cent of such valuation.

3. For counties having an assessed valuation of five million ($5,000,000) dollars and less than ten million ($10,000,000) dollars of assessed valuation, one and one-half per cent of such valuation.

4. For counties having ten million ($10,000,000) dollars or over of assessed valuation, one per cent of such valuation.

Change in lines of county not to affect bonds.

SEC. 8. No change in the boundary lines of any county shall release the taxable real property of the county from assessment and levy of the taxes to pay the interest and principal of such bonds, and if there shall be any change in the boundary of such county so as to leave out any portion of the taxable real property of the county which was subject to taxation in the county at the time of the issue of such bonds, the assessment and levy of taxes for the payment of the principal and interest of such bonds shall be made on such property as if it were still within the county, and shall be collected in like manner, and if there shall be any change of the boundary lines of such county so as to annex or include any taxable or real property, after the issue of such bonds, the real property so included or annexed shall thereafter be subject to the assessment and levy of a tax for the payment of the principal and interest of such bonds.

Taxes a lien on property.

SEC. 9. All taxes levied and assessed as in this act provided shall constitute a lien on the property charged therewith, from the date of the levy thereof by the county commissioners, or the entry thereof on the assessment roll of the county auditor, until the same are paid, and thereafter, if allowed to become delinquent, shall be enforced in the same manner as is now provided by law for the collection of state and county taxes. And no additional allowance, fee, or compensation whatever shall be paid to any officer for carrying out the provisions of this act.

Bonds declared valid.

SEC. 10. All bonds authorized or issued under the provisions of law existing prior to the passage of this act are hereby declared to be valid and the county board of education is hereby authorized to use the proceeds derived from the sale thereof for any or all of the purposes hereinbefore mentioned.

An Act to provide for the establishment of branch county high schools under certain conditions, in counties having a county high school, and other matters properly connected therewith.

Approved March 17, 1915, 188

Branch county high schools authorized.

SECTION 1. The board of county commissioners of any county in the state having a county high school or schools may establish a branch county high school, and it shall be the duty of the county commissioners to do so whenever the county board of education of such county shall certify that the conditions named in section 2 of this act exist and are complied with.

County aid, how secured—Petition, form of.

SEC. 2. Whenever a school district in a county having a county high school or county high schools is in need of and desires county aid for securing or maintaining full high-school instruction and privileges for its children; it may, through its board of trustees, petition the county commissioners to establish in the district a branch county high school. The petition shall set forth the following facts:

1. That said district has already in attendance in its high school twenty or more properly qualified high-school pupils and full high-school work is being done;

2. That the income of the district from county and state apportionments is insufficient for giving such pupils necessary high-school instruction, and that its assessed valuation is too small for it to raise the needed funds from special district taxation;

3. That the district is situated forty miles or more from the county high school, and the parents are unable to send their children to the county high school;

4. That the district is able to and will provide the necessary rooms or buildings for all the high-school work;

5. That the district asks for the establishment therein of a branch county high school under the management and the control of the county board of education.

Under control of county board of education.

SEC. 3. Any branch county high school that may be established under the provisions of this act shall be under the full control and management of the county board of education, and it shall be governed in its powers and duties in reference to the said branch county high school by the provisions contained in the Revised Laws of Nevada, 1912, sections 3419, 3420, 3421, 3422, and 3423 (School Code, sections 179, 180, 181, 182, and 183).

Not in conflict with certain act.

SEC. 4. None of the provisions of this act shall in any wise impair or abrogate the provisions of "An act authorizing boards of county commissioners to transfer certain funds to the county school fund of school districts, or to levy a special county tax in certain cases, and other matters properly connected therewith," as found in the Statutes of Nevada, 1913, pages 166 and 167 (School Code, 1913, pages 73 and 74).

An Act to authorize county commissioners in counties not having high schools, to aid district high schools under certain conditions, and other matters properly connected therewith.

Approved March 9, 1915, 97

Where a board of county commissioners had complied with Rev. Laws, 3618, it was an ultimate act in pursuance of that section and Rev. Laws, 3762, 3763, relating to their duties "to levy annually," such statutes contemplating but one annual levy; consequently mandamus would not lie to compel a levy under this statute, the proper construction of this act being that the levy should be made at the time when the county levy is regularly made. State ex rel. Reno School District v. Washoe County Commissioners, 38 Nev. 269, 270 (149 P. 191).

High-school tax in such counties.

SECTION 1. In any county in which no county high school is located, the county commissioners at the time of making the annual levy for said county, if petitioned by the board of trustees of the district high school in any county having but only one duly organized high school, or the several boards of trustees of district high schools in counties having more than one such high school, shall levy a county tax for high-school purposes of not less than fifteen cents (15c), or such part thereof as is shown in said petitions to be necessary, on the hundred dollars ($100) of assessed valuation of the county, for the benefit of any district high school or schools that comply with the following conditions:

1. That the said high school or schools shall have standard courses in commercial work or manual arts or domestic arts, or standard courses in agriculture;

2. That the board of school trustees of the district or districts having high schools as described in paragraph 1 of these conditions shall each have levied a special district tax of not less than fifteen (15c) cents on the hundred ($100) dollars of the assessed valuation;

3. That the board of school trustees of each district interested shall have passed a resolution opening their high school to all properly qualified students of the county; if on approval of this act the tax levy for 1919 shall have been fixed by the board of county commissioners as required by law, the board of county commissioners of all counties affected by this act are hereby required to change said tax levy to the fifteen-cent (15c) tax herein provided for if petitioned by the board of school trustees or boards of school trustees so to do within ten days after the passage and approval of this act. As amended, Stats. 1919, 162.

Method of apportionment.

SEC. 2. In counties having more than one district high school affected by the provisions of this act, the amount raised by the county for high-school purposes, as provided in section 1 hereof, shall be apportioned by the state superintendent of public instruction at the time of each semi-annual apportionment of the state and county school moneys in January and July, on the following basis: Said amount shall be divided between the several district high schools in proportion to the number of high-school teachers employed during the school year last preceding that in which the apportionment is made, excepting as hereinafter provided. No school having an enrollment of less than fifty pupils shall receive an apportionment for more than one teacher for each ten pupils enrolled. No school having an enrollment of more than fifty pupils and less than one hundred pupils shall receive an apportionment on an excess of one teacher for each twelve pupils enrolled. No school having an enrollment of more than one hundred and less than one hundred and fifty pupils shall receive an apportionment on an excess of one teacher for each fifteen pupils enrolled. No school having an enrollment of more than one hundred and fifty shall receive an apportionment on an excess of one teacher for each eighteen pupils. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any school from employing as many teachers as may be deemed necessary by the board of trustees thereof. It is hereby provided that the money so apportioned shall be kept by the treasurer and auditor in separate funds for each high-school district and shall be used for high-school purposes and no other. As amended, Stats. 1919, 163.

Dormitory and dining-hall.

SEC. 3. The board of school trustees of any district availing itself of the benefits of this act is hereby empowered to provide for the rental, purchase, or erection of a suitable dormitory or dormitories and dining-hall for high-school students whose homes are outside of a district having a high school in said county, and to provide for the comfort, maintenance, and management of the same. The said dormitory or dormitories shall be considered part of the regular high-school equipment and organization.

3428. Graduation certificate.

SEC. 188. The certificate of graduation shall entitle the holder thereof to a county normal second-grade elementary certificate good for three years and entitling the holder to teach in the elementary schools of the state. As amended, Stats. 1913, 158.

SEC. 191. Any school district of the state, now existing or which may hereafter be created, is hereby authorized to borrow money for the purpose of erecting and furnishing a school building, or buildings, maintaining the same, purchasing grounds on which to erect such building or buildings, or for refunding floating or bonded indebtedness, whenever the board determine that it can be done to advantage of the district, or for any, all or either of these purposes, by issuing the negotiable coupon bonds of the district in the manner by this act approved. As amended, Stats. 1913, 297.

Under this section and Rev. 3624. Assessment—Franchises, how assessed—Penalty for neglect or refusal to make statement—District attorney to prosecute.

SEC. 8. Between the first day of January and the second Monday of July in each year, the county assessor, except when otherwise required by special enactment, shall ascertain, by diligent inquiry and examination, all property in his county, real and personal, subject to taxation, and also the names of all persons, corporations, associations, companies, or firms, owning the same; and he shall then determine the true cash value of all such property, and he shall then list and assess the same to the person, firm, corporation, association, or company owning it. In arriving at the value of all public utilities the intangible or franchise element shall be considered as an addition to the physical value and a portion of the true cash value. For the purpose of enabling the assessor to make such assessments, he shall demand from each person or firm, and from the president, cashier, treasurer, or managing agent of each corporation, association, or company, including all banking institutions, associations, or firms within his county, a statement, under oath or affirmation, of all the real estate and personal property within the county, owned or claimed by such persons, firm, corporation, association, or company. If any person, officer, or agent shall neglect or refuse, on demand of the assessor or his deputy to give, under oath or affirmation, the statement required by this section, or shall give a false name, or shall refuse to give his or her name, or shall refuse to swear or affirm, he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be arrested upon complaint of the assessor, or his deputy, and upon conviction before a justice of the peace of the county, he or she shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not less than ten days nor more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. If the owners of any property not listed by another person shall be absent or unknown, or fail to make the statement under oath or affirmation, as provided herein, within five days after demand is made therefor, the assessor shall make an estimate of the value of such property and assess the same accordingly. If the name of such absent owner is known to the assessor the property shall be assessed in his or her name; if unknown to the assessor the property shall be assessed to unknown owners. It is hereby made the duty of the assessor, at the end of each month, to report to the district or prosecuting attorney of the county the names of all persons neglecting or refusing to give the statement as required by this section of this act, and it is hereby made the duty of such district or prosecuting attorney to prosecute all persons so offending. As amended, Stats. 1913, 162; 1915, 178.

3623. Under this section and Rev. Laws, 4902, it was held that the term "assessment roll," as used in section 4902, means the whole roll for the assessment of taxes, including not only the assessment of real and personal property mentioned in Rev. Laws, 3633, but the assessment of the proceeds of mines mentioned in Rev. Laws, 3696, as well. Esmeralda County v. Mineral County, 37 Nev. 180-182 (141 P. 73).

This section does not control Rev. Laws, 3883, subsequently enacted, which provides that no patented or state contract land shall be assessed for less than $1.25 per acre. State ex rel. Central Pacific Railway Co. v. Nevada Tax Commission, 38 Nev. 112-115 (145 P. 905).

Rev. Laws, 3797, this section, and Rev. Laws, 3800, do not delegate legislative power to the assessors acting severally or collectively in determining whether property is subject to taxation, but the only discretion conferred on the board of assessors is to determine whether other kinds of property than those enumerated by statute can be valued and assessed more uniformly by the board than by the county assessors acting separately, and the tangible and intangible property of an express company may be assessed. State v. Wells Fargo & Co., 38 Nev. 506, 530, 536 (150 P. 836).

Under Cutting, 1215, similar to this, and Cutting, 1084, similar to this section, it was held that where defendant loaned money to bankrupts, receiving as security absolute deed to certain real and personal property, which was in fact a mortgage, the fact that security was made in the form of a deed to prevent the assessment and collection of taxes on the money loaned was collateral only, and did not so taint the security as to render it unenforceable as against the mortgagor's trustee in bankruptcy. Alter v. Clark, 193 F. 154, 158.

3632. Assessors to prepare list—Limit of cost.

SEC. 16. It shall be the duty of the assessor in each of the respective counties of the state, on or before the third Monday in July in each year, to prepare a printed list of all the taxpayers in the county and the total valuation of property on which they severally pay tax. A copy of said list shall be by the assessor delivered in person or mailed to each and every taxpayer in the county; provided, that the cost of printing the aforesaid list shall not exceed twenty cents for each name for as many copies as there are names on the list. The several boards of county commissioners in the state are authorized and empowered to allow the bill contracted by the assessor under this section and the several county auditors are authorized to draw their warrant in payment of the same. As amended, Stats. 1913, 165; 1915, 328.

See Esmeralda County v. Mineral County, 37 Nev. 180, under section 3623.

3638. Board of equalization—Meeting—Powers of board—Duty of clerk—Publication.

SEC. 23. The board of county commissioners of each county shall constitute a board of equalization, of which board the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall be the clerk. The board of equalization of each county shall meet on the fourth Monday of July in each year, and shall continue in session from time to time until the business of equalization presented to them is disposed of; provided, however, that they shall not sit after the second Monday in August. The board shall have power to determine the valuation of any property assessed, and may change and correct any valuation, either by adding thereto or deducting therefrom such sum as shall be necessary to make it conform to the actual cash value of the property assessed, whether said valuation was fixed by the owner or assessor; except that in case where the person complaining of the assessment has refused to give the assessor his list under oath, as required by this act, no reduction shall be made by the board in the assessment made by the assessor. If the board finds it necessary to add to the assessed valuation of any property on the assessment roll, they shall direct the clerk to give notice to the person so interested, by letter, deposited in the postoffice, or express, or otherwise, naming the day when they shall act in that case, and allowing a reasonable time to appear. As soon as possible after the adjournment of the board in August, its clerk shall make out a list of all persons who have not appeared before the board, the valuation of whose property has been added to on the assessment roll, and shall state the amount so added, and list of all property, the valuation on which has been added to on the assessment roll, with the amounts so added, the owners of which have not appeared before the board; and the board of county commissioners shall cause the same to be published in one newspaper in the county, if there be any, and if not, then by posting one copy of the same in a public place in each election precinct in the county, and any person, to the assessed value of whose property there was an amount added, not appearing before the board of equalization, may appear before the state board of equalization at its next regular session, and upon making an affidavit that he had no knowledge of such increased valuation of his property, he shall be given a hearing and the final judgment of the state board, and the secretary of the state board shall note all changes made and certify them to the county auditor, who shall make the changes required on the assessment roll. The recorder of the county shall be present and attend all meetings of the county board of equalization, with an abstract of all unsatisfied mortgages and liens shown in the records of his office, arranged in alphabetical order, for which service he shall receive no compensation, and the county board of equalization shall make use of said abstract, and all other information that it can procure from the recorder or his office, or otherwise, in equalizing the assessment roll of the county, and may require the assessor to enter upon such assessment roll any other property which has not been assessed; and the assessment and equalizations so made shall have the same force and effect as if made by the assessor before the delivery of the assessment roll by him to the clerk of the board of county commissioners. As amended, Stats. 1915, 329.

3644. Notice to taxpayers, how given—Taxes delinquent.

SEC. 32. Upon receiving the assessment roll from the auditor, the ex officio tax receiver shall proceed to receive taxes, and shall forthwith give notice, by publication in some newspaper published in his county, and if none be so published, then by posting notices in three public and conspicuous places in the county, that taxes will be delinquent on the first Monday in December, and if any person charged with taxes which are a lien on real estate, according to existing law, shall fail to pay one-half of said taxes prior thereto, then the entire tax shall become due, and a penalty of fifteen (15%) per cent will be added to the amount thereof; and the tax receiver shall forward by mail a post-card to each taxpayer, if the postoffice address of such taxpayer is known to him, notifying him of the amount due. As amended, Stats. 1919, 412.

3646. Taxes delinquent—Delinquent tax list—Notice to be given.

SEC. 34. On the first Monday in December the ex officio tax receiver, at the close of his official business on that day, shall enter upon the assessment roll a statement that he has made a levy upon all property therein assessed, the taxes upon which have not been paid, and shall mark the word "delinquent" on the assessment roll opposite the name of the person or description of the property liable for such taxes, and shall immediately ascertain the total amount of taxes then delinquent, and prepare a list which shall specify and give:

First—Roll number, page or reference;

Second—Name of owner, if known;

Third—Amount of taxes due, together with penalty; and shall file a copy of same, verified by oath of himself or deputy, in the office of the county auditor.

A penalty of three per cent per month shall be added and collected by the tax receiver on all such delinquent property from the date of delinquency until paid, or if still unpaid on the first Monday in June next succeeding, such penalty of three (3%) per cent per month shall be added to the original tax, together with the penalty of fifteen (15%) per cent hereinbefore provided, and the same shall become a lien on the property so assessed; and the tax receiver shall immediately prepare a delinquent list which shall include this property, together with any property that may become delinquent on account of the failure to pay the second installment of taxes. As amended, Stats. 1919, 413.

3651. Notice of sale—What to specify—Form of notice—Quantity sold.

SEC. 39. Immediately after the second Monday in June of each year, the county treasurer and ex officio tax receiver shall advertise the property upon which delinquent taxes are a lien for sale, in all cases where the delinquent tax, exclusive of poll-taxes and penalties, does not exceed the sum of three ($300) hundred dollars, such sale to be made at the front door of the county courthouse on the third Monday in July next succeeding. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper, if there be one in the county, at least once a week from the date thereof until the time of sale, and if there be no newspaper in the county such notice shall be posted by the auditor in at least five conspicuous places within the county; provided, that the cost of publication in each case shall be charged to the delinquent taxpayer and shall, in no case, be a charge against the state or county; and provided further, that such publication shall be made at not more than legal rates. Such notice shall be posted or published at least twenty-five days prior to date of sale, and shall specify and give:

First—The name of the owner, if known.

Second—The amount of taxes due from him, together with the penalty and costs.

Third—The description of the property on which such taxes are a lien and which will be sold for the payment thereof.

Fourth—And that ten (10%) per cent on such taxes and cost of advertising will be collected in addition to the original tax, or the property sold for all of said sums, specifying the time and place of said sale, and that such sale is subject to redemption within one year after the date of sale by payment of said sums with three (3%) per cent per month thereon from day of sale until paid; provided, that such redemption may be made in accordance with the provisions of the civil practice act of this state in regard to real property sold under execution, except as to percentage of redemption as in this section provided.

The bidding at tax sales under the provisions of this section shall be for the smallest quantity of property that will pay the taxes, penalty, and costs. As amended, Stats. 1917, 35; 1919, 413.

3652. Certificate—Treasurer may buy—Property may be redeemed.

SEC. 40. After receiving the amount of taxes, penalty and costs, the treasurer shall make out in duplicate a certificate, dated on the day of sale, stating (when known) the name of the person assessed, a description of the land sold, the amount paid therefor, that it was sold for taxes, giving the amount and year of the assessment, and specifying the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a deed, if the land is not sooner redeemed; provided, that if no one else shall bid upon any piece of land at such sale, the treasurer shall bid the same in for the benefit of the county and state, and file a certificate thereof with the county recorder; and the same shall be subject to redemption from the treasurer the same as from a private purchaser; and if not redeemed, the title thereto shall vest in the county for the benefit of the county and state, and may be disposed of as provided by law. Until the period of redemption as provided by law has expired, the property described in the certificate of sale shall be assessed to the person named in such certificate of sale, and before redemption by the owner thereof such certificate holder shall be reimbursed for any additional taxes thereon he may pay, together with interest thereon as provided by law. One of the duplicate certificates of sale issued by the treasurer, in case of a private purchaser, shall be filed in the office of the county recorder. As amended, Stats. 1919, 414.

3660. Under Rev. Laws, 4835, authorizing the supreme court to reverse, affirm or modify the judgment or order appealed from, the court has power to modify a judgment for delinquent taxes by reducing the amount of the recovery, and will so modify the judgment where the attorney-general, the district attorney, and the attorney for defendant stipulate for such modification, notwithstanding this section. State v. Nevada Copper Belt R. R. Co., 41 Nev. 222, 226 (188 P. 737).

3664. Under this section, defendant, in an action for delinquent taxes, has the burden of establishing excessive valuation on his property. State v. Wells Fargo & Co., 38 Nev. 506, 525 (150 P. 836).

Under this section it was held that, if a tax suit by the state against plaintiff could not be removed by plaintiff to the federal court on the ground of diversity of citizenship, though plaintiff was a foreign corporation, as the defense against an excessive assessment, which could be interposed at law, was not available in the federal courts, and as a state cannot restrict the jurisdiction of the federal courts, the federal district court had jurisdiction to entertain a suit by plaintiff to enjoin enforcement of an excessive assessment, it having no plain and adequate remedy at law. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton, 235 F. 320.

There is no want of due process; the mode of resisting the tax under this section being by a judicial proceeding wherein process issues and an opportunity is afforded for a hearing, and payment being enforced only if there is a judgment sustaining the tax. Wells Fargo & Co. v. State of Nevada, 39 S. C. R. 62, 63.

3657-3664. An action by the state, under these sections to collect taxes, cannot, though the defendant be a foreign corporation, be removed to the federal courts on the ground of diversity of citizenship, because the state is not a citizen. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton, 235 F. 319, 335.

An action instituted in the state courts cannot be removed to the federal courts on the ground that a question arising under the constitution or laws of the United States is involved unless the complaint necessarily shows that such questions are involved; it being insufficient that they be raised by other pleadings or in anticipation of defenses. Id.

An adequate remedy at law, which can be administered only in a state court, is not sufficient to compel a federal court to dismiss an equitable cause over which its jurisdiction is otherwise valid and complete, and relegate the complainant for his only alternative relief to a state court. Id.

3659-3665. There is no want of due process within the fourteenth amendment because valuation by board for taxation being without notice to property owner; the mode of enforcing the tax under these sections, being by a judicial proceeding wherein process issues and an opportunity is afforded for a full hearing, and payment being enforced only after there is a judgment sustaining the tax. Wells Fargo & Co. v. State of Nevada, 39 S. C. R. 62, 63.

3666. Civil practice act to apply—Redemption.

SEC. 54. An act to regulate proceedings in civil cases in the courts of justice in the State of Nevada, approved March 9, 1869, and the several amendments thereto, or amendments which may hereafter be made thereto, or laws passed under the government of the State of Nevada, so far as the same are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby made applicable to the proceedings under this act, and any deed derived from the sale of real property under this act shall be conclusive evidence of the title, except as against actual frauds or the payment of the taxes by one not a party to the action or judgment in or upon which such sale was made, and shall entitle the holder thereof to possession of such property, which possession may be obtained by action in a justice's court for the unlawful withholding thereof in the same manner as where tenants hold over after the expiration of their lease; provided, that the officer in selling such property shall sell only the smallest quantity that will pay the judgment and all costs. All sales of real estate sold for taxes shall be subject to redemption at any time within one year after date of sale by the payment of all costs connected with the suit and sale, together with interest at the rate of three per cent per month from date of sale up to time of redemption. When property is sold belonging to minors or persons under legal disability, they shall have one year after such disability is removed to redeem such property, as in other civil cases, by paying the whole amount of the judgment and all subsequent taxes and interests paid by and due to the purchaser at such sale, and fifty per cent in addition thereto. But this provision shall not apply when the executor or administrator of the estate, or the father, or, in case of his death, the mother or guardian of such minor children, or insane persons, has been personally served with process.

Not to apply to tax sales.

SEC. 3. The above amendments shall not apply to redemptions from tax sales heretofore held, but only to property sold after the passage and approval of this act. As amended, Stats. 1917, 36.

Under this section, enforcement of any legal tax assessment under which proceedings were about to be brought to sell them for taxes, will be enjoined, for a tax deed based on such proceedings would constitute a cloud on the title. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton, 235 F. 318, 332.

Where an assessment of taxes on real property was not wholly void but was excessive, the taxes, if paid, cannot be recovered in an action against the taxing officials, the payment, though made under protest, being presumed to be voluntary. Id.

3713. Auditor to issue poll-tax receipts.

SEC. 101. The auditor shall from time to time issue to the assessor (who shall be ex officio poll-tax collector) so many of the receipts for poll taxes as he may need, taking his receipt therefor and charging him therewith, such issuance to consist of the signing, by the auditor, of the poll-tax receipts, and their delivery to the assessor. As amended, Stats. 1913, 103.

3733. A bona-fide social club, which disposes at its clubhouse of liquors to members and guests at a fixed charge as an incident to the general purposes of the club, the profit on the sales going to pay the general expenses of the organization, is not required to take out a license by this section; the term "business" in such statute meaning business in the trade or commercial sense. State v. University Club, 35 Nev. 475, 481 (130 P. 468; 44 L. R. A. (N.S.) 1026).

Fortune-tellers must pay license.

SEC. 123½. Every fortune-teller, clairvoyant, palmist, or medium charging, collecting, or receiving any consideration, or any thing of value, for his or her services, directly or indirectly, shall pay a license of $25 the month, or $50 the quarter; provided, that the terms herein used include every person or persons who read or purport to read, or to tell fortunes, or to predict or to tell the future or past by cards, palmistry, clairvoyancy, or other methods. Added, Stats. 1915, 18.

3746. In mandamus proceedings by the board of county commissioners to compel the county auditor to make the joint report required by this section, the county treasurer was not a necessary party, where it appeared that he was willing to perform his part in making the report. State ex rel. Haviland v. Bonnifield, 37 Nev. 44, 45 (138 P. 906).

3748. Under this section and Stats. 1913, 180, sec. 7, where taxpayers paid the taxes under protest, but did not commence any court action, it was held that they were entitled to relief only upon complying with the terms of the statute, and the county treasurer could not withhold settlement from the state treasurer on the ground that the taxes had been paid under protest. State ex rel. Cole v. Miller, 38 Nev. 494, 495 (151 P. 943).

3755. Under Cutting, 1215, similar to this, and Cutting, 1084, similar to Rev. Laws, 3624, it was held that where defendant loaned money to bankrupts, receiving as security absolute deed to certain real and personal property, which was in fact a mortgage, the fact that security was made in the form of a deed to prevent the assessment and collection of taxes on the money loaned was collateral only, and did not so taint the security as to render it unenforceable as against the mortgagor's trustee in bankruptcy. *Alter v. 3756. Plaintiff in an action to foreclose a mortgage failed to file any affidavit that all taxes on the money or debts secured had been paid as required by this section. Held, in the absence of a provision making a judgment void by failure to comply with the statute, that its purpose was only to aid in the enforcement of other tax laws, and that, as the objection went neither to a question of fraud upon the court nor the defendant mortgagor, it was not ground for setting aside a default judgment therein. *Nevada Con. 3767. Delinquent property sold to county for taxes—How resold.

SECTION 1. Whenever the time allowed by law for the redemption of any property sold to any county treasurer for delinquent taxes, under the provisions of section 55 (ante, sec. 3667) of the act to which this act is supplementary, shall have expired, and the treasurer shall have come in possession of a deed to any property of an assessed value of less than five hundred dollars, the board of county commissioners of such county may, by an order entered upon the record of the proceedings of said board, direct the treasurer or his successor in office to sell such property, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied as now provided by law; provided, that notice of such sale shall be posted in at least three public places in the county, including one at the courthouse and one on the property, for a period of not less than twenty days prior to the day of sale, or in lieu of such posting by the publication of such notice for a like period of time in some newspaper published within said county, if the board of county commissioners shall by their order so direct. As amended, Stats. 1917, 423.

3820—Shares assessed, how—Who deemed owners.

SEC. 2. All shares of stock in banks, whether of issue or not, existing by authority of the United States, or of the State of Nevada, or of any other state, territory, or foreign government, and located within the State of Nevada, shall be assessed to the owners thereof in the county, city, town, or district where such banks are located, and not elsewhere, in the assessment of all state, county, town, or special taxes, imposed and levied in such place, whether such owner is a resident of said county, city, town, or district, or not. All such shares shall be assessed at their full cash value on the first day of May, first deducting therefrom the proportionate value of the real estate belonging to the bank and the amount or value of such mortgages or trust deeds owned by the bank and on which the bank has paid the taxes or authorized the assessment thereof in its name, at the same rate and no greater than that at which other moneyed capital in the hands of citizens and subject to taxation is by law assessed. And the persons or corporations who appear from the records of the banks to be the owners of shares at the close of the business day next preceding the first day of May in each year shall be taken and deemed to be the owners thereof for the purposes of this section. As amended, Stats. 1915, 174.

3838. Under Stats. 1913, 175, the tax commission law, and this section, it is implied that the commission may fix the valuation lower than the minimum of $1.25 per acre, and an owner feeling aggrieved on the ground that the minimum is too high may appear before the commission and prove that the cash valuation is less than the minimum, and, on the commission so finding, they must make a reduction in the valuation accordingly, and to this extent this section is superseded, but it still applies to county assessors making the original assessment. State ex rel. Central Pacific Ry. Co. v. Nevada Tax Commission, 38 Nev. 112-115 (145 P. 905).

3841. Disposition of poll-taxes.

SECTION 1. From and after the passage of this act all money received from poll-tax collections, made from persons residing outside the limits of any incorporated town or city within this state, shall be turned into the general road fund of the county in which said poll-tax shall be collected. The county commissioners of the various counties may appropriate the money of said general road fund for the building and maintenance of such public roads of their respective counties as they may deem for the best interest of the public.

From and after the passage of this act all money received from poll-tax collections, made from persons residing within the limits of any incorporated town or city within this state, shall be turned over monthly, as collected, to the proper official or officials of such incorporated town or city, and be by such incorporated town or city expended in the building, improvement and care of the public streets, alleys and roads therein situated. As amended, Stats. 1913, 18; 1919, 119.

3866. Personal property taxes, when collected.

SEC. 3. It is hereby made a specific duty of all county assessors, at the time of assessing personal property, to collect the entire amount of tax on such personal property, unless the owner thereof shall be the owner of real estate, situate within his county, sufficient, in the judgment of the county assessor, to amply secure the payment of the entire tax on both such real estate and personal property should a lien attach thereto by reason of such taxes becoming delinquent; provided, should such assessment be made at any time between the first day of January and the date on which the tax is levied by the board of county commissioners for any year, such collection shall be made by the assessor on the regular tax levy for the preceding year, plus ten per cent. The county assessor shall immediately turn into the county treasurer the full amount of any such collection. The county treasurer shall place ten per cent thereof in a special fund and apportion the remainder as other taxes are apportioned. The ten per cent shall remain in the special fund, unapportioned, until such time as the board of county commissioners levy the tax for the then current year, at which time, if the levy is in excess of the rate applied to such personal property for the preceding year, the amount of the tax figured at such excess shall be deducted from the special fund, apportioned as other taxes, and the balance refunded to party in interest; provided, if the levy for the then current year shall be less than for the preceding year, no refund, other than the total amount of the special fund, shall be made to any party in interest. As amended, Stats. 1915, 154.

3882. Sheriff to issue license—Cost thereof.

3883. Auditor to prepare licenses.

SEC. 3. Blank licenses shall be prepared by the county auditor of the county in which the exhibition or contest named in section 1 of this act is to be held, which license shall be issued and accounted for as is by law provided for in respect to other county licenses. Each license delivered by the sheriff under the provisions of this act shall contain the name of the licensee and the name of the contestants. As amended, Stats. 1913, 234.

Stats. 1913, 175, Sec. 3. This section requires the state tax commission to hold a regular session on the second Monday in October, at which session it shall equalize property valuations as provided in section 6. Section 4 provides that the commission shall have power to exercise general supervision and control over the entire revenue system of the state, in pursuance whereof it shall possess special powers, among others, to require assessors, sheriffs, as ex officio collectors of licenses, and the clerks of county boards of equalization, to furnish such information in relation to assessments, licenses or the equalization of valuations as it may demand. Section 6 provides that at its regular session in October it shall review the tax rolls of the various counties and may raise or lower, for the purpose of state equalization, the valuations therein. Held, that while there is no express provision requiring revenue officers of the several counties to deliver or transmit to the commission the assessment roll, where the commission determines that, for the performance of its duties, it is convenient or necessary to have such rolls and makes demand therefor, it is the duty of the county revenue officers to comply with such demand. Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, 321-323 (135 P. 609).

Sec. 4. See Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, under section 3.

This section does not trespass upon any inherent right of county revenue officers, their duties being within the control of the legislature. Id.

Sec. 6. See Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, under section 3.

This act implies that the commission may fix the valuation of land lower than the minimum of $1.25 per acre, as fixed by Rev. Laws, 3838, and an owner feeling aggrieved, on the ground that the minimum is too high, may appear before the commission and prove that the cash valuation is less than the minimum, and, on the commission's so finding, they must make a deduction in the valuation accordingly, and to this extent Rev. Laws, 3838, is superseded, but it still applies to county assessors making the original assessment. State ex rel. C. P. R. R. v. Nevada Tax Commission, 38 Nev. 112-116 (145 P. 905).

This act does not empower the commission to order a board of county commissioners to reduce the rate of county taxation after the commission has increased the valuation. State ex rel. Nevada Tax Commission v. Boerlin, 38 Nev. 39, 40-44 (144 P. 738).

(3) Property of the clear value of five thousand dollars transferred to any or all of the persons described in the third subdivision of section 2 shall be exempt.

(4) No exemption shall be allowed upon property transferred to any of the persons described in the fourth and fifth subdivisions of section 2 of this act.

Tax, how payable.

SEC. 5. When any grant, gift, legacy, devise or succession upon which a tax is imposed by section 1 of this act shall be an estate, income or interest for a term of years, or for life, or determinable upon any future or contingent event, or shall be a remainder, reversion or other expectancy, real or personal, the entire property or fund by which such estate, income or interest is supported or of which it is a part shall be appraised immediately after the death of the decedent, and the market value thereof determined, in the manner provided in section 17 of this act, and the tax prescribed by this act shall be immediately due and payable to the treasurer of the proper county, and together with the interest thereon, shall be and remain a lien on said property until the same is paid; provided, that the person or persons or body politic or corporate beneficially interested in the property chargeable with said tax may elect not to pay the same until they shall come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property; and in that case such person or persons or body politic or corporate shall execute a bond to the State of Nevada, in a penalty of twice the amount of the tax arising upon personal estate, with such sureties as the district court having jurisdiction as hereinafter provided may approve, conditioned for the payment of said tax and interest thereon, at such time or period as they or their representatives may come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property, which bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the proper county and a certified copy thereof shall be immediately transmitted to the state controller; provided further, that such person shall make a full and verified return of such property to said court and file the same in the office of the county clerk within one year from the death of the decedent and within that period enter into such security and renew the same every five years.

Executor's fees liable, when.

SEC. 6. Whenever a decedent appoints or names one or more executors or trustees and makes a bequest or devise of property to them in lieu of commissions or allowances, which otherwise would be liable to said tax, or appoints them his residuary legatees, and said bequest, devises or residuary legacies exceed what would be a reasonable compensation for their services, such excess over and above the exemption herein provided for shall be liable to said tax; and the district court in which the probate proceedings are pending shall fix the compensation.

Interest added, when.

SEC. 7. All taxes imposed by this act, unless otherwise herein provided for, shall be due and payable at the death of the decedent, and if the same are paid within eighteen months no interest shall be charged and collected thereon, but if not so paid, interest at the rate of 10 per centum per annum shall be charged and collected from the time said tax accrued; provided, that if said tax is paid within six months from the accruing thereof a discount of 5 per centum shall be allowed and deducted from said tax. And in all cases where the executors, administrators or trustees do not pay such tax within eighteen months from the death of the decedent, they shall be required to give a bond in the form and to the effect prescribed in section 5 of this act for the payment of said tax, together with interest.

Penalty not chargeable, when.

SEC. 8. The penalty of 10 per centum per annum imposed by section 7 hereof, for the nonpayment of said tax, shall not be charged in cases where, in the judgment of the court, by reason of claims made upon the estate, necessary litigation, or other unavoidable cause of delay, the estate of any decedent, or a part thereof, cannot be settled at the end of eighteen months from the death of the decedent; and in such cases 7 per centum per annum shall be charged upon the said tax from the expiration of said eighteen months until the cause of such delay is removed, after which 10 per centum interest per annum shall again be charged until the tax is paid; but litigation to defeat the payment of the tax shall not be considered necessary litigation.

Duties of administrator.

SEC. 9. Any administrator, executor or trustee having in charge or trust any legacy or property subject to the said tax shall deduct the tax therefrom, or, if the legacy or property be not money, he shall collect the tax thereon, upon the market value thereof, from the legatee or person entitled to such property, and he shall not deliver, or be compelled to deliver, any specific legacy or property subject to tax to any person until he shall have collected the tax thereon; and whenever any such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate, the executor, administrator or trustee shall collect said tax from the distributee thereof, and the same shall remain a charge on such real estate until paid. If, however, such legacy be given in money to any person for a limited period, the executor, administrator or trustee shall retain the tax upon the whole amount; but if it be not in money, he shall make application to the district court to make an apportionment, if the case require it, of the sum to be paid into his hands by such legatees and for such further order relative thereto as the case may require.

Property may be sold.

SEC. 10. All executors, administrators and trustees shall have full power to sell so much of the property of the decedent as will enable them to pay said tax, in the same manner as they may be enabled by law to do for the payment of the debts of the estate, and the amount of said tax shall be paid as hereinafter directed. No final settlement of the account of any executor, administrator or trustee shall be accepted or allowed unless it shall show, and the court shall find, that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this act upon any property or interest therein or income therefrom belonging to the estate to be paid by such executor, administrator or trustee and to be settled by said account, shall have been paid, and the receipt of the county treasurer of the county in which such estate is being administered shall be the proper voucher for such payment.

Executor to pay promptly.

SEC. 11. Every sum of money retained by an executor, administrator or trustee, or paid into his hands for any tax on property, shall be paid by him within thirty days thereafter to the treasurer of the county in which the probate proceedings are pending. Upon the payment to any county treasurer of any tax due under this act, such treasurer shall issue a receipt therefor in triplicate, one copy of which he shall deliver to the person paying the said tax, and the original and one copy thereof he shall immediately send to the controller of the state, whose duty it shall be to charge the treasurer so receiving the tax with the amount thereof, and said controller shall retain one of said receipts and the other he shall countersign and seal with the seal of his office and immediately transmit the same to the clerk of the court where the proceedings are pending. Any person shall, upon payment to the county treasurer of the sum of fifty cents, be entitled to a duplicate, or copy, of any receipt that may have been given by said treasurer for the payment of any tax under this act.

Debts against estate, procedure regarding.

SEC. 12. Whenever any debts shall be proven against the estate of a decedent after the payment of legacies or distribution of property from which the said tax has been deducted or upon which it has been paid, and a refund is made by the legatee, devisee, heir or next of kin, a proportion of the tax so deducted or paid shall be repaid to him by the executor, administrator or trustee, if the said tax has not been paid to the county treasurer, or to the state treasurer, or by said county treasurer, or state treasurer (on warrant of the county auditor or the state controller) if it has been so paid.

Regarding transfers of interests.

SEC. 13. If a foreign executor, administrator or trustee shall assign or transfer any stock, obligations, securities, deposits or other assets in this state, standing in the name of a decedent, or in trust for a decedent, and liable to the tax hereby imposed, such tax shall be paid to the treasurer of the proper court, on the transfer of such stock, obligations, securities, deposits or other assets, and if such tax be not paid or secured to be paid at the time of such transfer, both the transferrer and the transferee shall be personally liable for the amount of such tax.

District court has jurisdiction.

SEC. 14. The district court having either principal or ancillary jurisdiction of the settlement of the estate of any decedent leaving property subject to the tax hereby imposed, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions in relation to said tax, or that may arise affecting any devise, legacy or inheritance, or any grant or gift, under this act, subject to appeal as in other cases, and the state controller shall in his name of office represent the interests of the state in any such proceedings.

Appraisers appointed, when—To take oath.

SEC. 15. In each county of this state the district judge or judges shall, whenever he or they deem advisable, appoint three competent residents and freeholders of said county to act as appraisers of all property within such county, which is charged or sought to be charged with an inheritance tax. Said appraisers shall serve during the pleasure of the court and until discharged by order thereof. They shall each take the constitutional oath of the State of Nevada, but shall not be required to give a bond; they shall be subject to removal at any time in the discretion of the court, and the court, or judge thereof in vacation, may also in its discretion, either before or after the appointment of regular appraisers, appoint other appraisers to act in any given case; vacancies shall be filled by appointment of the court or by the judge thereof. Every such inheritance tax appraiser shall be paid by the county treasurer on a warrant drawn by the county auditor out of any fund which he may have in his hands not otherwise appropriated by law, on presentation of an order or certificate of the district court, showing an allowance of his claim as such appraiser. Such compensation shall be at the rate of five dollars per day for each appraiser for every day actually and necessarily employed in said inheritance tax appraisement, together with their actual and necessary traveling expenses and the fees paid such witnesses as shall have been subpoenaed before them, which fees shall be the same as those now provided for witnesses attending a court of record.

Appraiser inhibited from taking fee from legatee.

SEC. 16. Any appraiser appointed under this act who shall take any fee or reward from any executor, administrator, trustee, legatee, next of kin or heir of any decedent, or from any other person liable to pay said tax or any portion thereof, or from any agent or representative of any such person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in any court having jurisdiction of misdemeanors he shall be punished by fine or imprisonment or both, and in addition thereto the judge shall dismiss him from such service.

Appraisers fix market value.

SEC. 17. The district court having jurisdiction to determine any such tax, either upon its own motion or upon the application of any interested person, including the state controller or county treasurer, shall by order direct the person, or one of the persons, appointed pursuant to section 15 of this act, to fix the clear market value of property of persons whose estates shall be subject to the payment of any tax under this act. Such appraisers shall forthwith give notice by mail to all persons known to have a claim or interest in the property to be appraised, including the state controller and the treasurer of the county in which such tax is to be paid, and to such person or persons as the district court may by order direct, of the time when and place where they will hear all persons interested in the appraisement of such estate. At the time and place specified in such notice, the said appraisers shall meet and appraise the said property at its fair market value; and for the purpose of making said appraisement, the said appraisers shall be authorized to cause the clerk to issue subpoenas and compel the attendance of witnesses before them, to administer oaths and to take the evidence of such witnesses under oath concerning such property and the value thereof; and shall make report thereof and of such value in writing to the said district court, together with the depositions of the witnesses examined, if any, and such other facts in relation thereto as said district court may order or require, within thirty days from the date of such direction unless further time be granted by the court.

Time of appraisement may be extended.

SEC. 18. Whenever, by reason of the complicated nature of the estate, or by reason of the confused condition of the decedent's affairs, it is impracticable for the appraisers to file with the clerk of the court a full, true, and correct appraisement of the personal assets belonging to the estate within the time required by this act, the court may extend the time for making such appraisement, not exceeding a period of three months.

Objections to appraisement, how and by whom made.

SEC. 19. The state controller or any person interested in the estate appraised may, within twenty days thereafter, file objections to said appraisement, on the hearing of which as an action in equity, either party may produce evidence competent or material to the matters therein involved. If upon such hearing the court finds the amount at which the property is appraised is at its value on the market in the ordinary course of trade, and that the appraisement was fairly and in good faith made, it shall approve such appraisement; but if it finds that the appraisement was made at a greater or less sum than the value of the property in the ordinary course of trade, or that the same was not fairly or in good faith made, may order the appraisement amended or corrected to conform to its findings, or it shall set aside the appraisement of the property, appoint new appraisers, and so proceed until a fair and good appraisement is made. The state controller or any one interested in the property appraised may appeal to the supreme court from the order of the district court approving, amending or correcting, or setting aside any appraisement to which exceptions have been filed. Notice of appeal shall be served within thirty days from the date of the order appealed from, and the appeal shall be perfected in the time now provided for appeals in civil actions. In case of appeal, the appellant, if he is not the state controller, shall give bond to be approved by the clerk of the court, to pay the tax, which bond shall provide that the said appellant and sureties shall pay the amount of the 3882. Sheriff to issue license—Cost thereof.

SEC. 2. The sheriff of any county in which the exhibition or contest named in section 1 of this act is to be held, shall issue a license for such exhibition or contest upon the payment to him of the sum of one hundred dollars ($100). As amended, Stats. 1913, 234.

3883. Auditor to prepare licenses.

SEC. 3. Each license delivered by the sheriff under the provisions of this act shall contain the name of the licensee and the name of the contestants. As amended, Stats. 1913, 234.

3889. Penalties for noncompliance.

SEC. 9. Stats. 1913, 175, Sec. 3. This section requires the state tax commission to hold a regular session on the second Monday in October, at which session it shall equalize property valuations as provided in section 6. Section 4 provides that the commission shall have power to exercise general supervision and control over the entire revenue system of the state, in pursuance whereof it shall possess special powers, among others, to require assessors, sheriffs, as ex officio collectors of licenses, and the clerks of county boards of equalization, to furnish such information in relation to assessments, licenses or the equalization of valuations as it may demand. Section 6 provides that at its regular session in October it shall review the tax rolls of the various counties and may raise or lower, for the purpose of state equalization, the valuations therein. Held, that while there is no express provision requiring revenue officers of the several counties to deliver or transmit to the commission the assessment roll, where the commission determines that, for the performance of its duties, it is convenient or necessary to have such rolls and makes demand therefor, it is the duty of the county revenue officers to comply with such demand. Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, 321-323 (135 P. 609).

Sec. 4. See Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, under section 3.

This section does not trespass upon any inherent right of county revenue officers, their duties being within the control of the legislature. Id.

Sec. 6. See Nevada Tax Commission v. Douglas County, 36 Nev. 319, under section 3.

This act implies that the commission may fix the valuation of land lower than the minimum of $1.25 per acre, as fixed by Rev. Laws, 3838, and an owner feeling aggrieved, on the ground that the minimum is too high, may appear before the commission and prove that the cash valuation is less than the minimum, and, on the commission's so finding, they must make a deduction in the valuation accordingly, and to this extent Rev. Laws, 3838, is superseded, but it still applies to county assessors making the original assessment. State ex rel. C. P. R. v. Nevada Tax Commission, 38 Nev. 112-116 (145 P. 905).

This act does not empower the commission to order a board of county commissioners to reduce the rate of county taxation after the commission has increased the valuation. State ex rel. Nevada Tax Commission v. Boerlin, 38 Nev. 39, 40-44 (144 P. 738).

Stats. 1913, 280, Sec. 15. This section, providing that the act shall in no wise affect any statute now existent nor that may hereafter be enacted providing for the licensing of automobiles for hire, does not interfere with the power of a city to license and regulate the use of jitney busses. Parte Counts, 39 Nev. 61, 71, 72 (153 P. 93).

Stats. 1915, 236, sec. 3. Under sec. 3, sec. 6, sec. 8, sec. 9, sec. 10 of this act it was held that half of the amount from state as well as county licenses for such disposition in quantities less than a quart is to be paid to the city, and the balance only to the county treasurer, so that such half payable to the city is not included in "all moneys received" by the county treasurer for state liquor licenses "in accordance with the provisions of this act," for which section 11 requires him to account to the state treasurer, the word "amount" in section 10 referring to the total of two sums. *State ex rel. A tax shall be and is hereby imposed upon the transfer of any and all property within the jurisdiction of this state, and any interest therein or income therefrom, whether belonging to the inhabitants of this state or not, and whether tangible or intangible, not hereinafter exempted, which shall pass in trust or otherwise by will or by the statutes of inheritance of this or any other state or by deed, grant, sale or gift made without valuable and adequate consideration in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor, assignor, or donor, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after such death, as specified in this act. For the purposes of this act, the ownership of shares of stock in a corporation owning property in this state shall be considered as the ownership of such interest in the property so owned by such corporation, as the number of shares so owned shall bear to the entire issued and outstanding capital stock of such corporation; and notes and other evidences of indebtedness secured by mortgage on real estate situated in this state are and shall be, upon the owners' death, subject to the inheritance tax hereinafter provided.

(1) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interest in such property shall be the husband, wife, lineal issue or lineal ancestor of the decedent or any child adopted as such in conformity with the laws of this state, or any child to whom such decedent for not less than ten years prior to such transfer stood in the mutually acknowledged relation of a parent; provided, however, such relationship began at or before the child's fifteenth birthday and was continuous for said ten years thereafter, or any lineal issue of such adopted or mutually acknowledged child, at the rate of 1 per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

Rates on inheritances over $25,000.

SEC. 3. The foregoing rates in section 2 are for convenience termed the primary rates. When the market value of such property or interest exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars, the rates or tax upon such excess shall be as follows:

(1) Upon all in excess of $25,000 and up to $50,000, two times the primary rates.

(2) Property of the clear value of ten thousand dollars transferred to any or all of the persons described in the second subdivision of section 2 shall be exempt.

(3) Property of the clear value of five thousand dollars transferred to any or all of the persons described in the third subdivision of section 2 shall be exempt.

(4) No exemption shall be allowed upon property transferred to any of the persons described in the fourth and fifth subdivisions of section 2 of this act.

Tax, how payable.

SEC. 5. When any grant, gift, legacy, devise or succession upon which a tax is imposed by section 1 of this act shall be an estate, income or interest for a term of years, or for life, or determinable upon any future or contingent event, or shall be a remainder, reversion or other expectancy, real or personal, the entire property or fund by which such estate, income or interest is supported or of which it is a part shall be appraised immediately after the death of the decedent, and the market value thereof determined, in the manner provided in section 17 of this act, and the tax prescribed by this act shall be immediately due and payable to the treasurer of the proper county, and together with the interest thereon, shall be and remain a lien on said property until the same is paid; provided, that the person or persons or body politic or corporate beneficially interested in the property chargeable with said tax may elect not to pay the same until they shall come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property; and in that case such person or persons or body politic or corporate shall execute a bond to the State of Nevada, in a penalty of twice the amount of the tax arising upon personal estate, with such sureties as the district court having jurisdiction as hereinafter provided may approve, conditioned for the payment of said tax and interest thereon, at such time or period as they or their representatives may come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property, which bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the proper county and a certified copy thereof shall be immediately transmitted to the state controller; provided further, that such person shall make a full and verified return of such property to said court and file the same in the office of the county clerk within one year from the death of the decedent and within that period enter into such security and renew the same every five years.

Executor's fees liable, when.

SEC. 6. Whenever a decedent appoints or names one or more executors or trustees and makes a bequest or devise of property to them in lieu of commissions or allowances, which otherwise would be liable to said tax, or appoints them his residuary legatees, and said bequest, devises or residuary legacies exceed what would be a reasonable compensation for their services, such excess over and above the exemption herein provided for shall be liable to said tax; and the district court in which the probate proceedings are pending shall fix the compensation.

Interest added, when.

SEC. 7. All taxes imposed by this act, unless otherwise herein provided for, shall be due and payable at the death of the decedent, and if the same are paid within eighteen months no interest shall be charged and collected thereon, but if not so paid, interest at the rate of 10 per centum per annum shall be charged and collected from the time said tax accrued; provided, that if said tax is paid within six months from the accruing thereof a discount of 5 per centum shall be allowed and deducted from said tax. And in all cases where the executors, administrators or trustees do not pay such tax within eighteen months from the death of the decedent, they shall be required to give a bond in the form and to the effect prescribed in section 5 of this act for the payment of said tax, together with interest.

Penalty not chargeable, when.

SEC. 8. The penalty of 10 per centum per annum imposed by section 7 hereof, for the nonpayment of said tax, shall not be charged in cases where, in the judgment of the court, by reason of claims made upon the estate, necessary litigation, or other unavoidable cause of delay, the estate of any decedent, or a part thereof, cannot be settled at the end of eighteen months from the death of the decedent; and in such cases 7 per centum per annum shall be charged upon the said tax from the expiration of said eighteen months until the cause of such delay is removed, after which 10 per centum interest per annum shall again be charged until the tax is paid; but litigation to defeat the payment of the tax shall not be considered necessary litigation.

Duties of administrator.

SEC. 9. Any administrator, executor or trustee having in charge or trust any legacy or property subject to the said tax shall deduct the tax therefrom, or, if the legacy or property be not money, he shall collect the tax thereon, upon the market value thereof, from the legatee or person entitled to such property, and he shall not deliver, or be compelled to deliver, any specific legacy or property subject to tax to any person until he shall have collected the tax thereon; and whenever any such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate, the executor, administrator or trustee shall collect said tax from the distributee thereof, and the same shall remain a charge on such real estate until paid. If, however, such legacy be given in money to any person for a limited period, the executor, administrator or trustee shall retain the tax upon the whole amount; but if it be not in money, he shall make application to the district court to make an apportionment, if the case require it, of the sum to be paid into his hands by such legatees and for such further order relative thereto as the case may require.

Property may be sold.

SEC. 10. All executors, administrators and trustees shall have full power to sell so much of the property of the decedent as will enable them to pay said tax, in the same manner as they may be enabled by law to do for the payment of the debts of the estate, and the amount of said tax shall be paid as hereinafter directed. No final settlement of the account of any executor, administrator or trustee shall be accepted or allowed unless it shall show, and the court shall find, that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this act upon any property or interest therein or income therefrom belonging to the estate to be paid by such executor, administrator or trustee and to be settled by said account, shall have been paid, and the receipt of the county treasurer of the county in which such estate is being administered shall be the proper voucher for such payment.

Executor to pay promptly.

SEC. 11. Every sum of money retained by an executor, administrator or trustee, or paid into his hands for any tax on property, shall be paid by him within thirty days thereafter to the treasurer of the county in which the probate proceedings are pending. Upon the payment to any county treasurer of any tax due under this act, such treasurer shall issue a receipt therefor in triplicate, one copy of which he shall deliver to the person paying the said tax, and the original and one copy thereof he shall immediately send to the controller of the state, whose duty it shall be to charge the treasurer so receiving the tax with the amount thereof, and said controller shall retain one of said receipts and the other he shall countersign and seal with the seal of his office and immediately transmit the same to the clerk of the court where the proceedings are pending. Any person shall, upon payment to the county treasurer of the sum of fifty cents, be entitled to a duplicate, or copy, of any receipt that may have been given by said treasurer for the payment of any tax under this act.

Debts against estate, procedure regarding.

SEC. 12. Whenever any debts shall be proven against the estate of a decedent after the payment of legacies or distribution of property from which the said tax has been deducted or upon which it has been paid, and a refund is made by the legatee, devisee, heir or next of kin, a proportion of the tax so deducted or paid shall be repaid to him by the executor, administrator or trustee, if the said tax has not been paid to the county treasurer, or to the state treasurer, or by said county treasurer, or state treasurer (on warrant of the county auditor or the state controller) if it has been so paid.

Regarding transfers of interests.

SEC. 13. If a foreign executor, administrator or trustee shall assign or transfer any stock, obligations, securities, deposits or other assets in this state, standing in the name of a decedent, or in trust for a decedent, and liable to the tax hereby imposed, such tax shall be paid to the treasurer of the proper court, on the transfer of such stock, obligations, securities, deposits or other assets, and if such tax be not paid or secured to be paid at the time of such transfer, both the transferrer and the transferee shall be personally liable for the amount of such tax.

District court has jurisdiction.

SEC. 14. The district court having either principal or ancillary jurisdiction of the settlement of the estate of any decedent leaving property subject to the tax hereby imposed, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions in relation to said tax, or that may arise affecting any devise, legacy or inheritance, or any grant or gift, under this act, subject to appeal as in other cases, and the state controller shall in his name of office represent the interests of the state in any such proceedings.

Appraisers appointed, when—To take oath.

SEC. 15. In each county of this state the district judge or judges shall, whenever he or they deem advisable, appoint three competent residents and freeholders of said county to act as appraisers of all property within such county, which is charged or sought to be charged with an inheritance tax. Said appraisers shall serve during the pleasure of the court and until discharged by order thereof. They shall each take the constitutional oath of the State of Nevada, but shall not be required to give a bond; they shall be subject to removal at any time in the discretion of the court, and the court, or judge thereof in vacation, may also in its discretion, either before or after the appointment of regular appraisers, appoint other appraisers to act in any given case; vacancies shall be filled by appointment of the court or by the judge thereof. Every such inheritance tax appraiser shall be paid by the county treasurer on a warrant drawn by the county auditor out of any fund which he may have in his hands not otherwise appropriated by law, on presentation of an order or certificate of the district court, showing an allowance of his claim as such appraiser. Such compensation shall be at the rate of five dollars per day for each appraiser for every day actually and necessarily employed in said inheritance tax appraisement, together with their actual and necessary traveling expenses and the fees paid such witnesses as shall have been subpoenaed before them, which fees shall be the same as those now provided for witnesses attending a court of record.

Appraiser inhibited from taking fee from legatee.

SEC. 16. Any appraiser appointed under this act who shall take any fee or reward from any executor, administrator, trustee, legatee, next of kin or heir of any decedent, or from any other person liable to pay said tax or any portion thereof, or from any agent or representative of any such person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in any court having jurisdiction of misdemeanors he shall be punished by fine or imprisonment or both, and in addition thereto the judge shall dismiss him from such service.

Appraisers fix market value.

SEC. 17. The district court having jurisdiction to determine any such tax, either upon its own motion or upon the application of any interested person, including the state controller or county treasurer, shall by order direct the person, or one of the persons, appointed pursuant to section 15 of this act, to fix the clear market value of property of persons whose estates shall be subject to the payment of any tax under this act. Such appraisers shall forthwith give notice by mail to all persons known to have a claim or interest in the property to be appraised, including the state controller and the treasurer of the county in which such tax is to be paid, and to such person or persons as the district court may by order direct, of the time when and place where they will hear all persons interested in the appraisement of such estate. At the time and place specified in such notice, the said appraisers shall meet and appraise the said property at its fair market value; and for the purpose of making said appraisement, the said appraisers shall be authorized to cause the clerk to issue subpoenas and compel the attendance of witnesses before them, to administer oaths and to take the evidence of such witnesses under oath concerning such property and the value thereof; and shall make report thereof and of such value in writing to the said district court, together with the depositions of the witnesses examined, if any, and such other facts in relation thereto as said district court may order or require, within thirty days from the date of such direction unless further time be granted by the court.

Time of appraisement may be extended.

SEC. 18. Whenever, by reason of the complicated nature of the estate, or by reason of the confused condition of the decedent's affairs, it is impracticable for the appraisers to file with the clerk of the court a full, true, and correct appraisement of the personal assets belonging to the estate within the time required by this act, the court may extend the time for making such appraisement, not exceeding a period of three months.

Objections to appraisement, how and by whom made.

SEC. 19. The state controller or any person interested in the estate appraised may, within twenty days thereafter, file objections to said appraisement, on the hearing of which as an action in equity, either party may produce evidence competent or material to the matters therein involved. If upon such hearing the court finds the amount at which the property is appraised is at its value on the market in the ordinary course of trade, and that the appraisement was fairly and in good faith made, it shall approve such appraisement; but if it finds that the appraisement was made at a greater or less sum than the value of the property in the ordinary course of trade, or that the same was not fairly or in good faith made, may order the appraisement amended or corrected to conform to its findings, or it shall set aside the appraisement of the property, appoint new appraisers, and so proceed until a fair and good appraisement is made. The state controller or any one interested in the property appraised may appeal to the supreme court from the order of the district court approving, amending or correcting, or setting aside any appraisement to which exceptions have been filed. Notice of appeal shall be served within thirty days from the date of the order appealed from, and the appeal shall be perfected in the time now provided for appeals in civil actions. In case of appeal, the appellant, if he is not the state controller, shall give bond to be approved by the clerk of the court, to pay the tax, which bond shall provide that the said appellant and sureties shall pay the amount of the tax for which the property may be liable with cost of appeal. If upon the hearing of objections to the appraisal, the court finds that the property is not subject to tax, the court shall, upon the expiration of time for appeal, when no appeal has been taken, order the clerk to enter on his probate docket and in the minutes of the court, a cancelation of any claim or lien for tax. If at the end of twenty days from the filing of the appraisal with the clerk, no objections are filed, the appraisal shall stand approved.

District court shall issue citation, when.

SEC. 20. If it shall appear to the district court upon petition of the state controller, or the county treasurer, or any citizen or other interested person that any transfer has been made within the meaning of this act, and the taxability thereof and the liability for such tax and the amount thereof have not been determined, and no proceedings are pending in any court in this state wherein the taxability of such transfer, the liability therefor and the amount thereof may be determined, said court shall issue a citation, citing the persons who may appear liable therefor, or known to own any interest in or part of the property transferred, to appear before the court on a day certain, not more than twenty days from the date of such citation, and show cause why said tax should not be determined and paid. The clerk of the court shall upon the request of the state controller or the treasurer of the county furnish, without fee, one or more of transcripts of such decree or order and the same may be docketed and filed by the county clerk of any county in the state without fee. Words defined.

SEC. 30. The words "estate" and "property," as used in this act, shall be taken to mean the real and personal property or interest therein of the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainer, vendor, or donor passing or transferred to individual legatees, devisees, heirs, next of kin, grantees, donees, vendees, or successors, and shall include all personal property within or without the state. The word "transfer," as used in this act, shall be taken to include the passing of property or any interest therein, in possession or enjoyment, present or future, by inheritance, descent, devise, succession, bequest, grant, deed, bargain, sale, gift, or appointment in the manner herein described. The word "decedent," as used in this act, shall include the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainer, vendor, or donor.

The words "contemplation of death," as used in this act, shall be taken to include that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person on the execution of his will, and in no wise shall said words be limited and restricted to that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person in making a gift causa mortis, and it is hereby declared to be the intent and purpose of this act to tax any and all transfers which are made in lieu of or to avoid the passing of the property transferred by testate or intestate laws.

Under Rev. Laws, 2156, defining community property and Rev. Laws, 2165, providing that upon the death of the husband one-half of the community property goes to the surviving wife, the right of the wife in the community property during her husband's life is not a mere expectancy, but is a property interest, though subject to the husband's control, and at the husband's death it is merely freed from his control, and does not pass under the inheritance laws, and therefore is not subject to taxation under this act. In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 241, 244 (161 P. 741; L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

Deed of trust by 86-year-old invalid after enactment of this law, but shortly before law took effect, transferring stock to trustees with directions to pay income to grantor during his life, with directions as to disposition of property after his death, corresponding to provisions of will executed simultaneously with deed, was intended as disposition of property to take effect at or after grantor's death, within this law. Cole v. Nickel, 43 Nev.— (177 P. 410, 411, 413).

In determining whether a deed of trust immediately vested legal title so as to exempt transfer from a transfer tax under this law, the deed will be construed, together with a will executed simultaneously therewith, as a single instrument. Id.

Where, immediately after execution of will, testator executed deed of trust directing trustees to pay testator income during his natural life and directed disposal of property following his death by provisions corresponding to those in will, evidence that execution of deed was an afterthought to avoid, if possible, an expected increase in the tax rate in California and a probable inheritance tax of the federal government, is entitled to weight in an action to impose a transfer tax under this law. Id.

The "transfer tax" imposed by this law is in the nature of an excise tax, to wit, on the transfer of property. Id.

The rights and obligations of all parties in regard to payment of an inheritance tax under this law are determinable as of the time of the death of the decedent. Id.

Transfer of stock by deed of trust intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after grantor's death was taxable under this law, although such law had not taken effect at the time of the execution of the deed of trust; the property having vested at the time of death and not at the date of the execution of the deed. Id.

Said appraisers shall serve during the pleasure of the court and until discharged by order thereof. They shall each take the constitutional oath of the State of Nevada, but shall not be required to give a bond; they shall be subject to removal at any time in the discretion of the court, and the court, or judge thereof in vacation, may also in its discretion, either before or after the appointment of regular appraisers, appoint other appraisers to act in any given case; vacancies shall be filled by appointment of the court or by the judge thereof. Every such inheritance tax appraiser shall be paid by the county treasurer on a warrant drawn by the county auditor out of any fund which he may have in his hands not otherwise appropriated by law, on presentation of an order or certificate of the district court, showing an allowance of his claim as such appraiser. Such compensation shall be at the rate of five dollars per day for each appraiser for every day actually and necessarily employed in said inheritance tax appraisement, together with their actual and necessary traveling expenses and the fees paid such witnesses as shall have been subpoenaed before them, which fees shall be the same as those now provided for witnesses attending a court of record.

The district court having jurisdiction to determine any such tax, either upon its own motion or upon the application of any interested person, including the state controller or county treasurer, shall by order direct the person, or one of the persons, appointed pursuant to section 15 of this act, to fix the clear market value of property of persons whose estates shall be subject to the payment of any tax under this act. Such appraisers shall forthwith give notice by mail to all persons known to have a claim or interest in the property to be appraised, including the state controller and the treasurer of the county in which such tax is to be paid, and to such person or persons as the district court may by order direct, of the time when and place where they will hear all persons interested in the appraisement of such estate. At the time and place specified in such notice, the said appraisers shall meet and appraise the said property at its fair market value; and for the purpose of making said appraisement, the said appraisers shall be authorized to cause the clerk to issue subpoenas and compel the attendance of witnesses before them, to administer oaths and to take the evidence of such witnesses under oath concerning such property and the value thereof; and shall make report thereof and of such value in writing to the said district court, together with the depositions of the witnesses examined, if any, and such other facts in relation thereto as said district court may order or require, within thirty days from the date of such direction unless further time be granted by the court.

Time of appraisement may be extended.

SEC. 18. Whenever, by reason of the complicated nature of the estate, or by reason of the confused condition of the decedent's affairs, it is impracticable for the appraisers to file with the clerk of the court a full, true, and correct appraisement of the personal assets belonging to the estate within the time required by this act, the court may extend the time for making such appraisement, not exceeding a period of three months.

SEC. 19. The state controller or any person interested in the estate appraised may, within twenty days thereafter, file objections to said appraisement, on the hearing of which as an action in equity, either party may produce evidence competent or material to the matters therein involved. If upon such hearing the court finds the amount at which the property is appraised is at its value on the market in the ordinary course of trade, and that the appraisement was fairly and in good faith made, it shall approve such appraisement; but if it finds that the appraisement was made at a greater or less sum than the value of the property in the ordinary course of trade, or that the same was not fairly or in good faith made, may order the appraisement amended or corrected to conform to its findings, or it shall set aside the appraisement of the property, appoint new appraisers, and so proceed until a fair and good appraisement is made. The state controller or any one interested in the property appraised may appeal to the supreme court from the order of the district court approving, amending or correcting, or setting aside any appraisement to which exceptions have been filed. Notice of appeal shall be served within thirty days from the date of the order appealed from, and the appeal shall be perfected in the time now provided for appeals in civil actions. In case of appeal, the appellant, if he is not the state controller, shall give bond to be approved by the clerk of the court, to pay the tax, which bond shall provide that the said appellant and sureties shall pay the amount of the tax for which the property may be liable with cost of appeal. If upon the hearing of objections to the appraisal, the court finds that the property is not subject to tax, the court shall, upon the expiration of time for appeal, when no appeal has been taken, order the clerk to enter on his probate docket and in the minutes of the court, a cancelation of any claim or lien for tax. If at the end of twenty days from the filing of the appraisal with the clerk, no objections are filed, the appraisal shall stand approved.

District court shall issue citation, when.

SEC. 20. If it shall appear to the district court upon petition of the state controller, or the county treasurer, or any citizen or other interested person that any transfer has been made within the meaning of this act, and the taxability thereof and the liability for such tax and the amount thereof have not been determined, and no proceedings are pending in any court in this state wherein the taxability of such transfer, the liability therefor and the amount thereof may be determined, said court shall issue a citation, citing the persons who may appear liable therefor, or known to own any interest in or part of the property transferred, to appear before the court on a day certain, not more than twenty days from the date of such citation, and show cause why said tax should not be determined and paid. The clerk of the court shall upon the request of the state controller or the treasurer of the county furnish, without fee, one or more of transcripts of such decree or order and the same may be docketed and filed by the county clerk of any county in the state without fee. The district court may hear the said cause upon the relation of the parties and the testimony of witnesses and evidence produced in open court, and, if the court shall find said property is not subject to any tax as herein provided, the court shall, by its order, so determine; but if it shall appear that said property, or any part thereof, is subject to any such tax, the same shall be appraised and taxed as in other cases and an appeal from such order or decree shall be allowed as provided in section 19 of this act.

Words defined.

SEC. 30. The words "estate" and "property," as used in this act, shall be taken to mean the real and personal property or interest therein of the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainer, vendor, or donor passing or transferred to individual legatees, devisees, heirs, next of kin, grantees, donees, vendees, or successors, and shall include all personal property within or without the state. The word "transfer," as used in this act, shall be taken to include the passing of property or any interest therein, in possession or enjoyment, present or future, by inheritance, descent, devise, succession, bequest, grant, deed, bargain, sale, gift, or appointment in the manner herein described. The word "decedent," as used in this act, shall include the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainer, vendor, or donor.

The words "contemplation of death," as used in this act, shall be taken to include that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person on the execution of his will, and in no wise shall said words be limited and restricted to that expectancy of death which actuates the mind of a person in making a gift causa mortis, and it is hereby declared to be the intent and purpose of this act to tax any and all transfers which are made in lieu of or to avoid the passing of the property transferred by testate or intestate laws.

Under Rev. Laws, 2156, defining community property and Rev. Laws, 2165, providing that upon the death of the husband one-half of the community property goes to the surviving wife, the right of the wife in the community property during her husband's life is not a mere expectancy, but is a property interest, though subject to the husband's control, and at the husband's death it is merely freed from his control, and does not pass under the inheritance laws, and therefore is not subject to taxation under this act. In Re Williams, 40 Nev. 241, 244 (161 P. 741; L. R. A. 1917C, 602).

Deed of trust by 86-year-old invalid after enactment of this law, but shortly before law took effect, transferring stock to trustees with directions to pay income to grantor during his life, with directions as to disposition of property after his death, corresponding to provisions of will executed simultaneously with deed, was intended as disposition of property to take effect at or after grantor's death, within this law. Cole v. Nickel, 43 Nev.— (177 P. 410, 411, 413).

In determining whether a deed of trust immediately vested legal title so as to exempt transfer from a transfer tax under this law, the deed will be construed, together with a will executed simultaneously therewith, as a single instrument. Id.

Where, immediately after execution of will, testator executed deed of trust directing trustees to pay testator income during his natural life and directed disposal of property following his death by provisions corresponding to those in will, evidence that execution of deed was an afterthought to avoid, if possible, an expected increase in the tax rate in California and a probable inheritance tax of the federal government, is entitled to weight in an action to impose a transfer tax under this law. Id.

The "transfer tax" imposed by this law is in the nature of an excise tax, to wit, on the transfer of property. Id.

The rights and obligations of all parties in regard to payment of an inheritance tax under this law are determinable as of the time of the death of the decedent. Id.

Transfer of stock by deed of trust intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after grantor's death was taxable under this law, although such law had not taken effect at the time of the execution of the deed of trust; the property having vested at the time of death and not at the date of the execution of the deed. Id.

Such bond or cash shall immediately be deposited by the assessor with the county treasurer, who shall give his receipt therefor. If a bond be given, such bond shall remain in full force and effect for a period of eighteen months from date thereof as a guarantee that the provisions of sections 5 and 6 of this act shall be fully complied with; thereafter such bond shall automatically become null and void without action or surrender, unless a suit at law has been instituted to enforce the provisions of said sections 5 and 6 of this act; in which event such bond shall remain in full force and effect until a final adjudication of the suit at law by a court of competent jurisdiction, and the issue of an order from said court. If suit at law has been instituted to enforce the provisions of said sections 5 and 6 of this act, the amount remaining in the cash deposit unapportioned shall be retained by the treasurer until the final adjudication of the suit at law by a court of competent jurisdiction and the issue of an order of said court. SEC. 6. In the event of removal from the county where original certificate is filed to a county or counties where higher tax rates obtain in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section, it shall be the duty of the assessor or assessors of such county or counties to make demand upon the person or persons owning or having charge of such live stock, between the first and fifteenth day of January of the next succeeding calendar year, for the amount of such extra tax, if such person or persons are then known and reasonably accessible. The district attorney shall within ten days thereafter institute legal proceedings against the person or persons owning or having in charge such live stock on whose behalf bond was filed or deposit made, as provided in section 4 of this act, making a party thereto the treasurer of the county where bond was filed or deposit made, and the bondsmen (if any). For the purpose of any such proceeding the treasurer of the county where bond was filed or deposit made shall be considered the agent of the owner, and service upon such treasurer shall be equivalent to service upon the owner. Such bond or deposit shall be liable for the proper amount of extra tax and all costs of action, and no part thereof shall be released without an order of court.

Applies to all live stock.

SEC. 11. The provisions of this act shall apply in cases of all transient live stock running at large or otherwise, whether in charge of a herder or not, and the taxes thereon may be collected at any time during the calendar year; and the fact that such live stock may have been assessed, and the taxes thereon for the same year paid in some other state or territory, shall not exempt it from assessment and taxation in this state; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent the free passage of such live stock through this state for commercial purposes, or to deny to the citizens of each state all the privileges and immunities of citizens of the several states.

SEC. 12. When the property described in this act shall have been assessed as herein provided and the taxes thereon collected as prescribed herein, upon complaint in writing by the owner, his agent, or any person aggrieved (which complaint shall be made within ten days after the collection of said taxes, and shall be filed with any state board or commission authorized by law to equalize assessment values, or with the board of county commissioners, if there be no such state board or commission), that the assessment was too high or too low, it shall be the duty of such state board or commission or board of county commissioners at its next regular session after the filing of such complaint to equalize the same, and the proceedings shall be the same as in other cases of equalization.

If any person having the care or custody of such live stock shall pending an action instituted as provided in the last section, drive or move said live stock out of the county with intent to move the same out of the state, or with the intent to evade the payment of the forfeiture hereinbefore named, upon affidavit to that effect being made and filed in an action being brought to recover said forfeiture or tax herein provided, writs of attachment may issue as in civil actions, and the proceedings therein shall be as in other cases, except that no undertaking on attachment shall be required; provided, the district attorney or other interested party may make such affidavit on information and belief. In addition to the foregoing, any person so driving or moving such live stock shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each and every offense.

SALES OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIFORM SALES ACT

The original draft of this act was prepared in 1902-3 by Professor Samuel Williston of Cambridge, Massachusetts, at the request of the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. The draft was printed in the summer of 1903 and sent with a request for criticism to teachers of the Law of Sales and to other experts on the subject. Some criticisms were received, and, with the light of these criticisms and his own further reflection, the draftsman presented to the Conference of Commissioners, at its meeting at St. Louis, in September, 1904, a number of suggested amendments.

The draft was then gone over carefully, section by section, by the Conference. Doubtful points and changes in wording were discussed and voted upon. The draft was then recommended to the draftsman with instructions to embody the changes adopted by the Conference and to present a revised draft at the meeting of the Conference in August, 1905.

Another draft was presented, in accordance with these instructions, at the meeting of the Conference at Narragansett Pier in August, 1905. This draft included for the first time a number of sections on the transfer of property by means of documents of title. These sections are numbered Sections 27-40 in the Act as finally adopted.

The draft was again carefully examined, and a fourth draft presented to the Conference in August, 1906, at its meeting at St. Paul, Minnesota. With such changes as were then made, the draft was finally recommended by the Conference to the several States for enactment. Up to August 1, 1919, the Uniform Sales Act had been adopted by the Legislatures of twenty-four different jurisdictions.

An Act to regulate sales of personal property, and to make uniform the law relating thereto.

PART I

FORMATION OF THE CONTRACT

Contracts to sell, and sales.

SECTION 1. (1) A contract to sell goods is a contract whereby the seller agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price.

(2) A sale of goods is an agreement whereby the seller transfers the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price.

(3) A contract to sell or a sale may be absolute or conditional.

(4) There may be a contract to sell or a sale between one part owner and another.

Capacity—Liabilities for necessities.

SEC. 2. Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract, and to transfer and acquire property.

Where necessities are sold and delivered to an infant, or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract, he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

Necessaries in this section mean goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or other person, and to his actual requirements at the time of delivery.

FORMALITIES OF THE CONTRACT

Form of contract or sale.

SEC. 3. Subject to the provisions of this act, and of any statute in that behalf, a contract to sell or a sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal), or by word of mouth, or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth, or may be inferred from the conduct of the parties.

Statute of frauds.

SEC. 4. (1) A contract to sell or a sale of any goods or choses in action of the value of two hundred dollars or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods or choses in action so contracted to be sold or sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the contract, or in part payment, or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract or sale be signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to every such contract or sale, notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time or may not at the time of such contract or sale be actually made, procured, or provided, or fit or ready for delivery, or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof, or rendering the same fit for delivery; but if the goods are to be manufactured by the seller especially for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business, the provisions of this section shall not apply.

(3) There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer, either before or after delivery of the goods, expresses by words or conduct his assent to becoming the owner of those specific goods.

SUBJECT-MATTER OF CONTRACT

Existing and future goods.

SEC. 5. (1) The goods which form the subject of a contract to sell may be either existing goods, owned or possessed by the seller, or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract to sell, in this act called "future goods."

(2) There may be a contract to sell goods, the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen.

(3) Where the parties purport to effect a present sale of future goods, the agreement operates as a contract to sell the goods.

Undivided shares.

SEC. 6. (1) There may be a contract to sell or a sale of an undivided share of goods. If the parties intend to effect a present sale, the buyer, by force of the agreement, becomes an owner in common with the owner or owners of the remaining shares.

(2) In the case of fungible goods, there may be a sale of an undivided share of a specific mass, though the seller purports to sell and the buyer to buy a definite number, weight, or measure of the goods in the mass and though the number, weight, or measure of the goods in the mass is undetermined. By such a sale the buyer becomes owner in common of such a share of the mass as the number, weight, or measure bought bears to the number, weight, or measure of the mass. If the mass contains less than the number, weight, or measure bought, the buyer becomes the owner of the whole mass and the seller is bound to make good the deficiency from similar goods unless a contrary intent appears.

Destruction of goods sold.

SEC. 7. (1) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have wholly perished at the time when the agreement is made, the agreement is void.

(2) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished in part or have wholly or in a material part so deteriorated in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the sale—

(a) As avoided, or

(b) As transferring the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the sale was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for the goods in which the property passes if the sale was divisible.

Destruction of goods contracted to be sold.

SEC. 8. (1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault on the part of the seller or the buyer, the goods wholly perish, the contract is thereby avoided.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault of the seller or the buyer, part of the goods perish or the whole or a material part of the goods so deteriorate in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the contract—

(a) As avoided, or

(b) As binding the seller to transfer the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the contract was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for so much of the goods as the seller, by the buyer's option, is bound to transfer if the contract was divisible.

THE PRICE

Definition and ascertainment of price.

SEC. 9. (1) The price may be fixed by the contract, or may be left to be fixed in such manner as may be agreed, or it may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) The price may be made payable in any personal property.

(3) Where transferring or promising to transfer any interest in real estate constitutes the whole or part of the consideration for transferring or for promising to transfer the property in goods, this act shall not apply.

(4) Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions the buyer must pay a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case.

Sale at a valuation.

SEC. 10. (1) Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods at a price or on terms to be fixed by a third person, and such third person, without fault of the seller or the buyer, cannot or does not fix the price or terms, the contract or the sale is thereby avoided; but if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

(2) Where such third person is prevented from fixing the price or terms by fault of the seller or the buyer, the party not in fault may have such remedies against the party in fault as are allowed by parts IV and V of this act.

Effect of conditions. CONDITIONS AND WARRANTIES

SEC. 11. (1) Where the obligation of either party to a contract to sell or a sale is subject to any condition which is not performed, such party may refuse to proceed with the contract or sale or he may waive performance of the condition. If the other party has promised that the condition should happen or be performed, such first-mentioned party may also treat the nonperformance of the condition as a breach of warranty.

(2) Where the property in the goods has not passed, the buyer may treat the fulfilment by the seller of his obligation to furnish goods as described and as warranted expressly or by implication in the contract to sell as a condition of the obligation of the buyer to perform his promise to accept and pay for the goods.

Definition of express warranty.

SEC. 12. Any affirmation of fact or any promise by the seller relating to the goods is an express warranty if the natural tendency of such affirmation or promise is to induce the buyer to purchase the goods, and if the buyer purchases the goods relying thereon. No affirmation of the value of the goods, nor any statement purporting to be a statement of the seller's opinion only, shall be construed as a warranty.

Implied warranties of title.

SEC. 13. In a contract to sell or a sale, unless a contrary intention appears, there is—

(1) An implied warranty on the part of the seller that in case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods, and that in case of a contract to sell he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass;

(2) An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods as against any lawful claims existing at the time of the sale;

(3) An implied warranty that the goods shall be free at the time of the sale from any charge of encumbrance in favor of any third person, not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract or sale is made;

(4) This section shall not, however, be held to render liable a sheriff, auctioneer, mortgagee, or other person professing to sell, by virtue of authority in fact or law, goods in which a third person has a legal or equitable interest.

Implied warranty in sale by description.

SEC. 14. Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description, and if the contract or sale be by sample, as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods corresponds with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description.

Implied warranties of quality.

SEC. 15. Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract to sell or a sale, except as follows:

(1) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, and it appears that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose.

(2) Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of merchantable quality.

(3) If the buyer has examined the goods there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

(4) In the case of a contract to sell or a sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any particular purpose.

(5) An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade.

(6) An express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied under this act unless inconsistent therewith.

SALE BY SAMPLEImplied warranties in sale by sample.

SEC. 16. In the case of a contract to sell or a sale by sample—

(a) There is an implied warranty that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.

(b) There is an implied warranty that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample, except so far as otherwise provided in section 47 (3).

(c) If the seller is a dealer in goods of that kind, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample.

PART IITRANSFER OF PROPERTY AS BETWEEN SELLER AND BUYER*No property passes until goods are ascertained.

SEC. 17. Where there is a contract to sell unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained, but property in an undivided share of ascertained goods may be transferred as provided in section 6.

Property in specific goods passes when parties so intend.

SEC. 18. (1) Where there is a contract to sell specific or ascertained goods, the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties, regard shall be had to the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties, usages of trade, and the circumstances of the case.

Rules for ascertaining intention.

SEC. 19. Unless a different intention appears, the following are rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer:

Rule 1. Where there is an unconditional contract to sell specific goods, in a deliverable state, the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether the time of payment, or the time of delivery, or both, be postponed.

Rule 2. Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods, for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing be done.

Rule 3. (1) When goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return," or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale, but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price, the property passes to the buyer on delivery, but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract, or, if no time has been fixed, within a reasonable time.

(2) When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on trial or on satisfaction, or other similar terms, the property therein passes to the buyer—

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction;

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller, but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection, then if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods, on the expiration of such time, and, if no time has been fixed, on the expiration of a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Rule 4. (1) Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description, and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract, either by the seller with the assent of the buyer, or by the buyer with the assent of the seller, the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer. Such assent may be expressed or implied, and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made.

(2) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell, the seller delivers the goods to the buyer, or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to or holding for the buyer, he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract, except in the cases provided for in the next rule and in section 20. This presumption is applicable, although by the terms of the contract, the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods, and the goods are marked with the words "collect on delivery," or their equivalents.

Rule 5. If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer, or at a particular place, or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer, or to a particular place, the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon.

Reservation of right of possession or property when goods are shipped.

SEC. 20. (1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract, the seller may, by the terms of the contract or appropriation, reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled. The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer.

(2) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent, or to the order of the seller or of his agent, the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods. But if, except for the form of the bill of lading, the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods, the seller's property in the goods shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract.

(3) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent, but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer.

(4) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange, the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange, and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby. If, however, the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer, or is indorsed in blank, or to the buyer by the consignee named therein, one who purchases in good faith, for value, the bill of lading, or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods, although the bill of exchange has not been honored, provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading indorsed by the consignee named therein, or of the goods, without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful.

Sale by auction.

SEC. 21. In the case of sale by auction—

(1) Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots, each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale.

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer, or in other customary manner. Until such announcement is made, any bidder may retract his bid; and the auctioneer may withdraw the goods from sale unless the action has been announced to be without reserve.

(3) A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller.

(4) Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf, or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him. Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer.

Risk of loss.

SEC. 22. Unless otherwise agreed, the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer, but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not, except that—

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or to a bailee for the buyer, in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure performance by the buyer of his obligations, under the contract, the goods are at the buyer's risk from the time of such delivery.

(b) Where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault.

TRANSFER OF TITLE

Sale by a person not the owner.

SEC. 23. (1) Subject to the provisions of this act, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof, and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell.

(2) Nothing in this act, however, shall affect—

(a) The provisions of any factor's acts, recording acts, or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof.

(b) The validity of any contract to sell or sale under any special common law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

Sale by one having a voidable title.

SEC. 24. Where a seller of goods has a voidable title thereto, but his title has not been avoided at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith, for value, and without notice of the seller's defect of title.

Sale by seller in possession of goods already sold.

SEC. 25. Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person, or by an agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving and paying value for the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same.

Creditors' rights against sold goods in seller's possession.

SEC. 26. Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods and such retention of possession is fraudulent in fact or is deemed fraudulent under any rule of law, a creditor or creditors of the seller may treat the sale as void.

Definition of negotiable documents of title.

SEC. 27. A document of title in which it is stated that the goods referred to therein will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such document, is a negotiable document of title.

Negotiation of negotiable documents by delivery.

SEC. 28. A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by delivery—

(a) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer, or

(b) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the document has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable document of title the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable document of title has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the document shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee.

Negotiation of negotiable documents by indorsement.

SEC. 29. A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the document deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank to bearer, or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner.

Negotiable documents of title marked "Not Negotiable."

SEC. 30. If a document of title which contains an undertaking by a carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee to deliver the goods to the bearer, to a specified person or order, or to the order of a specified person, or which contains words of like import, has placed upon it the words "not negotiable," "non-negotiable," or the like, such a document may nevertheless be negotiated by the holder and is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of this act. But nothing in this act contained shall be construed as limiting or defining the effect upon the obligations of the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing a document of title of placing thereon the words "not negotiable," "non-negotiable," or the like.

Transfer of non-negotiable documents.

SEC. 31. A document of title which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee. A non-negotiable document cannot be negotiated and the indorsement of such a document gives the transferee no additional right.

Who may negotiate a document.

SEC. 32. A negotiable document of title may be negotiated—

- (a) By the owner thereof, or
- (b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted by the owner, if by the terms of the document the bailee issuing the document undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the document is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery.

Rights of person to whom document has been negotiated.

SEC. 33. A person to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

- (a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the document to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the document had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and
- (b) The direct obligation of the bailee issuing the document to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document as fully as if such bailee had contracted directly with him.

Rights of person to whom document has been transferred.

SEC. 34. A person to whom a document of title has been transferred, but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.

If the document is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the bailee who issued the document of the transfer thereof and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of such bailee to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document.

Prior to the notification of such bailee by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable document of title, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of such bailee may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to such bailee by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor.

Transfer of negotiable document without indorsement.

SEC. 35. Where a negotiable document of title is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to endorse the document unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

Warranties on sale of document.

SEC. 36. A person who for value negotiates or transfers a document of title by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a document of title unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

- (a) That the document is genuine;
- (b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the document, and
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a document of title the goods represented thereby.

Indorser not a guarantor.

SEC. 37. The indorsement of a document of title shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the bailee who issued the document or previous indorsers thereof to fulfil their respective obligations.

When negotiations not impaired by fraud, mistake, or duress.

SEC. 38. The validity of the negotiation of a negotiable document of title is not impaired by the fact that the negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the document was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to entrust the possession or custody thereof to such person, if the person to whom the document was negotiated or a person to whom the document was subsequently negotiated paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake, or duress.

Attachment or levy upon goods for which a negotiable document has been issued.

SEC. 39. If goods are delivered to a bailee by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document of title is issued for them they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of such bailee, be attached by garnishment or otherwise or be levied upon under an execution unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined. The bailee shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court.

Creditors' remedies to reach negotiable documents.

SEC. 40. A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable document of title shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such document or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

PART III

PERFORMANCE OF THE CONTRACT

Seller must deliver, and buyer accept, goods.

SEC. 41. It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods, and of the buyer to accept and pay for them, in accordance with the terms of the contract to sell or sale.

Delivery and payment are concurrent conditions.

SEC. 42. Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions; that is to say, the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods.

Place, time, and manner of delivery.

SEC. 43. (1) Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract, express or implied, between the parties. Apart from any such contract, express or implied, or usage of trade to the contrary, the place of delivery is the seller's place of business, if he have one, and if not, his residence; but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specific goods, which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place, then that place is the place of delivery.

(2) Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer, but no time for sending them is fixed, the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time.

(3) Where the goods at the time of sale are in possession of a third person, the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf; but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale. Nothing in this section, however, shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document of title to goods.

(4) Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact.

(5) Unless otherwise agreed, the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller.

Delivery of wrong quantity.

SEC. 44. (1) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell, the buyer may reject them, but if the buyer accepts or retains the goods so delivered, knowing that the seller is not going to perform the contract in full, he must pay for them at the contract rate. If, however, the buyer has used or disposed of the goods delivered before he knows that the seller is not going to perform his contract in full, the buyer shall not be liable for more than the fair value to him of the goods so received.

(2) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell, the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole. If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate.

(3) Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract, the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade, special agreement, or course of dealing between parties.

Delivery in installments.

SEC. 45. (1) Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by installments.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivered by stated installments, which are to be separately paid for, and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more installments, or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more installments, it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case, whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract, or whether the breach is severable, giving rise to a claim for compensation, but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken.

Delivery to a carrier on behalf of the buyer.

SEC. 46. (1) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale, the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer, delivery of the goods to a carrier, whether named by the buyer or not, for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer, except in the cases provided for in section 19, rule 5, or unless a contrary intent appears.

(2) Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer, the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable, having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case. If the seller omits so to do, and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit, the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself, or may hold the seller responsible in damages.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure, the seller must give such notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit, and, if the seller fails to do so, the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit.

Right to examine the goods.

SEC. 47. (1) Where goods are delivered to the buyer, which he has not previously examined, he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer, he is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(3) Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller, in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer, upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price, whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words "collect on delivery," or otherwise, the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement permitting such examination.

What constitutes acceptance.

SEC. 48. The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them, or when the goods have been delivered to him, and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, or when, after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them.

Acceptance does not bar action for damages.

SEC. 49. In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties, acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or sale. But, if, after acceptance of the goods, the buyer fail to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows, or ought to know, of such breach, the seller shall not be liable thereunder.

Buyer is not bound to return goods wrongfully delivered.

SEC. 50. Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are delivered to the buyer, and he refuses to accept them, having the right so to do, he is not bound to return them to the seller, but it is sufficient if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them.

Buyer's liability for failing to accept delivery.

SEC. 51. When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods, and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery, and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of the entire contract, the seller shall have the rights against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default.

PART IV

RIGHTS OF UNPAID SELLER AGAINST THE GOODS

Definition of unpaid seller.

SEC. 52. (1) The seller of goods is deemed to be an unpaid seller within the meaning of this act—

- (a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered.
- (b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment, and the condition on which it was received has been broken by reason of the dishonor of the instrument, the insolvency of the buyer, or otherwise.

(2) In this part of this act the term "seller" includes an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading had been indorsed, or a consignor or agent who has himself paid, or is directly responsible for, the price, or of any other person who is in the position of a seller.

Remedies of an unpaid seller.

SEC. 53. (1) Subject to the provisions of this act, notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller of goods, as such, has—

- (a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them;
- (b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer, a right of stopping the goods in transitu after he has parted with the possession of them;
- (c) A right of resale as limited by this act;
- (d) A right to rescind the sale as limited by this act.

(2) Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller has, in addition to his other remedies, a right of withholding delivery similar to and coextensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transitu where the property has passed to the buyer.

UNPAID SELLER'S LIEN

When right of lien may be exercised.

SEC. 54. (1) Subject to the provisions of this act, the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until payment or tender of the price in the following cases, namely:

- (a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit;
- (b) Where the goods have been sold on credit, but the term of credit has expired;
- (c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent.

(2) The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer.

Lien after part delivery.

SEC. 55. Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention.

When lien is lost.

SEC. 56. (1) The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon—

- (a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof;
 - (b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods;
 - (c) By waiver thereof.
- (2) The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods.

STOPPAGE IN TRANSITU

Seller may stop goods on buyer's insolvency.

SEC. 57. Subject to the provisions of this act, when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transitu, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit, and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possession.

When goods are in transit.

SEC. 58. (1) Goods are in transit within the meaning of section 57—

- (a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water, or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, until the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee;
 - (b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer, and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them even if the seller has refused to receive them back.
- (2) Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section 57—
- (a) If the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination;
 - (b) If, after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination, the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent; and it is immaterial that a further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer;

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf.

(3) If the goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer, it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case, whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer.

(4) If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transitu, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods.

Ways of exercising the right to stop.

SEC. 59. (1) The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transitu either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are. Such notice may be given either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal. In the latter case the notice, to be effectual, must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, may prevent a delivery to the buyer.

(2) When notice of stoppage in transitu is given by the seller to the carrier or other bailee in possession of the goods, he must redeliver the goods to, or according to the directions of, the seller. The expenses of such delivery must be borne by the seller. If, however, a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee, he shall not be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancelation.

RESALE BY THE SELLER

When and how resale may be made.

SEC. 60. (1) Where the goods are of a perishable nature, or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time, an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu may resell the goods. He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) Where a resale is made, as authorized in this section, the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer.

(3) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer. But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale, the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer has been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made.

(4) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer.

(5) The seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale, and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale.

RESCISSION BY THE SELLER

When and how the seller may rescind the sale.

SEC. 61. (1) An unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu, may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods, where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time. The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind. It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer, but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted.

Effect of sale of goods subject to lien or stoppage in transitu.

SEC. 62. Subject to the provisions of this act, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transitu is not affected by any sale, or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made, unless the seller has assented thereto.

If, however, a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier, or other bailee who issued such document, of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu.

PART V

ACTIONS FOR BREACH OF THE CONTRACT

REMEDIES OF THE SELLER

Action for the price.

SEC. 63. (1) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the property in the goods has passed to the buyer, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale, the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods.

(2) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the price is payable on a day certain, irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price, the seller may maintain an action for the price, although the property in the goods has not passed, and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract. But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has manifested an inability to perform the contract or the sale on his part or an intention not to perform it.

(3) Although the property in the goods has not passed, if they cannot readily be resold for a reasonable price, and if the provisions of section 64 (4) are not applicable, the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer, and, if the buyer refuses to receive them, may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer. Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price.

Action for damages for nonacceptance of the goods.

SEC. 64. (1) Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for nonacceptance.

(2) The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the buyer's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages is, in the absence of special circumstances, showing proximate damage of a greater amount, the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted, or, if no time was fixed for acceptance, then at the time of the refusal to accept.

(4) If, while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfil his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale, the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale, or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith, the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing towards carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyer's repudiation or countermand. The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be considered in estimating such damages.

When seller may rescind contract or sale.

SEC. 65. Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer, and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale, or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder, or has committed a material breach thereof, the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer.

REMEDIES OF THE BUYER

Action for converting or detaining goods.

SEC. 66. Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld.

Action for failing to deliver goods.

SEC. 67. (1) Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer, and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for nondelivery.

(2) The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events, from the seller's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount, is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered, or, if no time was fixed, then at the time of the refusal to deliver.

Specific performance.

SEC. 68. Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods, a court having the powers of a court of equity may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the buyer, by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically, without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages. The judgment or decree may be unconditional, or upon such terms and conditions as to damages, payment of the price, and otherwise, as to the court may seem just.

Remedies for breach of warranty.

SEC. 69. (1) Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller, the buyer may, at his election—

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller, the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price;

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty;

(c) Refuse to accept the goods, if the property therein has not passed, and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty;

(d) Rescind the contract to sell or the sale and refuse to receive the goods, or if the goods have already been received return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid.

(2) When the buyer has claimed and been granted a remedy in any one of these ways, no other remedy can thereafter be granted.

(3) Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer, he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods, or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind, or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer. But if deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty, such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale.

(4) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods. If the price or any part thereof has already been paid, the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid, concurrently with the return of the goods, or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price.

(5) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so, if the seller refuses to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods, the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller, but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid, and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section 53.

(6) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the breach of warranty.

(7) In the case of breach of warranty of quality, such loss, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount, is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty.

Interest and special damages.

SEC. 70. Nothing in this act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable, or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed.

PART VIINTERPRETATION*Variation of implied obligations.

SEC. 71. Where any right, duty, or liability would arise under a contract to sell or a sale by implication of law, it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties, or by custom, if the custom be such as to bind both parties to the contract or the sale.

Rights may be enforced by action.

SEC. 72. Where any right, duty or liability is declared by this act, it may, unless otherwise by this act provided, be enforced by action.

Rule for cases not provided for by this act.

SEC. 73. In any case not provided for in this act, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress, or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall continue to apply to contracts to sell and to sales of goods.

Interpretation shall give effect to purpose of uniformity.

SEC. 74. This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the laws of those states which enact it.

Provisions not applicable to mortgages.

STATE BUDGET

An Act providing for a state budget.

Approved March 10, 1919, 58

Duties of governor and legislature—Appropriations limited.

SECTION 1. Within twenty days after the convening of the state legislature the governor shall submit a budget for the two ensuing fiscal years. Said budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the ensuing biennium. Accompanying said budget shall be a statement showing the revenues and expenditures for the two fiscal years next preceding; the current assets, liabilities, reserves, and surplus or deficit of the state; the debts and funds of the state; an estimate of the state's financial condition as of the beginning and end of the biennium covered by the budget; and any explanation the governor may desire to make as to the important features of the budget and any suggestions as to methods for the reduction or increase of the state's revenue.

Said budget shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations for the state legislature as certified to the governor by the president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly; for the executive department; for the judiciary department; to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Nevada; for the salaries payable by the state under the constitution and laws of the state; and for such other purposes as are set forth in the constitution and laws of the state; and for all other appropriations.

The governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budget, and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budget, clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein. The governor may, before final action thereon by the state legislature, amend or supplement the budget to correct an oversight, or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the state legislature, by delivering such amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items in said bill or as a modification of or substitute for any item in said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The state legislature may not alter said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein; provided, however, appropriations necessary for the payment of interest or principal due on the public debt shall not be reduced or eliminated; and provided further, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be increased or decreased during his term of office.

Neither house shall consider any other appropriation, except an emergency appropriation for the immediate expense of the state legislature, until the budget has been finally acted upon by both houses. Every appropriation in addition to that provided for in the budget shall be embodied in a separate act and shall be limited to some single work, object or purpose therein stated. No supplementary appropriation shall be valid if it exceeds the amount in the state treasury available for such appropriation, unless the legislature making such appropriation shall provide the necessary revenue to pay such appropriation by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed by the state legislature; provided, that such tax shall not exceed the rates permitted under the constitution of Nevada. This provision shall not apply to appropriations to suppress insurrections, defend the state, or assist in defending the United States in time of war.

The governor, for the purpose of making up said budget, shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper state officials, including all heads of executive and administrative departments and state institutions, bureaus, boards, commissions, and agencies expending or supervising the expenditures of state moneys and all institutions applying for state moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information in such form and at such times as he may direct. The estimate for the legislative department, as certified by the presiding officers of both houses, shall be included in the budget without revision by the governor.

The governor may provide for hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of state departments and institutions and of other institutions or individuals applying for state appropriations.

The governor may in his discretion revise all estimates, except those relating to the legislative department, those providing for the payment of the principal and interest of the state debt, and for the salaries and expenditures specified by the constitution and laws of the state.

The total appropriations made and expenditures authorized by the budget must not exceed the estimated revenues from taxes, fees, and all other sources for the next ensuing biennium, which estimate shall be furnished the governor by the state auditor at least six months prior to the convening of the state legislature in regular session.

If any item in the budget as enacted shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the budget itself or any other item in it.

Providing, however, that no act appropriating money passed by the twenty-ninth session of the legislature shall be affected by this repeal.

4097. May discharge or apprentice children.

SEC. 11. Whenever said board shall deem it for the best interests of any child in said home, or of the state, they may discharge any child therein; and they are hereby empowered, whenever they may deem it meet and proper, to apprentice any child in said home to the head of any family, or to any person carrying on a useful and proper business; but in all such indentures of apprenticeship the board shall reserve the power to themselves at any time to cancel the same, and reclaim said child to the home whenever, in their judgment, the best interests of said child and the state shall demand. As amended, Stats. 1919, 378.

4098. Dependent or neglected child may be admitted.

SEC. 12. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the board of directors, at their discretion, from receiving any dependent or neglected child or children, when committed to the state orphans' home as herein-after provided; provided, however, that the state orphans' home is hereby organized as a home for dependent and neglected children, who shall be subject to all the conditions of the act of March 24, 1909, relating to dependent and neglected children in addition to the other purposes for which the institution is established; and the board of directors are authorized and required to receive such dependent and neglected children as may be committed to the care of said institution. As amended, Stats. 1903, 62; 1913, 367; 1915, 390; 1919, 378.

4099. State wards—Committed by district judge—County commissioners may act, when—Charge against the county—County to pay, when—Certain children denied entrance.

SEC. 13. Children admitted to the state orphans' home under the provisions of section twelve of this act, as amended, are hereby declared and adjudged to be wards of the state as fully as whole orphans; provided, that no child shall be received by the board of directors unless committed by the district court of the county in which such child resides; provided, further, that if the district judge is absent from the county, or from any cause is unable to act when an application is made for the commitment of any dependent or neglected child to the orphans' home, the county commissioners are hereby authorized to commit such child to said orphans' home; but any such commitment by any board of county commissioners is subject to review by the district court of the county from which such children were committed; provided further, that the expenses, transportation, and maintenance of such children, when committed to this institution by any district court or board of county commissioners of the state, shall become a charge against the county from which such children are committed, such charge for maintenance to be a reasonable rate to be fixed from time to time by the board of directors of said orphans' home; provided, that such rate shall not be less than one-half of the cost of such maintenance by the state; provided, that the district court, in its discretion, may order the parent, parents, guardian or guardians to reimburse the said county for the amount of the maintenance of such child or children in said orphans' home as fixed by the board of directors thereof; and provided further, that no child who is idiotic or who has any contagious disease shall be committed or received by the board of directors of said institution, but all children must be subject to a mental and physical examination under the direction of the board of directors. As amended, Stats. 1903, 63; 1913, 368; 1915, 390; 1919, 379.

Under this section, and Rev. Laws, 734, it was held the court could not commit to the state orphans' home a dependent or an afflicted child who was not an orphan, since an "orphans' home" is an institution or home for the care of destitute orphans, and is not a "reformatory" or institution in which young offenders are confined and instructed, with a view to their reformation. McKinnon v. Harwood, 35 Nev. 494, 498 (130 P. 465).

Under Const. art. 5, sec. 21. art. 4, sec. 19, art. 5, sec. 22, Rev. Laws, 4459, this section, Rev. Laws, 4158, Rev. Laws, 4159, and Stats. 1913, 137, it was held that the words "state treasury" did not include the state insurance fund, which was a special fund given to the treasurer in trust, as distinguished from the general taxes and revenues of the state, and that the requirement for presentation of claims to the board of examiners and the issuance of warrants by the controller did not apply. State ex rel. Beebe v. McMillan, 36 Nev. 383, 385 (136 P. 108).

4158. See State ex rel. Beebe v. McMillan, 36 Nev. 383, 385, under section 4157.

He shall keep an account of all warrants by him drawn on the state treasury, which account shall be kept in such manner as to show monthly the amount of warrants drawn, the amount paid, and the amount outstanding. He shall keep a record of all appropriations in a book provided for that purpose, in which book he shall enter the nature of the appropriation, referring to the statute authorizing the same, the amount appropriated, the amount paid therefrom for each month thereafter, with a yearly total of all payments and the balance remaining, and the amount, if any, reverting. As amended, Stats. 1919, 95.

Const. art. 4, sec. 19 (Rev. Laws, 277), provides: "No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law." Stats. 1915, 95, amending this section provides: "No warrant shall be drawn on the treasury, except there be an unexhausted specific appropriation, by law, to meet the same." Held, that Stats. 1911, 189, sec. 13, was sufficient to make appropriation for claims arising under it, and that, as the legislature made no appropriation in 1917, respondent, a deputy superintendent of public instruction, could recover under section 13 for expenses for year 1917. McCracken v. State, 41 Nev. 49, 54 (167 P. 1001).

Cited, State ex rel. Abel v. Eggers, 36 Nev. 382 (136 P. 100).

After citing Const. art. 5, secs. 21, 22, this section, Rev. Appropriation—Tax levy.

SEC. 9. In order to provide funds for carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby created the state highway fund, and there is hereby appropriated the sum of forty thousand ($40,000) dollars, from the general fund of the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, for said state highway fund for the purposes of this act. In order to provide for the continuation of said state highway fund there shall be levied for the year 1917, an ad valorem tax of seven cents, and for the year 1918 and annually thereafter ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in this state, including the proceeds of mines, which shall be collected as other taxes, and paid into the state treasury for said state highway fund for the exclusive use and purpose of this act. Any portion of said state highway fund unexpended at the expiration of any fiscal year shall be available for apportionment and expenditure during succeeding years, and until this act is modified or repealed. Said state highway fund and the moneys collected therefor shall be available and shall be used for the purpose of constructing, equipping and maintaining the highways designated by the preceding section.

SEC. 10. The board of county commissioners of each and every county through which the state highway and state highway routes, as defined and designated by section 8 of this act, and all other officers having to do with the assessment of property and collection of taxes are hereby directed to levy and collect for the fiscal year 1917 a tax of seven cents, and for the fiscal year 1918, and annually thereafter, a tax of ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property within their respective counties for the purpose of creating a highway fund. The proceeds of said tax shall be set aside in a separate fund in the county treasury and shall be used only for the purpose of assisting the state in constructing so much of the state highway or highways as may run through their county. The said fund shall be hereinafter called in this act "The County-State Highway Fund," and shall be expended only under the direction of said state highway engineer, and the moneys shall be paid out upon bills for construction upon the state highways within the county, certified by the state highway engineer, presented to and approved by the board of county commissioners as other bills against the county are paid.

If upon the approval of this act the time in which boards of county commissioners shall fix and levy taxes for county purposes shall have passed, the levy of seven cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property within the county, as heretofore provided for herein, shall be deemed to be levied by this act without any act on the part of the commissioners of the respective counties. On and after the year 1917 it shall be the mandatory duty of the board of county commissioners to levy the annual tax herein provided for for the purpose of creating and maintaining "The County-State Highway Fund."

Department to submit plans.

SEC. 11. Within ninety days after this act shall take effect and on the 10th day of January of each year thereafter the department of highways shall send to the board of county commissioners of each county, through which the state highways as defined and established in this act run, a plan in such detail as they may deem advisable of the amount, character and nature of the work of construction to be done within the respective counties during the ensuing year, and immediately upon the receipt of such plan by the board of county commissioners of the respective counties the board of county commissioners shall enter an order making available for state highway purposes all moneys in "The County-State Highway Fund" which shall be subject to be expended under the direction of the state highway engineer upon the said highways within the county; provided, however, that no money shall be expended from the state highway fund or from "The County-State Highway Fund," within the limits of any city or town.

Construction and improvement, how supervised.

SEC. 12. All work of construction and improvement of state highways as defined and established under the provisions of this act, and all highways permitted under and by virtue of the provisions of section 31, shall be under the supervision and direction of the state highway engineer, and shall be performed in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contracts prepared and executed by him therefor.

Revolving fund established.

SEC. 13. All bills against the state highway fund for construction, improvement, or maintenance under the provisions of this act shall be certified by the state highway engineer and shall be presented and examined by the board of examiners, and when so allowed, upon being audited by the state controller, the state controller shall draw his warrant therefor upon the state treasurer; provided, however, that upon the written request of the board of directors of the department of highways, the state controller of the State of Nevada is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to draw his warrant in favor of the state highway engineer in the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, and upon presentation of the same to the treasurer of the State of Nevada the said treasurer is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to pay the same. The said sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars is to be known as the "State Highway Revolving Fund" and may be used by the said state highway engineer for the purpose of paying the current pay-rolls of the department of highways and other obligations requiring prompt payment, and for no other purpose; and all bills or demands paid by him from said fund shall after payment thereof be passed upon by the board of examiners in the same manner as other claims against the State of Nevada, and when approved by the board of examiners, the controller shall draw his warrant for the amount of such claim or claims in favor of the "State Highway Revolving Fund" to be paid to the order of the state highway engineer, and the treasurer shall pay the same. The state highway engineer is directed to deposit said state highway revolving fund in one or more banks of reputable standing, and to secure the said deposit or deposits by depository bonds satisfactory to the board of examiners. As amended, Stats. 1919, 254.

Expenditures, how incurred—Publication.

SEC. 14. For the improvements that cost two thousand ($2,000) dollars or less it shall be discretionary with the state highway engineer, with the approval of the board of highway directors, to execute such work or improvements himself or to let the same by contract; but where the cost of the proposed improvements is to exceed the sum of two thousand ($2,000) dollars it shall be the duty of the state highway engineer to advertise for bids for such work according to plans and specifications prepared by him. Publication thereof shall be made in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the proposed improvement or construction is to be made for a period of two weeks in a weekly newspaper, or for a period of ten days, when in a daily newspaper, and such advertisement shall also be published in one or more daily papers of general circulation throughout the state for a period of ten days. Such advertisement shall state the place where the bidder may inspect the plans and specifications, the time and place when bids will be received, and the time and place for opening the same. Every bid shall be accompanied by a certified check of the bidder in an amount equal to five per cent of the amount of his bid, said amount to be forfeited to the state highway fund should the bearer to whom the contract is awarded fail to enter into the contract in accordance with his bid and give the bond required within ten days after notice of such award. The checks of all unsuccessful bidders shall be returned immediately after the contract is awarded and the bond given.

All bids so submitted shall be received at the office of the department of highways and shall be publicly opened and read at the time stated in the advertisement. The department of highways shall have the right to reject any and all bids if, in the opinion of the department, the bids are unbalanced, or for any good cause. In awarding contract the department of highways shall make the award to the lowest responsible bidder. The successful bidder shall be required to furnish bond, with sureties, approved by the department of highways in a sum equal to at least one-half of the amount of the contract awarded conditioned that such work shall be performed in accordance with the plans and specifications and terms of the contract, and otherwise conditioned as in this act provided, and no party bidding for the work shall be accepted as surety on any required bond. When the contract is executed, a copy of the same, including plans and specifications and estimates of cost, shall be filed forthwith in the office of the department of highways and a like copy filed with the clerk of the board of county commissioners.

Engineer may authorize partial payment.

SEC. 15. The state highway engineer may authorize partial payment to any contractor performing any highway improvement or construction as the work progresses. The progress estimates shall be based upon materials in place and labor expended thereon; but not more than eighty-five per cent of the contract price of work shall be paid in advance of full completion and acceptance of such improvement or construction. Fifteen per cent of the contract price of any such work or improvement or construction shall be withheld until the same is satisfactorily completed and accepted by the state highway engineer and such other officer of the United States government as shall have supervision of other highways within the meaning of this act.

Contracts executed in name of state.

SEC. 16. All contracts authorized under the provisions of this act shall be executed in the name of the State of Nevada and shall be signed by the chairman of the department of highways, attested by the state highway engineer under the seal of the department, signed by contracting party or parties, and the form and legality thereof approved by the attorney-general. No director of the department of highways and no state highway engineer, and no employee or officer of the department of highways shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract of any kind or character for the construction, supervision or maintenance of any of the state highways of this state, and such contract shall be void. Any director of the department of highways or any state highway engineer or any officer or employee who shall become, directly or indirectly, interested in any contract for the construction, supervision, or maintenance of any of the state highways in this state shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Duties of contractor.

SEC. 17. Every contractor for improvements, construction or maintenance shall execute a bond as heretofore provided herein, and in addition to the conditions heretofore provided such bond shall provide and secure payment for all material, provisions, provender and supplies, teams, trucks and other means of transportation used in, or upon, or about, or for the performance of the work contracted to be done, and for any work or labor done thereon. Any person or corporation furnishing labor or supplies as heretofore provided herein desiring to be protected under said bond shall file his claim within thirty days from the completion of the contract with the department of highways, which claim shall be verified and contain a statement that same has not been paid. And any such person or corporation so filing a claim may at any time within six months thereafter commence an action against the surety or sureties on the bond for the recovery of the amount of the claim. Failure to commence the action upon such claim against the bond and the sureties thereon within six months shall bar any right of action against such surety or sureties.

Every successful contractor to whom a contract is awarded shall be liable under the provisions of the Nevada industrial commission act, Stats. 1913, page 137, et seq., and shall pay the premiums and percentages as required in said act, and such act shall be mandatory and compulsory upon every such contractor, and the state controller, before paying any money or drawing his warrant, may require satisfactory evidence of the payment of the premiums required under said act.

No contractor shall let any subcontract except upon the written permission and approval of the department of highways, and all subcontractors shall be required in like manner to comply with the terms of the Nevada industrial commission act in like manner as contractors.

Improvement state highway expense.

SEC. 18. Whenever a road, being a part of the system of state highways herein created, shall be constructed or improved under the provisions of this act, the state highway engineer shall thereafter keep all such roads in repair, and the total cost of such maintenance shall be paid by the state treasurer out of the state highway fund herein created and provided for.

Highway not to be disturbed without approval.

SEC. 19. No state highway shall be dug up, crossed or otherwise used for laying or relaying pipe lines, ditches, flumes, sewers, poles, wires or railways, or for other purposes, without the written permit of the state highway engineer, and then only in accordance with the regulations prescribed by said engineer; and all such work shall be done under the supervision and to the satisfaction of said engineer, and all the cost of replacing the highway in as good condition as previous to its being disturbed shall be paid by the persons to whom or in whose behalf such permit was given or by the person by whom the work was done. In case of immediate necessity therefor a city or town may dig up such state highway without such permit from said engineer; provided, that in such cases such highways shall be forthwith replaced in as good condition as before at the expense of such city or town.

Purchase of road machinery authorized.

SEC. 20. The state highway engineer, with the approval of the board of highway directors, may purchase for the state all rock-crushers, steam-rollers, vehicles and road machinery, tools and implements that may be needed for the purpose of this act, and such machinery shall be managed and used by and under the direction of the state highway engineer, who shall employ competent men to operate and keep them in repair. Said engineer may purchase all necessary materials and supplies and incur such other expenses as may be necessary in the operation, maintenance and transportation of all such road machinery, tools and implements.

Method of acquiring right of way.

SEC. 21. In all cases of a highway constructed under the provisions of this act which is located or relocated over a new right of way, such right of way shall be acquired by the department of highways in the name of the state, either by donation by the owners of the land over which such highway shall pass, or by agreement between such owners and the department of highways or through the exercise by the department of highways in the name of and on behalf of the state of the power of eminent domain in the same manner as provided for acquiring property for other public uses, and the entire cost of such right of way shall be paid out of the state highway fund. Any damages that may be sustained by any person by the construction or alteration of any highway under the provisions of this act shall be investigated and determined by the state highway engineer, the same to be approved by the board of highway directors, and shall be paid as other claims against the state are paid.

Any person who may consider himself aggrieved by such determination may commence an action in the district court of the county in which such property lies, within six months after the completion of said highway or the alteration thereon, in the same manner as actions for damages sustained for the taking of private land for public purposes.

Additional powers of department.

SEC. 22. The department of highways, in the name of the state, is hereby empowered to lease, purchase or otherwise acquire (including acquisition by donation) gravel, sand, or gravel or sand-pits, rock, rock-quarries, road metal and road material of any kind, also the right to take water from any stream, ditch, lake, well, or other source of water supply, for drinking purposes or for the use of contractors or for the use of the department of the state highway engineer in the construction of the state highway or in the maintenance thereof; and it is further empowered, where it is impossible to agree with the owner or owners thereof, to condemn any land upon which said materials may be situated or any water necessary for the supplying of the water aforesaid and to institute and carry on all necessary proceedings therefor. The amount agreed to be paid or the amount of the payment awarded for such material or water shall be paid upon the certificate of the state highway engineer as other claims against the state are paid. But nothing contained in this act shall be so construed as to divest any person or company of any vested right in or to any water right or the beneficial use thereof.

Engineer may employ assistants.

SEC. 23. The state highway engineer shall have authority to employ any and all labor necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, and shall pay such labor the reasonable and customary price per day for the class of work performed.

Engineer empowered to change route.

SEC. 24. Whenever in the construction, reconstruction, maintenance, or repair of any of the state highways it shall appear to the state highway engineer that any portion of the state highway as herein defined is dangerous or inconvenient to the traveling public in its present location, or as it may from time to time be located, by reason of grades, dangerous turns, or other local conditions; or that the expense in the construction, building, rebuilding, maintenance or repair thereof would be unreasonably great and could be materially reduced or lessened by change of route, the state highway engineer is hereby empowered to divert or change said route in such manner as in his discretion may seem best; provided, that the said state highway engineer shall first submit a plan of the proposed change to the board of highway directors and the same shall be approved by them.

As a part of every plan and of all specifications and contracts for the construction of the said highways herein provided for provision shall be made for the erection of permanent guide-posts and signboards at every point where another road crosses or diverges such state highway and at all places requiring warning to the traveling public as to the condition of the road, such as dangerous turns, steep grades, etc., which guide-posts and signboards shall contain plain and accurate information as to the distances of towns and other points; such as is usually contained on signboards for the information of the traveling public.

Advertising signs not lawful.

SEC. 25. No advertising signs, signboards, or boards or other materials containing advertising matter shall be placed upon or over any state highway, nor within twenty feet of the main traveled portion thereof; nor upon any bridge or other structure thereon; provided, that counties, towns or cities of the State of Nevada may, by permission of the state highway department, place at such points as may be designated by the state highway engineer suitable signboards advertising such counties, towns or municipalities. If any such sign is placed in violation of this act it is thereby declared a public nuisance and may be forthwith removed by the department of highways or its employees. Any person placing any such sign in violation of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars.

All construction to be permanent.

SEC. 26. All highways constructed under the provisions of this act shall be constructed in such manner as to provide for sufficient and permanent drainage and of such materials as to insure, so far as reasonably may be done, considering all of the circumstances, permanent wearing qualities and to provide against excessive maintenance cost. Regard shall always be had to the character and quality of the traffic to be accommodated and the interests of the public to be served.

Department may employ convicts.

SEC. 27. The department of highways may employ or cause to be employed the convicts confined in the state prison in the construction, improvement, and maintenance of the state highways provided for in this act, or in the quarrying, mining, preparation or transportation of materials for use thereon. Upon the requisition of the department of highways, the warden of the state prison shall send to the place and at the time designated the number of convicts requisitioned or such portion thereof as are, in the judgment of the warden, available.

The state highway engineer shall designate and supervise all road work done by such convicts; and the department of highways shall provide for and maintain the necessary camps and camp equipment for the accommodation of said convicts and the guards for such camp. But the warden of the state prison shall have full control at all times over the discipline of said convicts.

The expense of transportation, necessary guarding, and all extra expenses necessary or incidental to the work of such convicts shall be borne by the department of highways as herein provided. The department of highways and the warden shall enter into an agreement respecting the division of such expense on the basis hereinbefore stated, it being the intention that all extra expense connected with the use of said convicts upon the state highways, over and above the care and maintenance of said convicts at the state prison, shall be borne by the department of highways.

The proper authorities of said state prison and of the state are hereby empowered and directed, where convicts are so employed upon state highways, to grant additional good-time allowance to such convicts conditioned upon their loyal obedience and efficient cooperation with the state, and also, in their discretion, to pay such convicts 25 cents for each day's work faithfully performed.

SEC. 28. The state printer of the State of Nevada is hereby authorized and directed to furnish such stationery and printing, including all reports, statistics, blanks or reports and accounts as may be necessary for the use of the department hereby created and its officers upon the requisition of the state highway engineer.

Duties relative to railroad crossings—Duties of railroads.

SEC. 29. Whenever the state highway, as it now exists or may hereafter be designated and created, crosses any railroad track, whether the same be a street railroad or an interurban railroad, or a steam railroad, such railroad company is hereby required to construct and maintain such highway, at its own expense, as hereinafter provided. Said railroad company shall construct and maintain asphaltum, gravel and asphaltum, or gravel and oil, or asphaltum base upon both sides of each track and for the full space between the tracks and for two feet on the outer sides of each line of tracks for the full height of the rails and of the width of not less than twenty feet. In case of a failure of such railroad company to comply with the provisions of this act the department of highways may, at its option, construct and maintain it in the condition herein provided, and shall have the right to recover the expenses thereof from such railroad company from time to time as circumstances require.

Federal aid money to be deposited.

SEC. 30. All moneys received from the government of the United States, under and by virtue of the provisions of an act of Congress entitled "An act to provide that the United States shall aid the states in the construction of rural post-roads and for other purposes," approved July 11, 1916, for the construction of any of the state highways in this state shall be paid into the state treasury and become a part of the state highway fund.

Certain counties to have money rebated.

SEC. 31. In any county through which no state highway or state highway route is located in accordance with the provisions of section 8 of this act or as hereafter defined by any act of the legislature, such county shall be entitled to receive the full amount which it has paid into the state treasury for the state highway fund less its proportional share for administrative and overhead expenses prorated on the basis of assessed valuation, and an additional amount which shall be equivalent to that proportion of the moneys received from the federal government under the terms of the act of Congress of the United States entitled "An act to provide that the United States shall aid in the construction of rural post-roads, and for other purposes," approved July 11, 1916, which the assessed valuation of such county bears to the assessed valuation of the state as a whole, which shall be used by such county in the building and maintaining of any highway within its borders; provided, however, that the general plan thereof shall be approved by the department of highways of this state and conform to the act of Congress of the United States entitled "An act to provide that the United States shall aid the states in the construction of rural post-roads and for other purposes," approved July 11, 1916.

INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE COMMISSION

An Act relating to the compensation of injured workmen in the industries of this state and the compensation to their dependents where such injuries result in death, creating an industrial insurance commission, providing for the creation and disbursement of funds for the compensation and care of workmen injured in the course of employment, and defining and regulating the liability of employers to their employees; and repealing all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act.

Approved March 15, 1913, 137

Who embraced in act.

SECTION 1. (a) When, as in this act provided, an employer shall accept the terms of this act and be governed by its provisions, every such employer shall be conclusively presumed to have elected to provide, secure, and pay compensation according to the terms, conditions, and provisions of this act for any and all personal injuries by accident sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of the employment; and in such cases the employer shall be relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury, unless by the terms of this act otherwise provided.

(b) Where a state, county, municipal corporation, school district, cities under special charter and commission form of government, is the employer, the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, for the payment of premiums to the state insurance fund for the payment of compensation and amount thereof for such injury sustained by an employee of such employer, shall be conclusive, compulsory, and obligatory upon both employer and employee.

(c) If an employer having the right under the provisions of this act to accept the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, shall fail to accept the same as herein provided, every such employer shall be deemed to have rejected the terms, conditions, and provisions thereof, and in such case such employer shall not escape liability for personal injury by accident sustained by an employee of such employer when the injury sustained arises out of and in the usual course of the employment, because:

(1) The employee assumed the risks inherent or incidental to, or arising out of, his or her employment; or the risks arising from the failure of the employer to provide and maintain a reasonably safe place to work, or the risks arising from the failure of the employer to furnish reasonably safe tools or appliances, or because the employer exercised reasonable care in selecting reasonably competent employees in the business;

(2) That the injury was caused by the negligence of a coemployee;

(3) That the employee was negligent, unless and except it shall appear that such negligence was wilful and with intent to cause the injury, or the result of intoxication on the part of the injured party;

(4) In actions by an employee against an employer for personal injuries sustained, arising out of and in the course of the employment where the employer has rejected the provisions of this act, it shall be presumed that the injury to the employee was the first result, and growing out of the negligence of the employer; and that such negligence was the proximate cause of the injury; and in such case the burden of proof shall rest upon the employer to rebut the presumption of negligence.

(d) Every such employer shall be conclusively presumed not to have elected to provide, secure, and pay compensation to employees for injuries sustained arising out of and in the course of the employment according to the provisions of this act, unless and until notice in writing of an election to accept shall have been given to the Nevada industrial commission, substantially in the following form:

EMPLOYER'S NOTICE TO ACCEPT

To the Nevada Industrial Commission:

You are hereby notified that the undersigned accepts the provisions of the "Nevada Industrial Insurance Act."

Signed.....

(e) Where the employer has given notice of an election to accept the terms of this act, and the employee has not given notice of an election to reject the terms of this act, every contract to hire, express or implied, shall be construed as an implied agreement between them, and a part of the contract on the part of the employer to provide, secure and pay, and on the part of the employee to accept, compensation in the manner as by this act provided for all personal injuries sustained arising out of and in the course of employment.

(f) Every such employer electing to be governed by the provisions of this act, before becoming entitled to the benefits of the act in the providing, securing, and paying of compensation to the employees thereunder, shall, on or before the first day of July, 1917, and thereafter during the period of his election to be governed by the provisions of the act, pay to the Nevada industrial commission all premiums in the manner hereinafter provided; and during the period of his election to be governed by the provisions of the act shall comply with all conditions and provisions of the act, hereinafter stated.

(g) Failure on the part of any such employer to pay the premiums as by the provisions of this act required shall operate as a rejection of the terms of the act. In the event of any rejection of this act or the terms hereof, such rejecting employer shall post a notice of rejection of the terms of the act upon his premises in a conspicuous place. Failure to post said notice shall constitute a misdemeanor.

(h) It shall be the duty of such employer at all times to maintain the notice or notices so provided for the information of his employees, and any person failing so to maintain the same shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. As amended, Stats. 1915, 279; 1917, 436.

(a) By the employee's wilful intention to injure himself or to wilfully injure another; nor shall compensation be paid to an injured employee if injury is sustained while intoxicated.

Charge against employee for liability unlawful.

SEC. 2½. It shall be unlawful for any employer who has elected to reject the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, to make any charge against any employee, or to deduct from the wages of any employee any sum of money to meet the costs, in whole or in part, of the liability incurred by the employer by reason of his rejection of the Nevada industrial insurance act. A copy of such transcript shall be furnished on demand to any party upon the payment of the fee therefor, as provided for transcript in courts of record.

SEC. 20. The commission shall prepare and furnish blank forms, and provide in its rules for their distribution so that the same may be readily available, of application for benefits or compensation from the state insurance fund, notices to employers, proofs of injury or death, of medical attendance, of employment and wage earnings, and such other blanks as may be deemed proper and advisable, and it shall be the duty of insured employers to constantly keep on hand sufficient supply of such blanks.

Regulations as to payments of premiums.

SEC. 21. (a) Every employer electing to be governed by the provisions of this act, with the exception of the state, counties, municipal corporations, cities, and school districts, shall, on or before the first day of July, A. D. 1919, and thereafter, as required by the Nevada industrial commission, pay to the Nevada industrial commission for a state insurance fund premiums in such a percentage of his estimated total pay-roll for the ensuing month as shall be fixed by order of the Nevada industrial commission; provided, however, that all premium rates now in effect shall be continued in full force and effect until changed, altered or amended by order of the Nevada industrial commission.

Every employer electing to be governed by the provisions of this act, who shall enter into business or resume operations subsequent to July 1, 1919, shall, before so commencing or resuming operations, as the case may be, notify the commission of such fact, accompanying such notification with an estimate of his monthly pay-roll, and shall make payment of the premium on such pay-roll for the first three months of operation, and thereafter as required by order of the Nevada industrial commission.

The Nevada industrial commission may require all premiums required by this act to be paid for three months in advance upon the estimated pay-roll of the employer, unless the commission be satisfied of the financial responsibility of the employer, or unless a good and sufficient surety bond for the payment of premiums be given by the employer to the Nevada industrial commission.

Every employer electing to be governed by the provisions of the act shall, on or before the twenty-fifth day of each month, furnish the Nevada industrial commission with a true and accurate pay-roll showing the aggregate number of shifts worked during the preceding month, the total amount paid to employees for services performed during said month, and a segregation of employment in accordance with the requirements of the commission. An adjustment of accounts shall then be made upon the basis of the actual pay-roll, and should the amount of the actual premium due exceed the estimated premium for the period, the amount of the deficiency shall be forwarded to the commission within thirty days after receipt by the employer of demand therefor.

As soon as possible after the expiration of each quarter-year, beginning with September 30, 1919, it shall be the duty of the state auditor, and the auditor of each county, and the clerk of each municipal corporation, city, and school district, to furnish the Nevada industrial commission with a true and accurate pay-roll of said state, county, municipal corporation, city or school district, showing the aggregate number of shifts worked during the preceding quarter, the total amount paid to the employees for services performed during said month, and a segregation of employment in accordance with the requirements of the commission; and it shall be the duty of each of the said auditors and clerks to make up and submit to the respective governing boards of the state and each county, municipal corporation, city, and school district, for approval a claim for the amount of premiums due the commission. Any official who fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty ($50) dollars nor more than two hundred ($200) dollars.

Every employer who shall fail on demand of the commission to furnish an estimated pay-roll and make payment as above provided, shall be liable to a penalty in three times the amount of the premium on such pay-roll, to be collected in a civil action in the name of the Nevada industrial commission and paid into the state insurance fund.

(b) The Nevada industrial commission shall have the power, as experience and conditions demand, to increase or decrease the rates above provided; sixty days' notice of any change in rates shall be given before the same shall become effective; the commission shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to classify occupations with respect to their degree of hazard, and determine the risks of the different classes and fix the rates of premiums of the same, based upon the total pay-roll and number of employees in each of said classes of occupation and sufficiently large to provide an adequate fund for the compensation provided for in this act, and to create a surplus sufficiently large to guarantee a satisfactory state insurance fund from year to year.

(c) In that the intent is that the state insurance fund and the accident benefit fund shall ultimately be neither more nor less than self-supporting, the actual loss experience of the several classes of those funds shall be ascertained as soon as practical after the first day of July, 1919, for the first five years operation of the fund, and annually thereafter within six months after the close of each fiscal year, and should it then be shown that there exists an excess of assets over liabilities, such liabilities to include the necessary reserves and the sum of $100,000 for the catastrophe hazard, then the commission shall either allow a credit to the account of or declare a cash dividend to each individual member of any class which is shown to have made contributions in excess of liabilities properly chargeable to such class, the amount of the credit so allowed or cash dividend declared to be proportionate to the amount of money said individual member of such class has paid or contributed to said fund. As amended, Stats. 1915, 283; 1917, 439; 1919, 306.

Higher rate, when—Merit rating, when.

SEC. 22. (a) Whenever an establishment or work is dangerous in comparison with other like establishments or works, the Nevada industrial commission may advance its classification of risk and premium rates in proportion to the hazard. Such advancement of classification of risks and premium rates may be made without previous notice.

(b) The Nevada industrial commission shall have the power in its discretion to lower the premium rate of or declare a rebate to any establishment or plant which has contributed to the state insurance fund for one year or more, if and as experience shall show it to maintain such a high standard of safety or accident prevention as to differentiate it from other like establishments or plants; provided, that such reduction of premium rate or rebate of premium contribution shall not exceed ten per cent (10%) where the accident experience of such establishment or plant for a period of twelve months is less than sixty per cent (60%) of the average experience for the same period of like establishments or plants of its classification, nor fifteen per cent (15%) where the accident experience of such establishment or plant for two consecutive periods of twelve months is less than sixty per cent (60%) of the average experience for the same period of like establishments or plants of its classification. As amended, Stats. 1915, 286; 1919, 308.

Accident benefits.

SEC. 23. (a) Every injured employee within the provisions of this act shall be entitled to receive, and shall receive promptly, such medical, surgical and hospital or other treatment, nursing, medicines, medical and surgical supplies, crutches and apparatus, including artificial members, as may be reasonably required at the time of the injury and within ninety days thereafter, which may be extended to one year by the Nevada industrial commission. The benefits conferred by this paragraph upon the injured employee shall hereinafter be termed "Accident Benefits."

(b) For the purpose of providing a fund to take care of said accident benefits as in this act provided the Nevada industrial commission is authorized and directed to collect a premium upon the total pay-roll of every employer, except as hereinafter provided, in such a percentage as the commission shall by order fix; every employer paying such premium shall be relieved from furnishing accident benefits, and the same shall be provided by the Nevada industrial commission. Every employer paying such premium for accident benefits may collect one-half thereof, not to exceed one dollar per month from each employee, and may deduct the same from the wages of such employee.

The Nevada industrial commission shall have the authority to adopt such reasonable rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this subdivision of this section. All fees and charges for such accident benefits shall be subject to regulation by the commission, and shall be limited to such charges as prevail in the same community for similar treatment of injured persons of like standard of living.

The state insurance fund provided for in this act shall not be liable for any accident benefits provided by this section, but the fund provided for accident benefits shall be a separate and distinct fund, and shall be so kept.

(c) It shall be the duty of every employer accepting the provisions of this act, immediately upon the occurrence of any injury to any of his employees, to render to such employee all necessary first aid, including cost of transportation of the injured employee from the place of injury to the nearest place of proper treatment where the injury is such as to make it reasonably necessary for such transportation; such employer shall forthwith notify the commission of such accident, giving the name of the injured employee, the nature of the accident and where and by whom the injured employee is being treated, and the date of the accident. Every employer paying accident benefit premiums to the Nevada industrial commission furnishing such first aid shall be entitled to receive from the commission the amount of such expenditure reasonably made.

(d) Every employer operating under this act alone or together with other employers may make arrangements for the purpose of providing accident benefits as defined in this act for injured employees and such employer may collect one-half of the cost of such accident benefits from their collective employees, not to exceed one dollar per month from any one employee, and may deduct the same from the wages of each employee. Employers electing to make such arrangements for providing accident benefits shall notify the Nevada industrial commission of such election and render a detailed statement of the arrangements made. Every employer who maintains a hospital of any kind for his employees, or who contracts with a physician for the hospital care of injured employees, shall, on or before the thirtieth day of January of each year, make a written report to the Nevada industrial commission for the preceding year, which report shall contain a statement showing: (1) Total amount of hospital fees collected, showing separately the amount contributed by the employees and the amount contributed by the employers; (2) an itemized account of the expenditures, investments, or other disposition of such fees, and (3) a statement showing what balance, if any, remains. Such reports shall be verified by the employer, if an individual; by a member, if a partnership; by the secretary, president, general manager or other executive officer, if a corporation; by the physician, if contracted to a physician.

Every employer who fails to so notify said Nevada industrial commission of such election and arrangements, or who fails to render the financial report required herein, shall be liable for accident benefits as heretofore provided by subdivision (b) of this section.

(e) If it be shown or the commission finds that the employer is furnishing the requirements of medical, surgical, or hospital aid or treatment provided for in this act in such a manner that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the health, life, or recovery of the employee is being endangered or impaired thereby, the commission may, upon application of the employee or upon its own motion, order a change in the physician or other requirements, and if the employer fails to promptly comply with such order, the injured employee may elect to have such medical, surgical, or hospital aid or treatment provided by or through the Nevada industrial commission, in which event the cause of action of said injured employee against the employer or hospital association shall be assigned to the Nevada industrial commission for the benefit of the state insurance fund, and the Nevada industrial commission shall furnish to said injured employee the medical, surgical, or hospital aid or treatment provided for in this act. As amended, Stats. 1917, 439; 1919, 309.

Premiums paid to state treasurer.

SEC. 24. All premiums provided for in this act shall be paid to the state treasurer, and shall constitute the state insurance fund for the benefit of employees of employers and for the benefit of dependents of such employees, and shall be disbursed as hereinafter provided.

Compensation provisions.

SEC. 25. Every employee in the employ of an employer within the provisions of this act, who shall be injured by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, or his dependents, as hereinafter defined, shall be entitled to receive the following compensation:

(A) DEATH BENEFITS

If the injury causes death, the compensation shall be known as a death benefit, and shall be payable in the amount and to and for the benefit of the persons following:

1. Burial expenses, not to exceed one hundred and twenty-five ($125) dollars, in addition to the compensation payable under this act.

2. To the widow, if there is no child, thirty per centum of the average wage of the deceased. This compensation shall be paid until her death or remarriage, with two years' compensation in one sum upon remarriage.

3. To the widower, if there is no child, thirty per centum of the average wage of the deceased, if wholly dependent for support upon the deceased employee at the time of her death. This compensation shall be paid until his death or remarriage.

4. To the widow or widower, if there is a child or children, the compensation payable under clause one (1) or clause two (2), and in addition the additional amount of ten per centum of such wage for each such child until the age of eighteen years. In case of the subsequent death of such surviving wife (or dependent husband) any surviving child of the deceased employee shall have his compensation increased to fifteen (15) per centum of such wages, and the same shall be payable until he shall reach the age of eighteen years; provided, that the total amount payable shall in no case exceed sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of such wage. If the children have a guardian other than the surviving widow or widower, the compensation on account of such children may be paid to such guardian. The compensation payable on account of any child shall cease when he dies, marries, or reaches the age of eighteen years, or if over eighteen years, and incapable of self-support, becomes capable of self-support.

5. If there be a surviving child or children of the deceased under the age of eighteen years, but no surviving wife (or dependent husband) then for the support of each child until the age of eighteen years, fifteen per centum of the wages of the deceased; provided, that the aggregate shall in no case exceed sixty-six and two-thirds per centum of such wages.

6. If there be no surviving wife (or dependent husband) or child under the age of eighteen years, there shall be paid to a parent, if wholly dependent for support upon the deceased employee at the time of his death, twenty-five per centum of the average monthly wage of the deceased during dependency, with an added allowance of ten per centum if two dependent parents survive; to the brothers or sisters, under the age of eighteen years, if one is wholly dependent upon the deceased employee for support at the time of injury causing death, twenty per centum of the average monthly wage for the support of such brother or sister, until of the age of eighteen years. If more than one brother or sister is wholly dependent, thirty per centum of the average monthly wage at the time of injury causing death, divided among such dependents share and share alike. If there is no one of them wholly dependent, but one or more partly dependent, ten per centum divided among such dependents share and share alike.

7. In all other cases, questions of total or partial dependency shall be determined in accordance with the facts as the facts may be at the time of the injury. If the deceased employee leaves dependents only partially dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury causing his death, the monthly compensation to be paid shall be equal to the same proportion of the monthly payments for the benefit of persons totally dependent as the amount contributed by the employee to such partial dependents bears to the average wage of deceased at the time of the injury resulting in his death. The duration of such compensation to partial dependents shall be fixed by the commission in accordance with the facts shown, but in no case exceed compensation for one hundred months.

8. Compensation to the widow or widower shall be for the use and benefit of such widow or widower and of the dependent children, and the commission may, from time to time, apportion such compensation between them in such way as it deems best for the interests of all beneficiaries.

If a dependent to whom a death benefit is to be paid is an alien not residing in the United States, the compensation shall be only sixty (60) per cent of the amount or amounts above specified.

9. Any excess of wages over one hundred and twenty ($120) dollars a month shall not be taken into account in computing compensation for death benefits.

10. In such cases where compensation is awarded to the widow, dependent children, or persons wholly dependent, no lump-sum settlements shall be allowed.

11. In case of the death of any dependent specified in the foregoing enumeration before the expiration of the time named in the award, funeral expenses not to exceed one hundred and twenty-five ($125) dollars shall be paid.

(B) TOTAL DISABILITY

1. Temporary total disability: For temporary total disability, if there be no one residing in the United States totally dependent upon the workman at the time of the injury, compensation of sixty (60%) per cent of the average monthly wage, but not more than seventy-two ($72) dollars nor less than thirty ($30) dollars per month, but not exceeding one hundred months, during the period of such disability, total amount not to exceed seven thousand two hundred ($7,200) dollars; if there be persons residing in the United States totally dependent for support upon the workman, compensation as provided herein with an additional allowance of ten ($10) dollars per month for such dependents during the period of such disability.

2. Permanent total disability: In cases of total disability adjudged to be permanent, compensation of sixty (60%) per cent of the average monthly wage, but not less than thirty ($30) dollars per month nor more than sixty ($60) dollars per month during the life of the injured person.

In cases of the following specified injuries, in the absence of proof to the contrary, the disability caused thereby shall be deemed total and permanent:

1. The total and permanent loss of sight of both eyes.
2. The loss by separation of both legs at or above the knee.
3. The loss by separation of both arms at or above the elbow.
4. An injury to the spine resulting in permanent and complete paralysis of both legs or both arms, or one leg and one arm.
5. An injury to the skull resulting in incurable imbecility, or insanity.
6. The loss by separation of one arm at or above the elbow, and one leg by separation at or above the knee may be deemed a permanent total disability.

The above enumeration is not taken as exclusive; and in all other cases, permanent total disability shall be determined in accordance with the facts.

(C) PARTIAL DISABILITY

1. For temporary partial disability, sixty (60%) per cent of the difference between the wages earned before the injury and the wages which the injured person is able to earn thereafter, but not more than forty ($40) dollars per month for a period not to exceed sixty (60) months during the period of said disability. For the purpose of this provision any excess of wages over one hundred and twenty ($120) dollars per month shall not be taken into account in computing compensation for temporary partial disability.

2. In case of any of the following specified injuries, the disability caused thereby shall be deemed a permanent partial disability, and compensation of fifty (50%) per cent of the average monthly wage, subject to a minimum of thirty ($30) dollars per month and a maximum of sixty ($60) dollars per month, shall be paid in addition to the compensation paid for temporary total disability for the period named in the following schedule:

- (a) For the loss of a thumb, fifteen (15) months.
- (b) For the loss of a first finger, commonly called the index finger, nine (9) months.
- (c) For the loss of a second finger, seven (7) months.
- (d) For the loss of the third finger, five (5) months.
- (e) For the loss of the fourth finger, commonly called the little finger, four (4) months.
- (f) The loss of a distal or second phalange of the thumb, or the distal or third phalange of the first, second, third, or fourth finger, shall be considered a permanent partial disability, and equal to the loss of one-half of such thumb or finger, and compensation shall be one-half of the amount specified for the loss of the entire thumb or finger.

(g) The loss of more than one phalange of the thumb or finger shall be considered as the loss of the entire finger or thumb; provided, however, that in no case shall the amount received for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand.

(h) For the loss of a great toe, seven (7) months.

(i) For the loss of one of the other toes other than the great toe, two and one-half (2½) months.

(j) However, the loss of the first phalange of any toe shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such toe, and compensation shall be one-half of the amount above specified.

(k) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire toe.

(l) For the loss of a major hand, fifty (50) months; the loss of a minor hand, forty (40) months.

(m) For the loss of a major arm, sixty (60) months; for the loss of a minor arm, fifty (50) months.

(n) For the loss of a foot, forty (40) months.

(o) For the loss of a leg, fifty (50) months.

(p) For the loss of an eye by enucleation, thirty (30) months.

(q) The permanent and complete loss of sight in one eye without enucleation, twenty-five (25) months.

(r) For permanent and complete loss of hearing in one ear, twenty (20) months.

(s) For permanent and complete loss of hearing in both ears, sixty (60) months.

(t) The permanent and complete loss of the use of a finger, toe, arm, hand, foot, or leg may be deemed the same as the loss of any such member by separation.

(u) For the partial loss of use of a finger, toe, arm, hand, foot, leg, or partial loss of sight or hearing, fifty (50%) per cent of the average monthly wage during that proportion of the number of months in the foregoing schedule provided for the complete loss of use of such member, or complete loss of sight or hearing, which the partial loss of use thereof bears to the total loss of use of such member or total loss of sight or hearing.

(v) Facial disfigurement: For permanent disfigurement about the head or face, which shall include injury to or loss of teeth, the commission may allow such sum for compensation thereof as it may deem just, in accordance with the proof submitted, for a period not to exceed twelve (12) months.

(w) In all cases of permanent partial disability, not otherwise specified in the foregoing schedule, the percentage of disability to the total disability shall be determined. For the purpose of computing compensation for a disability that is partial in character but permanent in quality, the sum of sixty ($60) dollars per month for the period of one (1) month shall represent a one (1%) per cent disability.

In determining the percentage of disability, consideration shall be given, among other things, to any previous disability, the occupation of the injured employee, the nature of the physical injury, and the age of the employee at the time of the injury.

(x) Where there is a previous disability, as the loss of one eye, one hand, one foot, or any other previous permanent disability, the percentage of disability for a subsequent injury shall be determined by computing the percentage of the entire disability and deducting therefrom the percentage of the previous disability as it existed at the time of the subsequent injury.

(y) The commission may adopt a schedule for rating permanent disabilities and reasonable and proper rules to carry out the provisions of this subsection.

No compensation shall be payable for the death or disability of an employee, if his death be caused by, or in so far as his disability may be aggravated, caused or continued by, an unreasonable refusal or neglect to submit to or follow any competent and reasonable surgical treatment or medical aid. As amended, Stats. 1915, 286; 1917, 441; 1919, 314.

Dependency, how determined.

SEC. 26. (a) The following persons shall be conclusively presumed to be totally dependent for support upon a deceased employee:

1. A wife upon a husband whom she has not voluntarily abandoned at the time of the injury;

2. A husband, mentally or physically incapacitated from wage earning, upon a wife whom he has not voluntarily abandoned at the time of injury;

3. A natural, posthumous, or adopted child or children, whether legitimate or illegitimate, under the age of eighteen years, or over that age, if physically or mentally incapacitated from wage earning, upon the parent with whom he or they are living at the time of the injury resulting in the death of such parent, there being no surviving parent. Step-parents may be regarded in this act as parents, if the fact of dependency is shown, and a step-child or step-children may be regarded in this act as a natural child or children, if the existence and fact of dependency is shown.

(b) Questions as to who constitute dependents and the extent of their dependency shall be determined as of the date of the accident or injury to the employee, and their right to any death benefit shall become fixed as of such time, irrespective of any subsequent change in conditions, and the death benefits shall be directly recoverable by and payable to the dependent or dependents entitled thereto, or to their legal guardians or trustees. As amended, Stats. 1915, 290; 1917, 446.

Compensation begins, when.

SEC. 27. No compensation shall be paid under this act for an injury which does not incapacitate the employee for a period of at least seven days from earning full wages, but if the incapacity extends beyond the period of seven days, compensation shall begin on the eighth day after the injury; provided, however, that if such disability continues for one week beyond the period of said seven days, such compensation shall be computed from the date of the injury. As amended, Stats. 1915, 290; 1919, 311.

Cannot be assigned or attached.

SEC. 28. Compensation payable under this act, whether determined or due, or not, shall not, prior to the issuance and delivery of the warrant therefor, be assignable; shall be exempt from attachment, garnishment, and execution, and shall not pass to any other person by operation of law; provided, however, that the payments to the consul-general, consul, vice-consul general, or vice-consul, of the nation of which any dependent of a deceased employee is a resident or subject, or a representative of such consul-general, consul, vice-consul general, or vice-consul, of any compensation due under this act to any dependent residing outside of the United States, any power of attorney to receive or receipt for the same to the contrary notwithstanding, shall be as full a discharge of the benefits or compensation payable under this act as if payments were made directly to the beneficiary. As amended, Stats. 1915, 291.

Release or waiver void.

SEC. 29. No employer or workman shall exempt himself from the burden, or waive the benefits of this act by any contract, agreement, rule, regulation or device; and any such contract, agreement, rule, regulation or device shall be absolutely void.

Obsolete.

SEC. 30. Upon the marriage of a widow, she shall receive once and for all, a lump sum equal to twelve times her monthly allowance, not to exceed, however, the sum of $300; provided, however, that allowance shall be made by the commission for the support of minor children under the age of sixteen years; the total amount thereof to be not less than $10 nor more than $35 per month, to be fixed by the commission. Repealed by implication; see paragraphs 2 and 10, under "Death Benefits," section 25.

Lump-sum payment, when.

SEC. 31. The Nevada industrial commission may, in its discretion, allow the conversion of the compensation herein provided for into a lump-sum payment, not to exceed the sum of $5,000, under such rules and regulations and system of computation as may be devised for obtaining the present value of such compensation.

[Does not apply to general dependents, see paragraph 10, section 25.]

Must submit to medical examination, when.

SEC. 32. (a) Any workman entitled to receive compensation under this act is required, if requested by the commission, to submit himself for medical examination at a time and from time to time at a place reasonably convenient for the workman, and as may be provided by the rules of the commission. The request or order for such examination shall fix a time and place therefor, due regard being had to the convenience of the employee and his physical condition and ability to attend at the time and place fixed. The employee shall be entitled to have a physician, provided and paid for by himself, present at any such examination. If the employee refuses to submit to any such examination, or obstructs the same, his right to compensation shall be suspended until such examination has taken place, and no compensation shall be payable during or for account of such period. Any physician who shall make or be present at any such examination may be required to testify as to the result thereof.

(b) If any employee shall persist in insanitary or injurious practices which tend to either imperil or retard his recovery, or shall refuse to submit to such medical or surgical treatment as is reasonably essential to promote his recovery, the commission may, in its discretion, reduce or suspend the compensation of any such injured employee.

(c) If, for the purpose of obtaining any benefit or payment under the provisions of this act, either for himself or for any other person, any one wilfully makes a false statement or representation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if a claimant he shall forfeit all right to compensation under this act after conviction for such offense. As amended, Stats. 1915, 391.

Notice of injury and application for compensation.

SEC. 33. (a) Every employer electing to be governed by the provisions of this act, and every physician and surgeon who attends an injured employee, within the purview of this act, is hereby required to file with the commission, under such rules and regulations as the commission may from time to time make, a full and complete report of every known injury to an employee arising out of or in the course of his employment and resulting in loss of life or injury to such person. Such report shall be furnished to the commission in such form and in such detail as the commission may, from time to time, prescribe and shall make special answers to all questions required by the commission under its rules and regulations. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, agent or officer of any firm or corporation, or any attending physician or surgeon, to fail or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this section; and any person, firm, or corporation, agent or officer of any firm or corporation, or physician or surgeon, who fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty ($50) dollars nor more than two hundred ($200) dollars.

(b) Any physician, having attended an employee within the purview of this act, in a professional capacity, may be required to testify before the commission when it shall so direct. Information gained by the attending physician or surgeon, while in attendance on the injured man, shall not be considered a privileged communication, if required by the commission for a proper understanding of the case and a determination of the rights involved.

(c) Whenever any accident occurs to any employee, it shall be the duty of the employee to forthwith report such accident and the injury resulting therefrom to the employer, and it shall also be the duty of any physician employed by such injured employee to forthwith report such accident and the injury resulting therefrom to the employer and to the Nevada industrial commission. Whenever any accident occurs to any employee, and knowledge of same comes to the attention of the employer by such report or otherwise, the employer may at once designate and send the physician so chosen by such employer and authorized by such employer in writing; and the physician, so chosen, shall be permitted by the employer or any person or persons in charge of said employee to make one examination of said injured employee in order to ascertain the character and extent of the injury occasioned by such accident. Thereupon, it shall be the duty of the said physician, so chosen, to forthwith report to the employer and to the Nevada industrial commission the character and extent of the said injury, as so ascertained by said physician.

(d) If the happening of the said accident or the infliction of said injury to said employee shall not have been reported by said employee or his said physician forthwith, as above described and immediately after the happening of said accident and injury, or if the said injured employee or those in charge of him (the injured employee being a party to the refusal) shall refuse to permit the employer's physician, so chosen, to make such examination, no compensation shall be paid for the injury so claimed to result from said accident; but it shall be within the discretion of the Nevada industrial commission to relieve said injured person or his dependents from such loss or forfeiture of compensation, if the said Nevada industrial commission shall be of the opinion, after investigation, that the circumstances attending the failure on the part of the employee, or of his physician, to report said accident and injury are such as to have excused the said employee and his physician for such failure to so report, and that such relieving of the employee or his dependents from the consequences of such failure to report will not result in an unwarrantable charge against said state insurance fund. As amended, Stats. 1917, 446.

Regulations concerning application.

SEC. 34. (a) Where a workman is entitled to compensation under this act, he shall file with the department his application for such, together with the certificate of the physician who attended him, and it shall be the duty of the physician to inform the injured workman of his rights under this act and to lend all necessary assistance in making this application for compensation and such proof of other matters as required by the rules of the department without charge to the workman.

(b) Where death results from injury, the parties entitled to compensation under this act, or some one in their behalf, shall make application for the same to the department, which application must be accompanied with proof of death and proof of relationship showing the parties to be entitled to compensation under this act, certificates of attending physician, if any, and such other proof as required by the rules of the department.

(c) If change of circumstances warrant an increase or rearrangement of compensation, like application shall be made therefor. No increase or rearrangement shall be operative for any period prior to application therefor.

(d) No application shall be valid or claim thereunder enforceable unless filed within one year after the day upon which the injury occurred or the right thereto accrued.

Notice of injury to be given, when.

SEC. 34½. Notice of the injury for which compensation is payable under this act shall be given to the commission as soon as practicable, but within thirty days after the happening of the accident. In case of the death of the employee resulting from such injury, notice shall be given to the commission as soon as practicable, but within sixty days after such death. The notice shall be in writing and contain the name and address of the injured employee and state in ordinary language the time, place, nature and cause of the injury and be signed by said injured employee, or by a person in his behalf, or in case of death, by one or more of his dependents or by a person on their behalf. No proceeding under this act for compensation for an injury shall be maintained unless the injured employee, or some one in his behalf, files with the commission a claim for compensation with respect to said injury within ninety days after the happening of the accident, or, in case of death, within one year after such death. The notice required by this section shall be served upon the commission, either by delivery to and leaving with it a copy of such notice, or by mailing to it by registered mail a copy thereof in a sealed, postpaid envelope addressed to the commission at its office, and such mailing shall constitute complete service; the failure to give such notice or to file such claim for compensation within the time limit specified in this section shall be a bar to any claim for compensation under this act, but such failure may be excused by the commission on one or more of the following grounds: (1) That notice for some sufficient reason could not have been made. (2) That failure to give such notice will not result in an unwarrantable charge against the state insurance fund. (3) That the employer had actual knowledge of the occurrence of the accident resulting in such injury. (4) That failure to give notice was due to employee's or beneficiary's mistake or ignorance of fact or of law, or of his physical or mental inability, or to fraud, misrepresentation or deceit. Added, Stats. 1917, 448.

Books, records and pay-rolls of employer open to commission—Penalty.

SEC. 35. The books, records, and pay-rolls of the employer pertinent to the administration of this act shall always be open to inspection by the commission or its traveling auditor, agent or assistant, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of the pay-roll, the men employed, and such other information as may be necessary for the commission and its management under this act. Refusal on the part of the employer to submit said books, records and pay-rolls for such inspection to any member of the commission, or any assistant presenting written authority from the commission, shall subject the offending employer to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each offense, to be collected by civil action in the name of the Nevada industrial commission and paid into the accident fund, and the individual who shall personally give such refusal shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Misrepresentation, how punished.

SEC. 36. Any employer who shall misrepresent to the department the amount of pay-roll upon which the premium under this act is based shall be liable to the Nevada industrial commission in ten times the amount of the difference in premium paid and the amount the employer should have paid. The liability to the Nevada industrial commission shall be enforced in a civil action in the name of the Nevada industrial commission. All sums collected under this section shall be paid into the accident fund.

SEC. 37. Repealed, Stats. 1917, 449.

Commission to prosecute, defend and maintain actions.

SEC. 38. The Nevada industrial commission is hereby authorized and empowered to prosecute, defend and maintain actions in the name of the commission for the enforcement of the provisions of this act, and verification of any pleading, affidavit or other paper required may be made by any member of the commission or by the secretary thereof. In any action or proceeding or in the prosecution of any appeal by the commission, no bond or undertaking shall ever be required to be furnished by the commission.

Penalty for failure to maintain safeguards—Exception.

SEC. 39. If any workman be injured because of the absence of any safeguard or protection required to be provided or maintained by, or pursuant to, any statute or ordinance or any departmental regulation under any statute, or be at the time of the injury of less than the maximum age prescribed by law for the employment of the minor in the occupation in which he shall be engaged when injured, the employer shall be liable to the Nevada industrial commission for a penalty of not less than $300 or more than $2,000, to be collected in a civil action at law by the commission.

The foregoing provision of this act shall not apply to the employer if the absence of such guard or such protection be due to the removal thereof by the injured workman himself, or with his knowledge, by any fellow-workman, unless such removal be by order or direction of the employer or superintendent or foreman of the employer. If the removal of such guard or protection be by the workman himself, or be by his consent, by any of his fellow-workmen, unless done by order or direction of the employer or superintendent or foreman of the employer, the compensation of such injured workman, as provided for by section 25 of this act, shall be reduced twenty-five per cent.

State insurance fund — Custodian — Investment — Sale of bonds — Official oath—Bonds—Seal.

SEC. 40. (a) The premiums, contributions, penalties, properties, or securities paid, collected, or acquired by operation of this act shall constitute a fund to be known as the "State Insurance Fund." All disbursements from the state insurance fund shall be paid by the state treasurer upon warrants or vouchers of the Nevada industrial commission authorized and signed by any two members of the commission. The state treasurer shall be liable on his official bond for the faithful performance of his duty as custodian of the state insurance fund. The State of Nevada shall not be liable for the payment of any compensation or any salaries or expenses in the administration of this act, save and except from the state insurance fund, but shall be responsible for the safety and preservation of the state insurance fund.

(b) The Nevada industrial commission may, pursuant to a resolution of the commission, approved by the governor, invest any of the surplus or reserve of said fund in bonds of the United States, in the bonds of this or other states, in the bonds of any county of the State of Nevada or other states, in farm-loan bonds of the federal land banks, or in bonds of incorporated cities or school districts of the State of Nevada. The commission shall make due and diligent inquiry as to the financial standing of the state or states, county or counties, city or cities, school district or school districts, whose bonds or securities it proposes to purchase and shall also require the attorney-general to give his legal opinion in writing as to the validity of any act or acts of any state or county or city or school district under which such bonds are issued.

All such bonds or securities shall be placed in the hands of the state treasurer, who shall be the custodian thereof. He shall collect the principal and interest thereon when due, and pay the same into the state insurance fund. He shall notify the Nevada industrial commission of the amounts so paid in the state insurance fund, giving full details of the transaction. The state treasurer shall pay all vouchers drawn on the state insurance fund for the making of such investments, when signed by two members of the commission, upon delivery of such bonds or securities to him when there is attached to such vouchers a copy of the resolution of the commission authorizing the investment, approved by the governor, said copy to be certified by the secretary under seal of the commission. The commission may, upon its resolution approved by the governor, sell any of such bonds or securities.

(c) The state treasurer may, upon written authority of the Nevada industrial commission, approved by the governor, deposit twenty-five (25%) per cent of said fund in a bank or banks in the State of Nevada, fifteen (15%) per cent thereof to be deposited in open accounts bearing interest at not less than three (3%) per cent per annum, and ten (10%) per cent thereof to be deposited in time accounts, bearing interest at not less than four (4%) per cent per annum; provided, however, that such bank or banks in which deposits may be made shall give to the Nevada industrial commission a good and sufficient deposit bond guaranteeing said Nevada industrial commission against any loss of said deposits by reason of the failure, suspension or otherwise of said bank. Interest earned by such portion of the state insurance fund which may be deposited in any bank or banks, as herein provided, shall be placed to the credit of the state insurance fund.

(d) Each member of the commission, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall give a good and sufficient bond running to the State of Nevada, and shall take the oath prescribed by the constitution, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned that he shall faithfully discharge the duties of his office; said bonds shall be signed by a surety company duly authorized to do business in this state, or by two or more individuals as surety or sureties; shall be subject to approval by the governor, and shall then be filed with the secretary of state. If surety-company bonds be furnished, the premium therefor shall be paid out of the state insurance fund as other expenses of the commission are paid.

(e) The commission shall have a seal upon which shall be inscribed the words "Nevada Industrial Commission—State of Nevada." Its seal shall be fixed to all orders, proceedings, and copies thereof, and to such other instruments as the commission may direct. All courts shall take judicial notice of such seal, and any copy of any record or proceeding of the commission certified under such seal shall be received in all courts as evidence of the original thereof. As amended, Stats. 1915, 292; 1919, 311.

Audit of accounts must be made.

SEC. 40½. It shall be the duty of the industrial commission board, provided for by section 8 of this act, annually or as often as they may deem necessary to make an audit of all books of accounts and record and of funds and securities of the Nevada industrial commission, and said industrial commission board is authorized to employ and fix the compensation of a competent accountant for the purpose of making such audit or audits, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the state insurance fund. Added, Stats. 1917, 449.

Extra territorial provision.

SEC. 41. If a workman or employee within the provisions of this act, who has been hired in this state, and whose usual and ordinary duties of such employment are confined to the state, is sent out of the state on business or employment of his employer, and receives personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of such employment, he shall be entitled to receive compensation according to the provisions of this act, even though such injury was received outside of this state. As amended, Stats, 1915, 293.

Title of act.

SEC. 42. This act shall be known as the "Nevada Industrial Insurance Act."

Exceptions to application of act—Election by excluded employments.

SEC. 43. (a) This act shall apply to all employers of labor in the State of Nevada and their employees and dependents of their employees, but excludes any employee engaged in farm or agricultural labor, stock or poultry raising, or household domestic service, except as otherwise provided herein; and no contract of employment, insurance, relief benefit, or indemnity, or any other device shall modify, change or waive any liability, created by this act; and such contract of employment, insurance, relief benefit, or indemnity, or other device, having for its purpose the waiver or modification of the terms or liability created by this act, shall be void.

(b) Any employer of labor in the State of Nevada, having in his employment any employee excluded from the benefits of the act under subdivision (a) of this section and any such employee may, by their joint election, elect to come under the provisions of this act in the manner hereinafter provided.

(c) Such election on the part of the employer shall be made by filing with the commission a written statement that he accepts the provisions of the Nevada industrial insurance act, which, when filed, shall operate to subject him to the provisions of said act, and of all acts amendatory thereof, until such employer shall thereafter file in the office of the commission a notice in writing that he withdraws his election.

(d) Any employee in the service of any such employer shall be deemed to have accepted, and shall be subject to the provisions of the Nevada industrial insurance act and of any act amendatory thereof, if, at the time of the accident for which compensation is claimed:

(1) The employer charged with such liability is subject to the provisions of this act, whether an employee has actual notice thereof or not; and

(2) Such employee shall not have given to his employer and to the Nevada industrial commission notice in writing that he elects not to be subject to the provisions of said act.

(e) Any such employee having the right under the provisions of this act to elect not to be subject to the provisions thereof who has rejected the provisions of this act may at any time thereafter elect to waive such acceptance by giving notice in writing to his employer and to the Nevada industrial commission, which shall become effective when filed with the Nevada industrial commission.

(f) Employers becoming contributors to the state insurance fund or the accident benefit fund, pursuant to the provisions of this section, shall be placed in a separate class, the premium rates of which shall be sufficient to provide an adequate fund for the payment of the proportionate administrative expense and compensation on account of injuries and death of employees of this class. As amended, Stats. 1915, 293; 1919, 312.

Validity not impaired in certain cases.

SEC. 44. If any employer shall be adjudicated to be outside the lawful scope of this act, the act shall not apply to him or his workman, or if any workman shall be adjudicated to be outside the lawful scope of this act because of remoteness of his work from the hazard of his employer's work, any such adjudication shall not impair the validity of this act in other respects, and in every such case an accounting in accordance with the justice of the case shall be had of moneys received. If the provisions of section 21 of this act for the creation of the insurance fund, or the provisions of this act making the compensation to the workman provided in it exclusive of any other remedy on the part of the workman, shall be held invalid, the entire act shall be thereby invalidated except the provisions of section 46, and an accounting according to the justice of the case shall be had of moneys received. In other respects an adjudication of invalidity of any part of this act shall not affect the validity of the act as a whole or any other part thereof.

SEC. 45. If the provisions of this act relative to compensation for injuries to or death of workmen become invalid because of any adjudication, or be repealed, the period intervening between the occurrence of an injury or death, not previously compensated for under this act by lump payment or completed monthly payments, and such repeal or the rendition of the final adjudication of the invalidity shall not be computed as a part of the time limited by law for the commencement of any action relating to such injury or death; provided, that such action be commenced within one year after such repeal or adjudication; but in any such action any sum paid out of the insurance fund to the workman on account of injury, to whom the action is prosecuted, shall be taken into account or disposed of as follows: If the defendant employer shall have paid without delinquency into the insurance fund the payment provided for by section 21, such sums shall be credited upon the recovery as payment thereon, otherwise the sum shall not be so credited, but shall be deducted from the sum collected and be paid into the said fund from which they had been previously disbursed.

SEC. 46. If this act shall be hereafter repealed, all moneys which are in the insurance fund at the time of the repeal shall be subject to such disposition as may be provided by the legislature, and in default of such legislative provision distribution thereof shall be in accordance with the justice of the matter, due regard being had to obligations of compensation incurred and existing.

Not retroactive.

SEC. 47. This act shall not affect any action pending or cause of action existing on June 30, 1913.

Secs. 48 and 49, relating to time of taking effect and repealing acts in conflict with this act, omitted.

Each section of act independent.

SEC. 50. It is hereby expressly provided that in the event any section of this act or the act of which this act is amendatory, shall be held by any court to be void or inoperative for any cause, such holding shall not affect any other section or provision contained in this act or the act of which this act is amendatory. Added, Stats. 1919, 313.

Effective, when.

SEC. 51. Except as otherwise provided therein, this act shall be effective on and after July 1, 1919. Added, Stats. 1919, 314.

Sec. 24. It was held that the "state treasury" did not include the state insurance fund, which was a special fund given to the treasurer in trust, as distinguished from the general taxes and revenues of the state, and the requirement for presentation of claims to the board of examiners and issuance of warrants by the controller did not apply. State ex rel. Beebe v. McMillan, 36 Nev. 384-388 (136 P. 108).

Mandamus is not the proper remedy to compel the industrial commission to award an injured workman compensation, under this act, as amended by Stats. 1915, 279, since such workman has a speedy and adequate remedy in an action at law against the commission. State ex rel. Brown v. Nevada Industrial Commission, 40 Nev. 220, 222-225 (161 P. 516).

Mandamus is an appropriate remedy to compel the industrial commission to pay a final judgment of compensation obtained by an injured workman in an action at law against the commission, where it refuses to pay such final judgment. Id.

This act sufficiently embraces within its title the purpose expressed by section 1, subd. b, thereof, making counties and other municipal corporations subject to the act, and therefore does not offend Const. art. 4, sec. 17, providing that every law shall embrace but one subject, which shall be briefly expressed in its title. Nevada Industrial Commission v. Washoe County, 41 Nev. 437, 441, 449, 450 (171 P. 511).

Section 1 of this act, subd. b, making counties subject thereto, is not unconstitutional as depriving counties of due process of law, the money required to be paid by the counties going for a public purpose of supporting the indigent, which is a legitimate charge on the people of the state and its various subdivisions. Id.

This section is not unconstitutional as discriminatory; the classification of counties being reasonable. Id.

Under this act creating a presumption in cases of personal injuries to an employee in the course of his employment, and placing upon an employer declining to come within the act the burden of proof to rebut this presumption, there was no error in charging that, in determining whether the presumption had been overcome, the jury might properly consider all evidence, both that of plaintiff and that of defendant. *O'Brien v. BUREAU OF INDUSTRY, AGRICULTURE, AND IRRIGATION 4486-4494. These sections creating the state bureau, and the office of commissioner of industry, agriculture and irrigation, and defining its objects and purposes, do not, by section 7, appropriating $25,000 to carry out "the purposes of this act," and providing that all disbursements from it shall be on certificate of the commissioner, approved by the state board of examiners, indicate that such appropriation includes the salary of the commissioner, which section 6 fixes and declares payable in equal monthly installments by the state treasurer on warrants drawn by the state controller; Const. art. 5, sec. 21, expressly excluding salaries of officers "fixed by law" from the claims against the state which the board of examiners shall pass on, and "purposes" indicating something to be accomplished rather than an existing fact, so that the bureau and office of commissioner were but means for the subsequent accomplishment of the purposes of the act. State ex rel. Norcross v. Eggers, 35 Nev. 250, 255-257 (128 P. 986).

4491. In the absence of anything to the contrary in the statute, this section fixing the salary of the commissioner of industry, agriculture and irrigation, and directing that it be payable in equal monthly installments by the state treasurer on warrants drawn by the state controller, is a sufficient appropriation out of the state general fund. State ex rel. Norcross v. Eggers, 35 Nev. 250, 255, 256 (128 P. 986).
